Queens Manor And Morrell Farms Take Western Championship Holstein Show

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Richard Keene judged more than 200 entries in the 1989 Western Pennsylvania Championship Holstein Show held Friday, July 28, at the Warren County Fairgrounds.

Morrell Farms took home the premier breeder banner of the annual show and premier exhibitor banner was awarded to Queens Manor Holsteins.

Tide Farm Roxmary Alta, was sired by Leadfield Columbus-ET and dam was Ebe-Tide Rosalin Alta.

The reserve grand champion was C Norwood Senator Janie, a 7-year-old cow owned by E. Doeberier, R. Miner and Grac-Glen and bred by Norwood Holsteins.

Judge Keene named a bull calf champion bull of the show. Leadfield Sentinel is owned by Queens Manor Holsteins and Leadfield Associates. The reserve champion Dairy farmers Max and Eleanor Isenberg of Alexandria (Huntingdon County) show off the reflective roadside signs that will be placed strategically along the highways. Six of the signs were recently purchased by Huntingdon County's Holstein and Dairy Promotion Clubs. The signs emphasize the importance of using dairy products. To learn more about Isenbergs and other ways of promoting the dairy industry, see Lou Ann Good's story on page B14.

Beef Champion Goes To Birthday Boy

BY LISA RISSER

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — August 2, 1989, will go down in Brian Kreider's scrapbook as one of his best birthdays ever. The Lebanon youth celebrated his 15th birthday with the grand championship in the market steer competition at the Lebanon Fair.

Brian Kreider celebrated having the grand champion market steer at the Lebanon Fair and his birthday on Wednesday. His steer, Rootus, is an April Fool's Day calf.

Marcia Summers was crowned Maryland Dairy Princess. See Joyce Bupp's story on page B12.

NEW ALEXANDRIA (Westmoreland Co.) — William Smith from the New Alexandria Ag. 4-H Club has gone "hog wild" getting ready for the Westmoreland County Fair, Aug. 20-26. A first year showman, Smith isn't sure he will like to shave his pig to get ready for the ring. But as you can see, he has already made a pet out of his project. Smith's cousin, William Selembo, who lives on a neighboring farm is getting ready for his first pig show experience too. Both young men say they like sausage.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices weakened this afternoon and settled from unchanged to 1 cent lower after a thin session with prices confined to narrow ranges. Pressure on the opening was attributed to news that Mexico had passed on their tender for 250,000 metric tonnes along with reports of lower cash markets. Cash markets were weakened by heavy loan redemptions with the USDA reporting redemptions last week of 40 million bushels. Ideal weather conditions kept the market on the defensive along with some concern over Federal action on their investigation into trading practices. September closed 1 cent lower at $2.21-1/2 after trading in a range today from $2.21 to $2.23.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures prices drifted lower today from 1-1/2 cents on the August 1990 option to 8 cents on the May. Today was another "contract low" day with late weakness seen in advance of the indictment news from the Feds on their investigation into commodity trading abuses. Prices moved in narrow ranges most of the session with August sliding to its fourth consecutive contract low under pressure from weaker cash markets. Further pressure was attributed to news that processors had adequate inventory to carry them to harvest. Further bearish news came from the latest weather reports, calling for ideal growing conditions. November closed 7-1/2 cents lower today at $5.73 after trading in a range from $5.72 to $5.80-1/2. August traded to $6.08-1/4 after making a new low at $6.07-1/2.

The trade sentiment was generally steady. Prices were unchanged from prior week. Offers from producers were adequate for current needs. However, buyers were awaiting further market developments before pricing flocks scheduled for pickup next week. Processor schedules were irregular and ranged part time to full. Demand for canner pack product was fairly good but further processors were cautious buyers.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer Market

Thursday, August 3, 1989

Movement of ready to cook whole fryers was generally fair but buyer interest for additional product was very light. Supplies were fully adequate for trade needs. In the parts complex, supplies of cutlets were ample and being pushed to clear, other parts were still more than adequate but some improvement in buyer interest was noted. Less than trucklot asking prices were generally unchanged at 56-64 cents. Live supplies were adequate. Average live weights were in a desirable range. Today's slaughter schedules ranged moderately heavy to heavy. The trade sentiment was barely steady to weak.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG 7-13, 1989
Buchan warm spell.

Aug 8, 1923 Benny Goodman begins a musical career at the age of 14 as band leader on an excursion boat... Hayfever season begins August 11, as Dog Days end. Average length of days for the week 14 hours 7 minutes... Aug. 11, 1894 Kelly's Hobo Army of unemployed malcontents is driven across the Potomac by federal troops... Aug. 13, 1951 birthday of Dan Fogelberg, composer and singer... Love is sweet, but tastes best with bread. Lips however rosy must be fed.

Ask the Old Farmer: What remedies do you know for hiccups? H. P. Conn.
Drinking from the wrong side of a cup, startling the victim, standing on one's head, or a drop of oil of caraway on a sugar lump, dissolved in the mouth. If all else fails, hold your breath.

Home Hints: Radish juice is said to be good for hoarseness.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rainy and cool, then sunny and warm for a brief contrast. Rain in the south counterbalances sun in the north, go forth! Showers coming.
Greater New York-New Jersey: Showers and coolish, then clearing and warmish. Stormish with thundershowers; cooler; finally sunny again and warm.
Middle Atlantic Coastal: Sunny and warm weather but thundershowers are on its tail. Clearing and warm for the week's end, so happy trails...
Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Seasonable, that's reasonable. Showers, especially heavy in the south. Don't be down at the mouth. Sunny and hot.

OPINION

Support Break-In Legislation

"We are absolutely opposed to the use of violence as a vehicle for the expression of political viewpoints." Those were the words expressed by David R. Brubaker, executive vice president of PennAg Industries Association, in voicing the Association's endorsement of legislation recently introduced by Sen. Jesse Helms (R., N.C.) that would make it a federal crime to break into a farm or agricultural research facility for the purposes of removing animals, vandalism or disrupting the activities of the facilities.

The Helms bill would be a "companion" to that offered by Sen. Howell Heflin (D., Ala.) that provides similar protection to biomedical research facilities. These bills would not amend the Animal Welfare Act, but would create a free-standing section in the federal criminal code.

"We live in a democratic society with institutions that have evolved for the debate of public policy questions and the resolution of conflicts between groups and individuals," stated Brubaker. "The First Amendment guarantees the right of each of us to express our own points of view, and ensures our right to protest peacefully. Terroristic threats and bombings are criminal acts that deserve the strict and severe treatment of law enforcement authorities."

PennAg Industries Association is an Ephrata-based agribusiness trade association representing more than 510 firms. This legislation would support the rights of members to engage in their business operations knowing that terrorists will be severely punished.

We're in deep trouble if our society condones or ignores violent actions against farmers. It does so to the detriment not only of agriculture, but to the very fabric of reason and of a free society.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Observe Poultry Month

The Lancaster County Commissioners have proclaimed August as Poultry Month. So, this is a real good time to reflect on the impact this important industry has on the economy of Lancaster County. Poultry products in Lancaster County provide nourishment for over seven million people. The value of the poultry products sold totaled over $170 million. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 people are employed in the many different areas of the poultry industry in Lancaster County.

The industry is strong because of the dedicated, well managed poultry farms along with a highly efficient and supportive allied industry. Eggs and poultry meat are two of the most nourishing foods in your health diet. Let's be supportive of this important part of our agricultural economy during Poultry Month.

To Plan For Fall Grain Seeding

The time is fast approaching for our wheat and barley growers to be making plans for their fall seeding. It is most important to consider that most of the wheat and barley harvested this year was of very poor quality; very low test weight, poor yields, molds and the possibility of toxins. This is one year that certified seed would be highly suggested in an effort to avoid these problems. The extra cost for certified seed is well worth it to help insure a good crop next summer.

Equally important, do not plant wheat or barley in the same field this fall; the fungus can remain in the soil for up to five years, according to soil scientists.

Plan your seed needs now so you are ready to plant when the conditions are right.

To Renovate Old Pastures

Late August and early September are good times to establish a new pasture, or renovate an old one. In fact, this is a good time of the year to make any pasture or lawn seeding. The old sod should be destroyed by cultivation or by a herbicide. After the soil has been treated with lime and fertilizer, according to a complete soil test, it can be seeded and should produce good grazing for next summer.

The advantage of a fall seeding is to permit time for the new plants to become established before the 1990 hot weather arrives. The cool, moist fall months should give the plants a good start. The Agronomy Guide lists some good seeding recommendations.

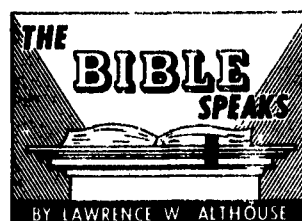

To Stay In Touch With Creditors

Maintaining a close friendship with your creditors and telling them about your financial status won't likely ease your debts, but will ease your creditors' mind.

Creditors get concerned when someone owes a sizeable bill and they never see them. By staying close to your creditors, you may be able to write another payment plan. Some bankers will renegotiate the payment schedule and add a year or two, thus cutting down the monthly or annual payments.

You may also need to visit about refinancing. In most cases you will be paying a higher rate of interest and it won't do that much good, but it still deserves a look. Sometimes by refinancing through another source you can often obtain a lower rate of interest. It's worth the time and effort to visit with your creditors.

Background Scripture:

Judges 16

Devotional Reading:

Ephesians 6: 10-18a.

The story of Samson is an example of God's gift of life ignored and wasted. Samson is not a heroic figure, but a tragic one, for he had the potential to be so much more than he became.

Born as a gift of God to Manoah, a member of the tribe of Dan, and his nameless, barren wife, Samson had a very special beginning. Even before he was born, an angel of the Lord informed his mother that Samson was to be a Nazirite, a person set apart for God by special vows. So, Samson grew up to be a man of prodigious physical strength and the purpose of that strength was to help the people of Israel.

POWER WASTED

Unfortunately, Samson did not use his power wisely. Furious that Timnah, his Philistine wife, had revealed the meaning of his riddle, Samson "went down to Ashkelon and killed thirty men..." (14:19). Judges is careful to tell us that he want to Ashkelon after "the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him," but there is nothing admirable, let alone godly, about his deeds. Still, terrible was this act, his contemporaries sang his praises for it. Although this is an ancient story of long ago, there is something disturbingly contemporary about it: the adulation of power, even when it is wrongly used. Our leaders bend over backwards to assure us that they are "tough" when it comes to dealing with those whom we regard as our enemies.

Another indication of Samson's frittering away of his God-given potential is his penchant for dallying with questionable women. His parents did all they could to dissuade him from marrying outside his Israelite heritage. So, his desire to have this Philistine woman as his bride appears a willful, arrogant act. No one was going to tell him whom he could or couldn't marry! Later, after this disastrous marriage, Samson visited a prostitute in Gaza — an action even more reprehensible than his marriage to a Philistine. Because he is the powerful man of supernatural strength, he thinks he is above common morality. And that has a contemporary sound to it, too, doesn't it? When we have lots of power at our fingertips, we think of ourselves as being specially privileged.

POWER FOR VENGEANCE
Samson has a third and even more disastrous encounter with a woman. We all know the story of Delilah and how she finally wheedles the truth out of Samson, betraying his secret to the Philistines. Once again, as he is led away sightless and powerless, one cannot help but think: "What a waste of the power of God!"

And does Samson learn from his experiences? No, he does not. Instead of acknowledging to God that he has sinned and wants to be freed so that he may begin to use his power as it was intended, Samson prays so that he might wreak vengeance on his enemies. Note, please, that he has not used his power to help Israel; all his exploits far have been in his deplorable personal matters. Note, too, that, instead of repenting of his own weakness, he holds the Philistines responsible for the predicament he's in.

Since he did not get his way, instead of doing something constructive with his power, he will use it vindictively to drag his enemies into the grave with him. I can't help thinking of those who, with their hands on the buttons to unleash nuclear warheads, might just as likely decide to bring us all down in one final human abuse of power. It is then that I realize just how weak is the exercise of any power but of the spirit.

Editor:

I sat down to watch television last Sunday night and got SO upset! The show was fine, but the advertisement made me crazy. Here were a man and woman lolling around in this beautiful bed waiting for their coffee to perk so they could get out of that bed and face the day. Actually, I think the woman was doing most of the lolling and the husband was making the coffee -- (the coffee dealer is no fool. He knows full well who's going to go out and select that can of coffee.) Anyhow, when the woman took a drink, there

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE:

Wheat futures prices closed higher again today, settling from unchanged on the May option to 2-3/4 cents higher on the September and December options. Price support was attributed to talk of increased demand with Turkey interested in 375,000 metric tonnes and other smaller deals in the works. The USDA announced a sale of 110,000 metric tonnes of hard red wheat to Iraq after today's close. News that an announcement would be made today concerning indictments on the investigation into trading abuses at the CBT kept many traders on the sidelines. September settled today at $3.90-1/4 after trading in a range from $3.87-1/4 to $3.91-1/2.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE:

Live cattle closed sharply higher while feeders posted moderate gains. Price support was linked to a firmer tone in the cash markets and late short covering. Prices for fed cattle today were $.50 higher with today's rally in futures expected to boost cash prices to $72.50 by the end of the week. Opening support was tied to an increase in beef cut out values yesterday. Feeders were higher on spillover support from live cattle with gains pared in the spot August by commission house sales.

ACRES HOG UPDATE:

Live hog futures settled nicely higher this afternoon with gains posted from $.38 to $1.23/cwt higher. Support was attributed to firming cash fundamentals and commissionhouse fund related short-covering. Early strength was tied to reports of lighter than expected runs and expectations for a continued strengthening this week in cash markets. Bellies closed higher on spillover from live hogs and short-covering in response to ideas the pit was oversold. Steady quotes midday added further support. October live hogs were boosted by technical buying after buy stops were activated near $39.75/cwt.

Milk Market News

BY TOM JURCHAK
County Agent
SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.)
Surprise Again

For the second time in three months dairy price forecasters were surprised by increases in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series. After dropping $1.29 from December to March the M - W increased 11 cents in April without ever getting down to the support price as was expected. A three cent increase in May was viewed largely as a market adjustment but in June it took a leap of 21 cents largely on the strength of increasing cheese sales and lower milk production in the Upper Midwest. And all of this during the Spring months which hasn't occurred since 1980. This latest increase now puts the M - W at $11.33 for 3.5 test milk. This 35 cent increase in three months now makes the M - W 99 cents higher than last June and the highest for the month since 1984, the year of the Milk Diversion Program when the M - W made its record high of $12.72 in December.

Prices at the National cheese Exchange have been increasing weekly from $1.18 in March to $1.35 by the end of June. That was 20 cents above the support price with every indication that increases would continue through the summer. In June the support price for 3.5 milk was $10.83 but in July it falls to $10.33 and if the M - W price holds as expected, it will be one dollar above the support price.

What's Happening

What's happening is similar to what happened last fall when cheese buyers were stocking up for the year end holidays and got the price up to $1.35 or 20 cents over the support price as it is now. They thought milk production would fall because of the drought but instead it went up. From January to March they sold off their inventories and the price dropped to $1.18 but so did milk production in Minnesota and Wisconsin as forage supplies were exhausted and feed prices increased. Meanwhile, commercial demand for cheese was increasing nearly ten percent in the first quarter of this year so cheese prices started back up again in March and are now the same as they were in December of last year — $1.35 or 20 cents over the support price.

An important part of the reason that cheese prices went up to $1.35 last fall and again this Spring is that there are no Commodity Credit Corporation stocks to sell to keep a lid on market prices. The giveaway programs, particularly the Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program, not only got rid of the CCC cheese but when that source dried up commercial demand increased. The big difference this year is that cheese prices peaked last year in the Fall, as you would expect, but this year they are back to the same high in June when they are supposed to be at their lowest. If the seasonal trends of the past show up this year cheese prices could exceed the high of $1.44 set back in 1984.

Minnesota - Wisconsin

Another difference this year is that while milk production has been increasing nationally by two to three percent, Minnesota and Wisconsin production has been dropping since January by one or two percent and in May it was down three percent which was 80 million pounds in that two state area. Evidently they had been using up their forage supplies with the hope that they would last until this Spring. However, while we were getting too much rain they weren't getting enough to bridge the gap between last year's supply and this year's crop. Rains finally came in May but it may have been too little, too late. If production continues to fall in that area cheese buyers will have to continue building inventories now before milk supplies drop even further.

The reason milk supplies are so important in Minnesota and Wisconsin is because they produce 25 percent of all the milk in the country and makes 60 percent of the cheddar cheese. In addition the M - W price each month is the Basic Formula Price used in calculating Class prices in Federal Milk Marketing Orders. Class prices determine what the handlers pay in each marketing area and from the prices handlers pay comes the Uniform Price or blend price that farmers receive. So, while farmers in a particular market may get over order prices from their handlers the Federal Order price is first determined by the M - W price.

Local Prices

So, with the M - W increasing the last three months you're beginning to see the effect on your milk for June deliveries. Class prices that handlers paid in Order 2 increased 11 cents for Class I milk — reflecting the 11 cent increase in the M - W in April — and 22 cents for Class II milk showing the June M - W increase. With the best Class I utilization for June in 10 years in Order 2 and a payment of 40 cents a hundred for the Louisville Plan you still got a Uniform Price of $11.62 which was 20 cents better than last month and 96 cents better than last year. That's the largest increase over last year so far in 1989. Increases in the blend price will continue at least through July and August as the higher M - W prices feed into the federal order prices. In addition, there will be no more Louisville Plan payments in Order 2 and that alone will add 40 cents to milk checks. With predictions falling below actual prices so far this year there's good reason to hope that prices for the remainder of the year may match the highs made in the last quarter of 1988 which were the best since the Milk Diversion Program and the Dairy Termination Program.

Weather Worries

In addition to the surprising increases in cheese sales and exports of skim milk powder, the weather man has provided a lot of problems for people trying to predict future prices for milk. It appears that conditions generally are bad enough over a wide enough area to seriously affect the milk supply into next year. However, forecasters were fooled in 1988 because milk production continued to climb over the previous year in spite of a drought and higher feed prices. But this is the second year of bad weather for farmers and back to back occurrences are much worse than one problem year. This year it certainly isn't a drought problem for everyone but it is a problem. If you can't make hay or plant corn the reason may not be important. And it's certainly a big enough problem to move Congress to pass legislation for emergency assistance before they adjourn on August 5. U.S. Department of Agriculture crop production estimates released last week ought to provide enough incentive to stimulate action but we'll have to wait and see if it will be an extension of last year's Drought Assistance Act or something new and different. Don't count on dairy price support increases this time, however, with market prices already a dollar higher.

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board will hold a hearing on August 9 to consider the extension of the $1.05 increase on Class I milk regulated by the Board from August 31 to October 31. It would appear that dairy farmers have more information to use now than they had at the last hearing but they'll have to change the name from drought aid to disaster aid.

Lebanon Fair Showcases County's Finest Ju-Vindale Tradition Bobbie Wins Supreme Champion

BY PAT PURCELL

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — At 9 a.m. Tuesday 4-H'ers, FFA'ers and open show competitors began vying for ribbons, rosettes and trophies at the Lebanon Area Fair, but the trophy most of them were hoping to take home would not be awarded for more than 13 hours later.

With the culmination of the Brown Swiss show and after a 15 minute break for milking, all the champions made that last stroll around the ring just a few minutes after 10 p.m. For Stephanie Wagner of Ju-Vindale Holsteins, the wait was worth it.

Ju-Vindale Tradition Bobbie, a 5-year-old dry cow, took home the 4-H & FFA Dale Maulfair, Jr. Memorial Award. Bobbie impressed show judge Jim Burdette during the Holstein competition with her sharpness, power and strength; tremendous udder and excellent feet and legs. William Leshner, Brown Swiss judge repeated those words as he selected her as the supreme champion.

Vince and Juliet Wagner own Ju-Vindale Holsteins in Myerstown. Their 63 cows average 21,000 pounds and hold a BAA of more than 105. Bobbie as a 2-year-old produced 21,228 pounds with 3.3 percent test and as a 3-year-old produced 22,206 pounds of milk with a 3.4 percent test.

Holstein 4-H and FFA Show

Grand champion of the 4-H show was Stephanie Wagner's 5-year-old dry cow which was sired by Sweet-Haven Tradition. Bobbie's dam is Ju-Vindale Dutchoe Bonnie. Vince and Juliet Wagner are the breeders.

Dale Maulfair (left) presents the Dale Maulfair, Jr. Memorial Award to Stephanie Wagner, with the Lebanon Area Fair Supreme Dairy Cow. Lebanon County Dairy Princess, Kynel Bombgardner and Little Miss Dairy Princess Alicia Mase presented ribbons throughout the dairy show.

Now There's A Farmer In Your Area Who Can Make Any Business Loan The Bank Can.

Since 1917, farmers have taken kindly to Farm Credit because we're owned and controlled by people who really understand your business.

Farmers. Just like yourself. Thing was, we didn't exactly lay out a Sunday dinner spread of loans. Our menu was limited, and we knew it.

So recently we overhauled our lending system. We now offer competitive rates and options for loans we never could offer before.

Adjustable rate mortgages.

Revolving lines of credit.

FARM CREDIT

Nobody knows the field better.

Terms of 30 days to 30 years. There's even a variety of services including insurance plans.

Some things do remain the same, however. The Farm Credit loan officer you talk to still makes most of the decisions.

And chances are he can do it faster than most bankers can say "bureaucracy."

So think about this for a moment. Who would you rather deal with for your next loan? A banker who merely wants your business. Or a farmer who knows it.

champion rosette was 18-year-old Kelly Bachman of Annville.

Brian led out a 1,245-pound Simmental-Red Angus crossbred steer that judge Bill Holloway of York called a "real meat wagon." The April Fool's Day calf, named Roofus, looked nice to Brian when he saw him at Leon Arnold's farm.

The son of Richard and Carol Kreider, Brian is a sixth-year 4-H'er. He plans to bank his money for his college education.

Kelly's reserve champion, Eastwood, was the heavyweight champion. The 1,300-pound, purebred Angus was purchased from GH2 Angus in York. He impressed Kelly as being big and strong topped with a lot of muscle. "He was a flashy kind of calf," she added.

Kelly, the daughter of Harry and Sandy Bachman, has shown Eastwood in about six or seven junior shows already, and in each he has been first in his class. Last year Kelly showed the grand champion steer.

Wolff Says Council Will Play Vital Role

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff said today the newly formed International Trade Advisory Council will play an important marketing role for Pennsylvania's agricultural industry.

"I am proud of the Casey Administration's accomplishments, but we must recognize that the private sector played an important part," said Wolff. "I hope the Advisory Council will help the department build on our International Trade Program, which is the most ambitious in the Northeast United States."

The International Trade Advisory Council held its first meeting in Harrisburg last week. The council, comprised of leaders from private sector companies that actively export agricultural products, will help direct the Agriculture Department's efforts to assist Pennsylvania companies that export or express interest in entering the international marketplace.

Pennsylvania agricultural and food exports were at record high levels for the second consecutive year in 1988. The value of exports has increased by over $68 million since 1986 and totaled $236.8 million last year.

"The department represented more than 300 Pennsylvania companies at 15 trade shows and directly negotiated the sale of over $4 million in Pennsylvania products," said Wolff. "Our Export Trade directory now lists 873 companies interested in exporting."

The Department of Agriculture will sponsor an international trade conference in Philadelphia November 13-15.

Huber Completes National Pork Leadership Institute

DES MOINES, IA — Floyd Huber of Leola is one of 30 young adults to complete the National Pork Producers Council's (NPPC) first Pork Leadership Institute held July 20-25. Huber was selected by the Pennsylvania pork association as the state representative to the Institute and traveled to Des Moines, Iowa and Washington, D.C. for the program. Huber is the son of Ivan and Fern Huber.

While at the Institute, the young adults discussed important pork industry issues with producer leaders, NPPC staff and outside experts on subjects such as agricultural legislation initiatives, quality assurance, consumer trends and animal welfare. They were challenged to express factual viewpoints of complex and sometimes emotional issues.

"We developed this program to help prepare these young people to be future leaders of our industry," said Glen Keppy, a Davenport, Iowa producer who serves as chairman of the Institute's Advisory Committee. "The Institute gave them a greater awareness of the processes that affect the pork industry and its customer, the consumer."

While at NPPC headquarters in Des Moines, the Institute participants explored the type of consumer information being provided to the public on pork related issues.

After travelling to the nation's capital, the group toured a major distributor of fresh retail pork in the Washington, D.C./Baltimore area. They also visited a major metropolitan supermarket to view the latest in retail meat case displays and pork merchandising.

While in Washington, D.C., the Institute participants received updates on national legislative and regulatory issues affecting the pork industry from agriculture staff representatives of members of Congress, USDA and NPPC's own Washington, D.C. staff. Cooper Evans, President Bush's Assistant for Agricultural Policy, also met with the group in the old Executive Office Building in the White House complex.

Along with informational programs, the group toured various sites in Des Moines and Washing-

In the year following the Institute, each of the participants will work within their state to inform the general public about issues that affect the pork industry.

DHIA Supervisors

year was no exception, and a number of hardworking "testers" were praised for their efforts at the banquet on July 28 at the Penn State Sheraton. The evening proved to be an exciting one with an unnamed Lebanon County Tester posing as a quite attractive Holstein, and the Pennsylvania Dutch humor of Melvin Horst leaving the crowd in stitches.

The most prestigious award, the Superior Supervisor Award, was presented to Jay Risser of Lancaster County. Mr. Risser grew up on a family farm in that county and began working for DHIA in the 1950's. The award is presented to the supervisor who has created good public relations for the DHIA, has kept up-to-date records, and has at least 20 years of service with DHIA. Mr. Risser received a plaque and a check for $100.

Receiving the Dexter Putnam Award was Harold Lindecamp, also of Lancaster County. This award, which was presented by Mrs. Emily Putnam, goes to the supervisor with the fewest errors per 1,000 cows tested. Mr. Lindecamp tested 38,301 cows and

The Carl Hollinger Award is presented to the tester who excels at neatness, accuracy, and cooperation with the central lab. The employees of the central lab select this winner. Receiving an engraved desk set for the Carl Hollinger Award was Ruth Ann Moyer of Bucks County.

The Rookie of the Year Award, as the name implies, goes to an outstanding new tester. This year's honoree was Brenda Bingmaheimer of Bedford County.

Distinguished Service Awards are given on a regional basis, with the outstanding supervisor from each region being selected. These honors went to Marianne Walter of York County, David Hitchcock of Warren County, Patti Johnson of Lancaster County, William Baucher of Luzerne County and Judy McMullen of Fulton County.

Years of Service Awards were received by a number of individuals, with Gerald Miller being honored for his 45 years with DHIA. R. Walter Stydinger and Harry Fritz received 40 year awards, and

Ned Boy Daughter Sets Record At $41,000

BY MARIANNE WALKER
Centre Co. Correspondent
UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Art-Acres Ned Boy Tex B-ET was brought into the ring before a large crowd at the annual Sire Power Sale held July 26 at Penn State's Ag Arena. The bidding was fast and furious, and at about $35,000, a hush fell over the arena. Steadily, the price climbed past the $40,000 mark. There were plenty of Ned-Boy daughters offered at this sale, but none created the stir that this three-year-old consignment of Arthur Rhoderick's did. The cow has a first-year record of 21,230 pounds of milk, with 4.3% fat and 3.6% protein. She comes from a high protein family. Her dam, Art-Acres Tex Cally is an EX with an Excellent Mammary, and a fifth-year record of 31,560 with 4.4%, 3.2% protein. Her maternal granddam, Art-Acres Elevation Callie, has a lifetime record of 157,790 pounds of milk. Art-Acres Ned Boy Tex B-ET is a Very Good, 87 pt., and she sold bred to the famous May Tradition Cleitus. Presuming that she is carrying a calf, Sire Power has a contract to purchase that animal. She sold with embryo contracts from several sources. The purchaser of this high-selling cow was Spoon Creek Holsteins; Walter, Louis and Robert Doughty of Cochoc-ton, Ohio. Art-Acres is located in Hagerstown, Maryland.

Selling second high at the sale was Brookstead Jessie, a five-year-old, EX 91 pt. with an Excellent Mammary. She was the All-Maryland Four Year Old in 1988; her record for that year was 27,990 pounds of milk with 4.5% butterfat. She was bred on September 29 to O-C-S Dairy Elevation Val Phil, and is sired by Sunnycraft Chief Spirit, an Excellent, 91 pt. Her dam is Brookstead Amy, a Good, 78 pt., whose sire is Mor-Clem Bootmaker Clem. Brookstead Jessie was a consignment of O. Clayton Smith and Marion Andrew of Jefferson, Maryland. The purchase was made by Tom Schaeffer of Minnesota.

A final bid of $5,900 sealed the purchase of Yarsons Haven Count Carol-ET, an offering of Yarsons Holsteins of Wellington, Ohio. This July 13, 1988, consignment is the daughter of Modik Valiant Count-ET; her dam is Yarsons Apollo Haven Al-Ma-ET, a 2E, 91 pt., whose fifth-year production record was 33,270 pounds of milk with 4.5% butterfat. A maternal sister to this consignment, Yarsons Apollo Chairman Angel. EX, with an Excellent Mammary is the dam of a 1988 All-American Bull Calf. A full sister, Yarsons Apollo Haven Angel-ET, another Excellent, had a fourth-year production of 34,580 with 4.4% butterfat. Yarsons Haven Count Carol-ET was purchased by Rumsey Light, Jr., of Aldie, Virginia.

Bringing $5,600 was a First Choice Female from two pregnancies from a May 8, 1989 transfer or one egg transferred on May 26, 1989. The dam is Lylehaven Mark Summer Wind-ET, a Very Good, 86 pt. consignment of Lylehaven Farm of E. Montpelier, Vermont. The granddam is Hyalite Valiant Sunshine, a 2E, 94 pt., who was the 1st Dry 3 & 4 year old at the Ontario Spring Show in 1985. The sire of this choice female is Lylehaven Acres-ET, a Very Good 86 pt. who is in use with Sire Power. The purchase was made by The Summer Syndicate of Boston, Massachusetts.

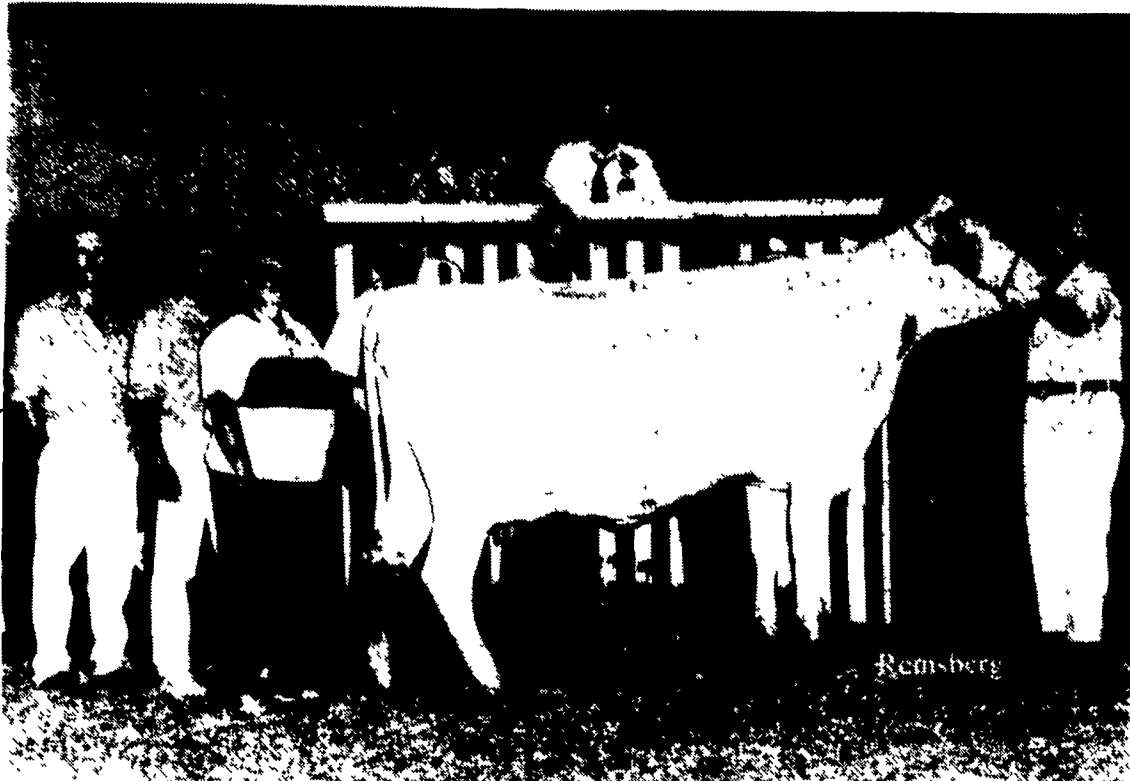

A Marlin Hoff consignment, Coldsprings Leader Paria, sold for $5,550 to Pen-Col Farms of Millville, Pennsylvania. This four-year-old was bred on February 25 to Kingstead Valiant Tab. She is a Good-Plus, 84 pt. with a second-year record of 22,900 pounds produced, 3.5% butterfat, 3.3% protein. Her sire is Kinglea Leader, a Good-Plus 82 pt. and her dam is Coldsprings Bell Naomi, a Very Good, 86 pt. with a third-year record of 28,310 pounds of milk with 3.4% butterfat.

Owen Martin of Hagerstown, Maryland, was the purchaser of HM-Longview Tong Suzy, an offering of Longview Farm. Harold and Mary Long, Thurmont, Maryland. Selling for $5,000, she is a four-year-old Very Good, with an Excellent Mammary and a third-year record of 20,920 pounds of milk with 3.5% protein. She is sired by Opperman Tong-ET, whose sire is Marshfield Elevation Tony. Her dam is HM-Longview Blueprint Shirley, a Very Good, 86 pt., whose fifth-year record was 18,020 with 3.7% butterfat. HM-Longview Tong Suzy was bred on April 23 to Relay Arise SWD Vanguard 02-ET.

Misty-Crest Ned Boy Tavet, a December, 1986, cow of the Hotenstein Brothers of New Albany, New York, sold for $4,000. She is a Very Good with a Very Good Mammary, and was bred April 26 to Black Star. Her Sire is Whittier Farms Ned Boy, and her dam is Misty Crest Valiant Tavia, an Excellent, 90 pt., who is sired by S-W-D Valiant, and whose dam is Misty Crest Elevation.

A consignment of William E. Terhune, Jr., of Belvidere, New Jersey, Bi-Jo Count Lindy, a 1987 cow, brought $3,200. She was bred on January 20 to Fisher-Place Mandingo-Twin. Her sire is Modik Valiant Count-ET, the son of S-W-D Valiant, and the grandson of Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief and Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation. Her dam is Bi-Jo Valiant Linnette, a Very Good, 88 pt., and a daughter of S-W-D Valiant. The granddam is Bi-Jo Elevation Linn, an Elevation daughter, who is a 2E, 91 pt., with an Excellent Mammary.

A total of 82 lots were sold at the Sire Power Sale, with the average being $2,792. Eighteen Sire Power sires were represented by the offerings. The sale was co-managed by Remsburg Sale Service of Jefferson, Maryland and Backus Associates, Inc., of Elizabethtown, PA. DuWayne Kutz was the Sale Manager.

Art-Acres Ned Boy Tex B-ET took the bidding to $41,000 at the Sire Power sale. Strong Dairy Product Demand Credited For Rising Milk Prices

LOUISVILLE, KY. — Strong demand for milk and dairy products may soon result in higher prices for consumers, particularly in the Southeast where milk supplies are tighter than normal for this time of the year.

August prices for fluid milk announced this week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) increased by 21 cents per hundredweight over July and 35 cents over May levels. These prices are the minimum prices fluid milk processors must pay for farm milk in areas which are regulated by federal milk marketing orders. The 21-cent-per-hundredweight increase was the largest increase over the previous month ever announced for August.

While it is likely consumers will see the first of several price increases for milk and dairy products beginning August 1, the actual amount of the increase will be determined by the various retailers.

"Processors in Minnesota and Wisconsin (the nation's leading milk production and cheese manufacturing region) are concerned about generating enough milk to keep their plants full and are encouraging this through higher prices," noted Will Blanchard, director of USDA's dairy division. "The demand seems to be there for manufactured milk products."

Blanchard credited the remnants of last year's drought for helping curtail this year's production. He also credited changing world markets which have resulted in record exports of U.S. nonfat dry milk powder late last year and thus far this year.

American cheese usage increased 9.1 percent for the first quarter of 1989 and cheese sales have continued strong since that time.

While the announced price increases will affect all milk marketed in the United States, the situation will be even more severe in the Southeast where milk is in even shorter supply.

"The normal decline in milk production which we begin experiencing in late summer and fall is occurring earlier this year," said Dr. Albert J. Ortego Jr., senior vice president of Dairymen, Inc., the nation's third largest dairy cooperative serving 17 Southeast, Middle Atlantic and Midwestern states. "It's already requiring more milk to be transported into the Southeast than we have in the past."

Ortego said he anticipates that milk prices will continue to move upward from now until winter and could reach a level as high as last year.

Swine Vets Advocate Rotating Feed Antibiotics

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Most swine veterinarians like the idea of rotating feed antibiotics in the grower-finisher phase.

By putting healthy hogs on a gut-resident, production antibiotic such as bacitracin methylene disalicylate (BMD) and rotating every three to four weeks to a therapeutic additive such as chlortetracycline (CTC), producers can often reduce feed costs by $4-$6 per ton, without compromising on herd health or efficiency.

In fact, in recent field trials in the Midwest with more than 900 hogs, grower-finishers on a three-week/one-week, BMD/CTC rotation logged a better average daily gain (1.53 pounds versus 1.46 pounds) and feed conversion (3.31 pounds versus 3.41 pounds) than hogs fed CTC continuously.

Furthermore, research at the University of Liverpool suggests that feeding BMD can enhance the performance of CTC and oxytetracycline in the treatment of certain respiratory diseases in swine.

But like any new concept, antibiotic rotation has sparked some debate — not about its intentions or efficacy, but how producers should go about implementing the program.

"It's a good program — certainly better than feeding CTC continuously," says Dr. Bernie Curran, a veterinarian in Eldridge, Iowa. "But personally, I don't like the idea of an arbitrary rotation."

"I think producers would be much better off sticking with a growth-promoting antibiotic all the way to market — unless a respiratory problem comes along. Only then would I rotate to a tetracycline."

Dr. Roy Schultz of Avoca, Iowa, likes to take the same approach. "The three-week/one-week rotation is just a model for producers to follow," he explains. "If the hogs are doing well, they can probably leave the growth promotant in the feed for a little longer and shuttle in the therapeutic drug on an as-needed basis."

But Dr. John Bush of Flora, Ind., has a different view. He likes establishing a formal rotation program because "it gets a man thinking about his pigs."

Smiling, he adds, "If I tell him I want CTC in the feed for one week and BMD in the feed for three or four weeks, it forces him to think about what he's putting into his feed."

Meanwhile, in Illinois, Dr. Dennis Mefford of Oneida says he, too, wants producers to put more emphasis on growth-promoting antibiotics. But whether they establish a formal rotation may depend on who's grinding the feed.

"If only one person is responsible for mixing the feed, a formal rotation can work very well," he says. "But if you have several people involved and it's not well organized, there's a chance for a mix-up. In that situation, you might be better off sticking with the growth promotant and shuttling in the therapeutic additives as you need it."

Seipt Speaks At Franklin Holstein Day

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin County Correspondent

NEWBURG (Franklin Co.) — The newly-elected president of the National Holstein-Friesian Association spoke to local farm families August 1 at the Franklin County Holstein Club's Annual Field Day.

Donald Seipt discussed two resolutions passed by the membership at the recent National Holstein Convention in Minneapolis.

The first resolution, which was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, stated that the Association should become involved in the pursuit of a farmer-controlled supply management plan. This plan should be incorporated into the 1990 Farm Bill, according to the resolution. Seipt added that he thinks that any change from the present system of price supports will come slowly.

The second resolution called for the Food and Drug Administration not to approve BST for commercial use until independent research has determined consumer reaction to its use and the impact on the dairy industry itself. The farmer-controlled supply management plan mentioned in the first resolution should be in place at the time of BST approval for commercial use.

Seipt, who milks 86 cows in partnership with his sons on Keystone Farm, Easton, encouraged farmers to register all eligible calves, not just those in the top half of the herd.

"That $6 investment will look pretty small when the calves turn out to be super-performers," he said. He added that only 60 percent of calf registrations come in at the lowest fee.

The national association is "alive and well," according to Seipt. The past two years have been excellent financially, and the current year is going well. Registrations and transfers have maintained their level, he said, and classifications have increased.

Brad and Sue Beldel and Loudenis and Wayne Beldel hosted the Franklin Co. Holstein annual field day at their farm near Newburg.

The association is also active in genetic marketing overseas and in technical assistance to third-world countries, Seipt reported to the 225 people in attendance.

The industry is rapidly changing, however. "We're going to see more changes in the next ten years than we did in the last twenty," Seipt said. The HFA is an identification and information business, he added, with the largest data base of any dairy breed association in the world. However, maintaining the integrity of those records is becoming expensive. "The board is committed to preserving the integrity of these records at all costs," he said.

Some questions on strategic planning that were raised at the convention were:

- Where do we want to be 10-15 years from now?
- Where will the cows be?
- What will the herd size be?
- Who will own these cows?
- How will cows be handled?
- How many dairymen will be members of the HFA?

A committee appointed by outgoing association president Max Herzog will try to answer these questions, assisted by a research firm in Minneapolis.

Some projections for 1990-1993 that were agreed to at the convention were:

- The dairy industry economy will remain tight for the next three years. The membership will be cost-sensitive.
- The surplus will continue.
- The association will have operating deficits within three years.
- Registrations and transfers will not be sufficient to support the financial needs of the association.

Berks Countian Named Conservationist Of The Year

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Donald N. Lacy, of Reading, has received the Conservationist of the Year Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts. The award ceremony will take place October 3, during the joint annual conference of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts and State Conservation Commission to be in held State College, Pa. Lacy's association with conservation practices developed through his membership and leadership in various environmental associations throughout Berks County. Not only has he volunteered his secretarial services to the Berks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs for 10 years but he also has been the Federation's president for the past six years. Through the Federation of Sportsmen's club, Lacy has become a prime promoter of the Youth Conservation Leadership School in his area. He has used his influence to encourage the Muhlenberg Lions Club to sponsor two students each year and has prompted the Muhlenberg School district to pay for up to six scholarships so far. His special interest and hard work has helped make the Conservation Leadership School a success and more available to those students in need of financial aid. He now serves on the Youth Conservation Leadership School Committee. Another recreation and youth project which involved Lacy was a study entitled, "Appraisal and Long Range Plan" for the city of Reading and Berks County. He became involved with this study through his membership in the County Recreation and Parks Committee. Other leadership positions include Associate Director of Berks County Conservation District, chairman of the Izaak Walton League's Board of Directors and president of the Berks Chapter Izaak Walton League.

The Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts is a private, non-profit organization representing Pennsylvania's sixty-six county conservation districts.

Franklin Holstein Day

-- The market value of Holsteins will be based on performance and genetic transmitting ability.

-- There will be an ever-widening knowledge gap within the membership due to technological advances.

-- There will be technological and organizational changes in the industry, involving such things as BST and private production testing.

-- The government's cheap food policy will continue.

Seipt also reported on the physical plant in Brattleboro. The association has outgrown the building, which is in need of major repairs. A consulting firm in Boston is studying what needs to be done to the building. Repairs and expansion could cost $12 million, Seipt said.

"Other areas of the country have extended invitations to the association to relocate," he added. A committee has been appointed to consider this action.

"The Holstein-Friesian Association is blessed with a large pool of capable members to tap for leadership positions, and along with this pool is the magnificent Holstein cow herself. These two have made the HFA the largest and most respected breed association in the world," Seipt concluded.

In an interview after his speech, Seipt talked about one of the problems facing young dairymen today. "He has to produce more milk to have enough cash flow to cover his indebtedness, and this reduces the price of milk," he said. "This must be corrected in the future."

The Field Day was held at the Beidel Brothers Farm. Brad and Wayne Beidel milk 90 cows in a double 6 herringbone parlor. They have an RHA of about 18,000 pounds of milk and 680 pounds of fat. The herd's BAA is 103.

They recently constructed a 108 stall free stall barn with side curtains, and installed an automatic alley scraper and a slatted floor manure pit.

The Beidels also have a 40 foot by 40 foot commodity shed. "We were able to decrease our feed costs by building this shed," Brad said. "When soybeans were $400 a ton, we fed peanuts."

They feed soybean meal, wet brewer's grains, rye, haylage, and ground ear corn in a total mixed ration from a bunker silo.

The main crop on the farm is alfalfa, with corn for silage, and a little grain. They no-till almost everything.

"You are seeing a well-run, modern operation here," Seipt said of the farm.

A popular activity at the Field Day was the judging contest. Seipt served as official judge.

1. A tie between Harold F. Crider and Alvin Meyers.
2. Ronald Martin

3. Roy Cordell
 4. Harold Goshorn
- Youth winners:
1. Allen Rice
 2. Gretchen Schoenberg
 3. Eric Horsh

4. Steven Long
 5. David Day
 6. Greg Greiss
- Milk for the event was donated by Witmer Implements of Shipensburg. Franklin Feed of Chambersburg supplied the ice cream. Farm Credit of Chambersburg; Paramount Feeds of Hagerstown, MD; Renaissance Nutrition of Carlisle; and Pennfield Corporation of Lancaster covered the cost of the tent.

Weed Placed On "Wanted" List

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Pennsylvania State University and the State Department of Agriculture are asking the public to help in locating areas where the noxious weed mile-a-minute is growing.

Dr. Nathan Hartwig, Penn State Weed Scientist, and Wilbur Mountain, Agriculture Department Botanist, said it is believed the weed was introduced from Asia into the Stewartstown, York County, area around 1945.

Since then, it has spread throughout York County and into Adams, Berks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Lancaster and Perry counties. It is also found in Maryland and West Virginia.

Hartwig and Mountain are now trying to determine how much farther the weed has spread. Pennsylvanians who find it in other counties are asked to call Mountain through the Agriculture Department's toll-free number, 1-800-AG-PENNA.

Mile-a-minute's unique appearance and conspicuous vining habit help in identification. The leaf is triangular shaped and the stem is encircled by saucer-like bracts. Along the length of the stem are small, downward curving spines that give the plant a second name, "tear thumb."

In the late summer and fall, the weed produces powder-blue, berry-like fruit. By fall, the vines may reach 25 feet in length, and during the winter the reddish-brown dead vines can be seen draped over fences and shrubbery.

The spread of mile-a-minute is believed to be due to birds and rodents feeding on the berries and seeds. It grows rapidly (hence the name) in full sunlight and partial shade, inhabiting roadside areas, fence rows, nurseries, the edges of woods and thickets, reforestation clear cuts, and damp areas such as stream banks.

The plant has been declared a noxious weed by the state and should not be allowed to spread or go to seed. Hartwig and Mountain said the university and department are investigating control methods.

People who detect the weed and contact Mountain will receive the latest suggestions on how to control it.

Interviewing Job Applicants

BY RUSSELL D. POWELL
Multi-County Business Management Agent

Last week we discussed how to recruit or get people to apply for a job. Many people find an interview, which is the next step in hiring a new employee, to be the most difficult. However, it may also be the most important step, because it can help you evaluate the prospective employee and confirm or challenge information the person has previously provided. Therefore, some advance preparation for an interview is well worth the time.

After all the interviews have been completed, you will have to organize a great deal of information to compare candidates before arriving at the final decision. The more systematic you can be in your interview procedures, the easier you will find the task of selecting the best candidate for the job.

Interview Questions

The first step in the interview process is to make a list of the behaviors you are looking for in a new employee, such as the ability to be trained, work with others, or make decisions.

The second step is to develop a list of questions that will help you gain some insight into those behaviors. Try to make the questions as open ended as possible, encouraging the applicants to react to the question and describe their feelings. Remember that there are certain questions that you cannot legally ask because of anti-discrimination laws. The questions you cannot ask include age, religion, ethnic background, marital status, or other personal information that could be used to discriminate.

The third step is to use a rating scale from 1-5 (1 being the least desirable and 5 being most desirable). This will allow you to quantify and compare each applicant's responses. Combine the list of behaviors, questions, and rating system into an interview checklist such as the sample.

Conducting the Interview

Conducting job interviews is like doing some other farm tasks. You may not be an expert at them, and you may not enjoy them, but they are necessary and you do them. You may feel just as uncomfortable as the applicant you are interviewing, but remember that you are in control of the interview and that by being prepared, you can make it a positive experience for you and the applicant.

It is also important to remember that while you are interviewing and evaluating the applicant, the applicant is doing the same to you. Part of your task during the interview may be to sell the job so the applicant you want will also want to work for you.

Here are some suggestions to help you conduct a successful interview.

1. Put the applicant at ease. The more you can do to reduce any tension, the more meaningful your communication will be. A friendly smile and handshake are a good start. It will also be helpful to conduct the interview in a quiet, comfortable place without any interruptions.

2. Stick to your plan. Follow your checklist and allow enough time for the interview. You will do an injustice to yourself and the applicant if you do not allow enough time to get the same information from each person.

3. Listen. You will learn very little about the applicant if you dominate the conversation. Encourage him or her to do most of the talking and ask questions that require more than just a yes or no answer.

4. Be mindful of your own personal biases. Do not overlook highly qualified applicants just because their religion, ethnic background, or some other trait is different from what you had in mind.

5. Fulfill your responsibilities to the applicant. He or she must decide whether or not to accept the job if it is offered, based on the information you provide. Leave adequate time for the interview and possibly a tour of the farm and

Horse Owners Urged To Vaccinate Against EEE

DOVER, DE. — Heavy mosquito infestations are increasing the risk of Eastern Equine Encephalomyelitis (EEE) among horses so owners are being urged to make sure their animals are vaccinated against EEE, according to Delaware State Veterinarian Dr. H. Wesley Towers of the Delaware Department of Agriculture. This season's heavy rainfall has resulted in large populations of mosquitoes, the insect which transmits the virus that carries EEE to horses, said Towers.

EEE, known as sleeping sickness, is usually fatal to horses. The virus infects the brain, causing signs such as aimless walking, blindness, uncoordination progressing to the inability to stand and finally death, Towers explained. Horse owners are urged to contact their private veterinarian and promptly make arrangements to have their animals vaccinated as a precaution, Towers said.

So far, there have been no reported cases of EEE in Delaware, Maryland or New Jersey this year.

Delaware mosquito control officials report mosquito populations to be at record numbers, Towers said. However, tests on serum from sentinel birds and virus isolations from resting box pools all have been negative so far.

Sentinel birds are located in areas heavily infested by mosquitoes. Blood is drawn from birds that have been bitten by mosquitoes and the serum tested for diseases. Box pools are used to collect live mosquitoes which are tested for various diseases.

Low-Input Ag Researcher Explores Nitrogen Conservation

COLLEGE PARK, MD. — "Our objective," said researcher Dr. Morris Decker, "is to produce cheaper nitrogen and ensure that it is used more efficiently."

Dr. Decker, who retired in June as an agronomy professor at the University of Maryland at College Park, has been cooperatively researching winter legumes since 1982 with Dr. Jack Meisinger of the Environmental Chemistry Laboratory, U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service in Beltsville.

The researchers have found that fall-seeded annual legumes can, in some cases, supply all the nitrogen needed by a corn crop. These winter cover crops can also reduce leaching losses by recycling unused fertilizer nitrogen.

Annual grasses, such as cereal rye, are more effective recyclers than annual legumes, but nitrogen taken up by these grasses is not as available to the corn crop that follows, Decker said. Thus more fertilizer nitrogen must be applied to maintain corn yields.

The researchers have also found that nitrogen is released faster from these legumes and grasses if they are killed early before maturity; this is especially true for the grasses.

Hairy vetch, the most consistent nitrogen producer, will fix more than two pounds of nitrogen per acre per day from the time growth begins in March until it is killed at corn planting, Decker said. But if the vetch is allowed to grow too late into the spring, soil moisture can be depleted, jeopardizing corn germination and growth.

A new direction for this research is now being partially funded by a two-year, $105,000 low-input sustainable agriculture (LISA) grant from the United States Department of Agriculture. The researchers will compare the high nitrogen fixing hairy vetch, cereal rye, and vetch/rye mixtures at three cover kill and corn planting dates plus four commercial nitrogen fertilizer rates with regard to:

* cover crop nitrogen production and recycling.

* soil moisture availability to corn, especially during germination and early growth.

* soil nitrate and ammonium status.

* shallow groundwater quality.

The experiment is being conducted by three Agricultural Experiment Station facilities -- the Lower Eastern Shore Research and Education Center's Poplar Hill Facility, and the Central Maryland Research and Education Center's Beltsville and Clarksville facilities -- and on three private farms in Wicomico County, two near Salisbury and one near Pittsville.

The researchers will use the cover crop and corn data, nitrate soil test results, soil moisture values and long-term weather records to develop predictive models for managing legume cropping systems.

Decker said this will give farmers a feel for possible management alternatives when crop growth is affected by particular weather or soil conditions. He added that an agronomy department doctoral student, Andrew Clark, will assist in the modeling portion of the project.

Researcher Dr. Morris Decker, right, and graduate student Andrew Clark inspect corn growth as part of a project partially funded by a $105,000 low-input sustainable agriculture grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The research is being done at three Agricultural Experiment Station facilities: Poplar Hill on Maryland's Eastern Shore and the Beltsville and Clarksville facilities in central Maryland. Work also is being done on three private farms. Photo courtesy Norman E. Pruitt, University of Maryland Ag Experiment Station.

appeared a profile of a South American man with his wife and two children trudging up a mountainside with their burro to pick those coffee beans. How quaint.

But all of a sudden it hit me that no matter how high the price of coffee goes, that poor man with the little donkey will NEVER have a decent bed for any of his family.

"But," people might say, "that's the way it's supposed to be. It's always been that way. Why should we feel guilty about that?"

We dairy farmers are in much the same position.

What would be so wrong if these poor people were allowed to share in the tremendous profits enjoyed by the "middle man"? Don't try to tell me that he's riding around on a donkey! It would be so easy for each coffee company to add one penny to the price of the pound of coffee and pass it back to the "farmer." We wouldn't even notice the penny. (Especially me because I don't drink coffee.) Can't you imagine what a huge difference that penny would make in his lifestyle and even his health and that of his children? He might in time even be able to buy something made in the USA. From what we read, it would probably be Coca-Cola or jeans, but nevertheless he would be a consumer.

Can't you also imagine the panic if he decided he wouldn't climb that mountain for that much money? The whole country wouldn't show up at work and if they did, they wouldn't be able to do anything.

It all translates back to the farmers in America to a lesser degree. We are all in the same situation. We will get only whatever we demand. It is so extremely hard to wrest another penny from the system. The consumer wouldn't care. One cent a gallon wouldn't even be noticed, and it would add a tremendous amount of money to each farmer's cash flow, which I suspect would go immediately to the nearest machinery dealer. There doesn't seem to be any way to get that penny from the consumer to the farmer. Maybe because "that's the way it's supposed to be." This is supposed to be a commodity column, but I get so agitated.

The Dairy Market News, which is published weekly by the United States Department of Agriculture, has some VERY encouraging news. The decline in cow numbers more than offset the gain in production per cow, so we are finally in a strong bargaining position. Through the first six months of 1989, the number of dairy cows sent to slaughter has increased, and milk supplies have tightened dramatically.

During the week of July 17-21, the CCC purchased 422,447 pounds of print butter and cancelled 910,142 pounds of bulk butter. There was no cheese or nonfat dry milk activity. The milk equivalent, on a milkfat basis, of these purchases is a negative 10.1 million pounds, the lowest in at least eight years. During the same week, 182,904 pounds of government owned butter was sold back to the trade and butter cancellations exceeded butter offerings.

This is the second consecutive week that the CCC had no cheese activity. In the East, surplus milk supplies are limited. Spot cheese prices in the Midwest have reached "name your price" for barrels, with five cents offered to more than one seller. Current projections at some firms show inventories will be at minimal or below levels for some time to come. In the West, competition for milk is increasing. There has been no cheese activity with the CCC in more than three weeks.

Fluid milk supplies in the South are tight with large volumes being imported from the Northern areas. Declines in Southern milk production, lower fat tests, and strong cream demand are all contributing to the tight cream supply. The milk situation in Wisconsin was described as "chaotic" because of the shortage of milk. In the West, plants are aggressively looking for milk supplies. Large quantities of nonfat dry milk have been committed to the export market.

Growth in milk per cow has slipped. Retail dairy prices probably will rise five to six percent this year, the largest since 1981. June 1 commercial stock of American cheese remained below the low levels of a year earlier, and will be a price boosting influence in coming months. International prices could strengthen, particularly for nonfat dry milk.

Thus far, commercial exports have been considerably higher than a year earlier, while imports have slipped.

It looks as though we are finally, after all these tough years, in a good bargaining position. We have to remember Juan Valdez, the man with the donkey, and be extremely strong in our negotiations. If we wait for the government to again set the price that the handlers must pay us, we will lose our chance. We are like children who have grown old enough to leave home and have to learn to take care of ourselves.

UNLESS ALL OF US GET A GOOD CONTRACT, NONE OF US CAN!

Meat Industry To Examine Demand Strategies

CHICAGO, IL — Corporations worldwide have realized economic growth by simply understanding product demand and strategically creating markets that put needs into purchasing actions. This summer, meat industry representatives will also look at demand and how it is influencing their market at a Demand Strategies Conference, sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The Conference will be held August 27-28 in Charleston, SC.

Interactive, open discussions during the Demand Conference will allow speakers and participants to focus on how demand strategies have worked for other industries and how they can be implemented in the meat industry. Conference sessions will also prepare participants to utilize demand information in everyday marketing and production decisions.

The opening session will feature marketing strategists from diverse industries, including representatives from United Services Automobile Association, San Antonio, Texas and Bully Hill Wineries, Hammondsport, New York. These experts will discuss how understanding demand led to success for their companies.

The panel will include a prominent Billings, MT, beef producer, plus Scott Hollis, purchasing agent for Red Meat, Marriott International Food Service division, and Thomas Deusler, executive vice president, Oscar Mayer Foods Corporation, Madison, WI. These key food chain delegates will evaluate the need for strategic positioning to satisfy further demand for the meat industry.

For more information on the Demand Strategies Conference, contact the National Live Stock and Meat Board at 444 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611 or call 312/467-5520.

Sunday afternoon a consumer focus group will help conference participants take a closer look at consumer perceptions. The group will discuss what influences their purchasing decisions and what they feel are the risks and benefits of eating meat.

Monday activities start with a presentation by Dr. Wayne Purcell, director of the Research Institute on Livestock Pricing at Virginia Tech. Purcell will look at past, present and future demand trends and how these trends impact the meat industry.

Representatives from the food industry will make up the final Science in Farming

with Growers 10-20-10
Fertilizer Solutions

Forty years ago little fertilizer was used in the corn belt of America. Then came 25 years of survival with average corn prices of $1.12 per bushel year after year while scientists tried to make growing crops a mechanical thing. The past 15 years looked pretty good except the areas of extreme wet or dry conditions. In the meantime across America we have heard of problems of hard soil, water contamination and the mind of farmers.

What Did We Do?

Through the past 35 years Growers Fertilizer
Solutions has worked against these problems and we have a head start. Two years ago one of our customers in Ohio won the Goodyear Award for Conservation, and the judges stated that the customer had the cleanest ground water coming off his farm of any they tested. Our customers won awards in other states and in one county in Illinois three of our customers won the conservation award three years in a row. Other farmers won awards for the best hay in a state, tops of the show, outstanding milk production with best ever in a county, state champion potato grower and many more outstanding crops.

Dry Years.

Last year was dry in many areas in mid-America and our customers stood out with good crops and high quality. One organization has paid a premium of $.45 a bushel for 1988 corn delivered on the ear. Some of this is cob premium but quality in a dry year with Growers Fertilizer is a large factor.

Wet Year.

This year is wet in many areas and Growers Fertilizer Solutions has again shown its versatility. When tobacco was waterlogged in the bed, it was foliage sprayed with Growers Fertilizer 10-20-10 to help it survive. Again it was transplanted with Growers Fertilizer to help overcome the stress. Many corn, wheat, soybeans and hay fields are in stress conditions now due to excess moisture. They can be helped with Growers 10-20-10 Fertilizer Solutions.
We farm and we know your problems.

What To Do?

Write or call us for a list of customers and stop by our booth at the farm shows and get started in profitable farming with Growers 10-20-10 Fertilizer Solution! There is no substitute when your farming life is on the line! After all, the champion potato grower in Maine used Growers and credits our expertise with turning his farming operation around. He contacted us! We have a full farm program to help you!

Jams, Jellies, And Joie De Vivre

BY CAROLYN HILSDON GILLES
Crawford Co. Correspondent
NORTH EAST — Marjorie Stewart has a reputation around her town for the excellence and variety of her jams and jellies. For the past five years, she has been easy to find on Thursday and Friday displaying her wares along with produce growers at the farmer's market in the park at North East.

Another notable accomplishment of Marjorie's is that she recently lost 34 pounds by participating in a "Weigh-No-More" program presented at the local health center.

Armed with nutrition information supplied by a dietitian who provided a weekly weigh-in and motivational talk, local townspeople were organized into teams and set into competition against each other to chalk up their weight losses through proper nutrition and exercise.

Marjorie, who never exercised before, now arises at 5:00 a.m., laces up the first pair of gym shoes she's owned since high school, and walks three to five miles before having breakfast. Then she plunges into the work of the day: picking and/or cleaning fruit, extracting juices, producing or selling her jams and jellies. Each task she does with a singleness of purpose that enables her to truly savor the moment and enjoy the task at hand.

This "singleness of purpose" that characterizes Marjorie today seems to have been present throughout her life. Born and raised in North East, she met her husband Les when she was seven and he was 12 after her brother had brought him home from school. Les and Marjorie married when she was 17.

Les's mother had died when he was two years old and, as a child, he loved staying with relatives that had farms. When the armed services rejected him because of a rheumatic heart, he decided to pursue a childhood dream and buy a farm of his own in nearby Ripley, NY. Those alleged health problems never held Les back for a moment, for on the dairy farm, there wasn't anything that he couldn't do. Together, Marjorie and Les milked a herd of approximately 20 Guernsey and Holstein cows and raised two daughters. In addition, Les commuted back to North East daily to work at the Riley-Stoker plant.

Dairying was hard work; for their first twelve years on the farm, they were never away overnight. Said Marjorie, "You don't leave cows." Marjorie reflects upon these days with great pleasure, remembering how much she enjoyed being a farm wife: raising their two daughters, milking cows and taking advantage of classes in jelly making and bread through Cornell University Cooperative Extension.

When their daughters grew up and moved out of the area, Les and Marjorie sold the dairy farm, moved back to North East and built their present home of thirty years. With newfound time on her hands, Marjorie went back to school and became a Licensed Practical Nurse. She graduated from the program on her 40th birthday and began her new career which lasted 23 years, as an LPN in the delivery room at St. Vincent Hospital in Erie. She retired four years ago to join Les who had retired in 1980 after 36½ years at Riley-Stoker.

Now she and Les enjoy their retirement together. When they were farming, said Marjorie, "I loved farming and I never thought about tomorrow." Of her work in the delivery room she says, "I enjoyed every day I went to work."

She is in her fifth season selling jams and jellies at the farmer's market in the park at North East. She moved into serious jam and jelly production when she was contacted by a revitalization committee from North East wishing to start a local farmer's market. Since she had a reputation around town for her canning, she was invited to participate. She describes her first day at the market as a "real neat day." She set up her table and was actually surprised that people bought what she had to offer. Said Marjorie, "I was in the jelly business!"

And is she ever. Some people ask if she buys jelly in large quantities and recans it. When she tells them that she makes it all herself from scratch, they can't believe it. They say, "You must be busy!" She answers with a smile, "I am!"

Besides the farmer's market, her products are sold at North East's Grape Festival held in the fall and attended by more than 30,000.

Through her years of canning, she has experimented and developed her own recipe and preferred methods of doing things. Marjorie uses Sure-Jell Light for most of her jams and jellies. Using less sugar, she feels, lets the flavor of the fruit come through better. For elderberries she uses regular Sure-Jell since, for some reason, the light product gave her inconsistent results. She finds that the early fruit of the season makes the best product. But even with all her knowledge and experience, Mar-

Les and Marjorie Stewart display their jams and jellies in the park at North East during the Grape Festival, which is attended by 30,000. Freezing her fruits and juices enables Marjorie to feature such a wide variety of flavors.

A heap of freshly picked dandelions awaits Marjorie's attention in front of processed jars of dandelion jelly. Dandelions are carefully selected from a field free of road dirt, immersed into hot water to relax the blossoms and enable them to be snipped off with a quick twist of Marjorie's thumb and forefinger. Preparation of the blossoms turns Marjorie's thumbnail black for a few days, but it's worth it when she sees their delight when people buy the unusual flavor of jelly.

jorie has had her share of failures. She said, "Everybody has stuff that doesn't turn out."

With the quantity of jelly making that she does, she doesn't spend a lot of time trying to correct and redo batches of jelly. She just sets it aside, uses it for something else (like sauce for ice cream, pancakes or waffles) and goes on to the next batch.

She delights in having nice utensils to work with. Indispensable in Marjorie's kitchen are her steamer, her microwave and her husband Les. She swears by the Mehu-Maija steamer which she uses to extract her juices. After using a borrowed one to extract juice from a batch of currants, she lost no time in purchasing one of her own. Her microwave is used to begin the thawing process on her frozen juices when she is ready to make them into jelly, after which she finishes the thawing process by immersing the bottle of juice in pans of water. Les has designed custom-crafted jelly paddles curved to the shape of her stainless steel jelly pots and is full of good ideas to streamline her jelly operations. On jelly making days, he works at her side with a lazy Susan between them. With a pan of sterilized jelly jars at the rear of the counter, she fills a jar, rotates the lazy Susan to her left where Les applies canning lids, tightens the screw bands and places them for processing in the boiling water bath canner. In a true spirit of teamwork, she returns his help in the kitchen by transplanting for the greenhouse that he has in the backyard.

When Marjorie cans, she cans all day, "Just like I was going to work." She said, with her system, she can make any variety of jelly, at any time of the year, even if the fruit isn't in season. Before making her jellies, she freezes her fruit and juices. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are canning days for Marjorie, with Thursday and Friday set aside for selling in the park. Saturday may also be used for canning, if needed. Said Marjorie, "You do what the demand is."

With her system, she can make and process jelly all day without having to pit or peel. Some days she spends all day pitting and peeling and readying fruit and Marjorie and her Mehu-Maija steamer which she uses to extract her juices. After using a borrowed one to extract juice from a batch of currants, she lost no time in purchasing one of her own.

Marjorie keeps a separate freezer for her supply of juices and fruits for jelly making. With her system, she can make any variety of jelly, at any time of the year, even if the fruit isn't in season and, on canning day, she can make and process jelly all day without having to pit or peel. Freezing does not interfere with the quality of the finished product.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Despite the best-laid plans, preparations and good intentions, life has a way of continually dropping unexpected surprises into the day-to-day existence of most of us.

Sometimes the surprises are pleasant ones - anything from hearing from a long-lost friend to the healing of a chronic affliction, from coming out of an accident unscathed to a biggie like winning the lottery.

And balancing out such happy surprises are those which bring frustration or sickness or grief or accident suddenly into our lives. But even then, the response of those around us is often the proverbial silver lining of the storm clouds.

Our round baler went up in flames last week.

Though it was far from new, and we were at least the third owner of it, this particular piece of equipment had already more than proved its mettle. Acquisition in the spring had proved most timely this season, since stretches of favorable hay-harvest weather have been at a minimum.

During those limited days of ideal - or at least borderline - hay-making weather, the round baler enabled us to harvest hay in a fraction of the time it takes to make the small, rectangular sort. Plus, one operator could handle the operation, rather than a small army to shuttle wagons, unload, and stack in the mow.

In fact, I almost had guilt feelings about not having unloaded a single wagon of hay bales yet this summer. (I said almost.)

Enter one of those "surprises" which life drops on us.

The surprise - we believe - was in the form of a universal, which went out on the baler as the Farmer was baling oats hay in a field about a mile distant. Unable to continue the machine's operation, he parked the tractor and baler at the end of the field, to hurry home for a replacement part.

Forage wagons were being shuttled frequently, within a few yards of the baler's location. But in the brief span, perhaps a minute or two, between the passing of a forage wagon and the Farmer's returning with a repair part, a tower of black smoke filled the bright afternoon.

Our son spied it first, fled the chopper he was operating nearby to race to the fire and attempt to pull the tractor away from it. Intense heat and a stubborn hitch pin foiled his efforts, until a neighbor stopped to lend him a hand in detaching the hitch.

Meanwhile, another neighbor had called County Control and set the fire alert in motion. And though the response of our excellent volunteer fire company was quick, there was simply no saving the machine which had flared into an instant, dry-hay-and-rubber-belt-fed inferno.

It was all over by the time I learned about it. All that remained was a blackened, warped shell, orangish-lump of melted plastic twine, and a tiny pile of smoldering hay dust which we ground into

Laugh it Up
I couldn't help it . . . I just had to laugh and all at a moment when I had been prepared to do battle over bedtime.
In the past few months, I've said often to our almost two year old, "I'm not happy about . . . !"
Quite often this would stop the inappropriate action. But it was a case of bursting at the seams when Elise turned it on me!
Bath time was complete, and I informed her that it was time for a book and then off to bed. Her prompt and serious reply was, "I'm not happy 'bout that!"
Laughter . . . it is good medicine for all of us. Life is too short not to have a good time. Whether raising children, managing at work or caring for an aging relative, a sense of humor is helpful in times of stress.

The ability to laugh in the midst of trouble is like bringing a fresh bouquet of flowers into the house after a hard frost has withered the garden. Laughing together in families helps reduce stress and develops open communication and harmony. In those families with children, good-natured humor diffuses emotionally charged issues and makes serious discussions, disciplinary measures and enforcing ground rules more likely to work.

Families with adult children find that humor assists in building affection and positive relationships.
The role reversal families experience with an aging relative or friend can create confusion, fear and hostility. Humor is an antidote that restores feelings of hope and cooperation between generations.
Norman Cousins, author of "Anatomy of an Illness," points out that if stress and negative emotions suppress the immune system, why can't laughter and feelings of trust and hope prolong our lives and sense of well-being. Belly laughing has been described as "internal jogging" because it gives a vigorous work out to the internal organs and it recharges emotional batteries to imitate a "joggers high."
Our families have enjoyed a lot of laughter. Here are a few of our family humor customs and additional ways to start your own.
•Enjoy using the humorous misuse of words and crazy saying that your children innocently create. Elise's newest version is "Maybe yes, and maybe no!"
•Start a humor bulletin board. Fill it with favorite cartoons, cheerful items and reminders of happy events. We're avid reader of the comics!

•Have a family tickle frolic or pillow fight.
•Develop a repertoire of funny stories and good natured jokes and share them at family times.

While we are all reading, studying and working at becoming better and stronger families, don't overlook a most important method. Loosen up and do some laughing!

Animals Dress Up Maryland Fair

TIMONIUM, MD — 4-H members will have the opportunity to dress up their sheep, goats, horses, dogs, rabbits, and even their beef and dairy steer to enter them in the 1989 Costume Animal Contest, Monday, August 28, in the Cow Palace at the Maryland State Fair.
"This event gives 4-H members the opportunity to show their animals in a different way," said 4-H Extension Specialist Dr. Richard Angus. "It's a fun contest that exhibitors and spectators will both enjoy."
All participants must decorate their animals in costume and write a narration, in story or poem form, which will be read as they show their animal. Ribbons and trophies will be awarded along with a participatory premium for each contestant.

"Cow Ripkin," "The California Raisin Calf," "Captain Hook and His Alligator Dog," and "A Prima Ballerina Sheep" were among the entries in prior Costume Animal Contests. For further information contact Chris Johnston at 301-758-0390 or 301-438-3678.
Ice cream enjoys a presidential line-up of devotees. Count among them such prominent Americans as George Washington who one summer spent $200 at his favorite ice cream parlor, Thomas Jefferson who brought home the French "receipts" for preparing the delicacy, and Dolly Madison who in 1812 served a strawberry version of the confection at her husband's inauguration.

Think for a minute about how you could possibly make a good thing like whipped cream, even more spectacular. The American Dairy Association suggests embellishing it with grated lemon peel, vanilla, almond or rum extract, melted jelly or preserves, instant coffee, hot chocolate powder or cinnamon, to name just a few.

Max and Eleanor Isenberg never overlook an opportunity to promote dairy products. Eleanor enjoys pulling on a cow costume and appearing at unexpected places to teach people the importance of buying items with the real seal.

If you stop by the Isenbergs, you're sure to be served a meal containing plenty of dairy products.

Eleanor submitted this recipe, made in honor of former Jimmy Carter, who visits the Isenberg's neighborhood annually. Fortunately, the recipe calls for several dairy products earning a seal of approval from the Isenbergs and the Carters who are peanut farmers. To learn more about the Isenbergs, look for their story in this section.

SOUR CHERRY CUSTARD PIE

2 eggs

2 tablespoons sugar

2 cups milk

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 can sour cherries or other fruit

ANSWER — Josephine Rudy, Hummelstown, requested a recipe for Black Forest Cake. Thanks to Fay J. Epler of Paxinos and Helen Didero of Equinunk for sharing theirs.

Black Forest Cherry Cake

3 eggs

1½ teaspoons vanilla

2¼ cups cake flour

1½ cups sugar

2 teaspoons baking powder

½ teaspoon salt

1½ cups whipping cream, chilled

¼ cup confectioner's sugar

2 tablespoons cornstarch

2 tablespoons sugar

1 pound can pitted dark sweet cherries, drained (reserve syrup)

1 teaspoon vanilla

¼ bar sweet cooking chocolate

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare two 8- or 9½ -inch round cake pans. In chilled bowl, beat 1½ cups whipping cream until stiff. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Fold eggs and 1½ teaspoons vanilla into whipped cream.

Stir together flour, 1½ cups sugar, baking powder, and salt. Fold this gently into cream-egg mixture until blended. Pour into pans. Bake layers in pans 30-35 minutes. Cool.

Stir together cornstarch and sugar in saucepan. Add enough water to reserved syrup to measure 1 cup. Stir into sugar and cornstarch mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until it boils, about 1 minute. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in vanilla. Dip 30 cherries in this sauce for the top of the cake. Cut remaining cherries into quarters and stir into thickened sauce for filling.

In chilled bowl, beat remaining whipping cream with confectioner's sugar until very stiff. To assemble cake, place one layer upside down on serving plate. With spoon, form thin rim of the sweetened whipping cream around outer edge of layer. Fill center with cherry filling. Place other layer top side up on filling. Gently spread whipped cream on sides and top of the cake. Grate chocolate. Gently press by teaspoonfuls into side of cake. Refrigerate until just before serving.

Schwarzwald Kirschtorte

6 eggs

1 cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

4 squares unsweetened baking chocolate, melted

1 cup sifted flour

¼ cup sugar

⅓ cup water

2 tablespoons cherry-flavored liqueur

1½ cups confectioner's sugar

½ cup unsalted butter

1 egg yolk

2 tablespoons cherry-flavored liqueur

2 cups drained, canned sour cherries

2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

1 cup heavy cream, whipped

8 ounces semisweet chocolate bar

Beat eggs, 1 cup sugar, and vanilla together until thick and fluffy. Alternately fold chocolate and flour into the egg mixture, end with flour.

Pour the batter into three 8-inch-round cake pans that have been well greased and floured. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cakes in pan 5 minutes. Turn out on racks to cool.

Make syrup by mixing together ¼ cup sugar and water and boiling for 5 minutes. When syrup is cool, stir in 2 tablespoons liqueur. Prick layers and pour over all three layers.

To make filling, beat together 1½ cups confectioner's sugar, and soft butter until well blended. Add egg yolk; beat until light and fluffy. Fold in 2 tablespoons liqueur.

To assemble cake, place one layer on plate, spread with filling. Using ¼ cup cherries, which have been patted dry, drop evenly over filling. Place second layer on cake, and repeat process. Place third layer on top. Fold 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar into whipped cream. Cover top and sides of cake with cream. Decorate top with remaining cherries. Make chocolate curls for top using a vegetable peeler.

Beat eggs and sugar until creamy. Add milk gradually, then vanilla. Put drained cherries in pie crust. Add the custard. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then 350 degrees until it begins to bubble.

ANSWER — Fay Shollenberger requested a recipe for using grapes to make wine. Thanks to Fran Westfall of Spring Grove for sharing hers.

Grape Wine

Start with 20 pounds of grapes. Do not wash them. Mash them in a wide-mouth crock that has been sterilized. Add 5 quarts boiling water. Cover crock and let mixture work for three days. Strain it through a cheese cloth. Put it in a large crock and add 10 pounds of sugar. Stir until sugar dissolves. Cover and let ferment. When liquid has stopped working, skim off any scum and strain and bottle. Cork bottles and seal well. Fran adds that she uses the wine to marinate steaks.

A "Fordson Rodeo" is planned for each morning of the show, with tractors pitted against one another in competition for time, tasks, and maneuverability.

The largest collection of Fordsons and 9N Ford-Ferguson tractors ever gathered in one place is expected at Rough and Tumble Museum during the four days from August 16-19.

Another special exhibit involves steam power

Steam traction engines will be puffing, the saw mill will be running, over 200 gas engines will have their own display area, and John Heisey, noted Lecturer and author, will give two talks daily on barn building, the use of early farm tools, and other topics.

Brother And Sister Compete In Tractor Driving

On July 15, Jason and Amy Ridinger of Taneytown, Maryland, had fun at the Menges Mills Historic Horse, Steam and Gas Engine Association Show in Hanover, PA.

They played old-time games such as throwing a corn cob with feathers stuck in the back to make a dart. They also participated in the pedal tractor pull.

Amy Ridinger, age two, pulled five pounds in a sled. She got a big, yellow participation ribbon.

Her four-year-old brother Jason had four full pulls of 30 feet. Each time, the judges put more weight on the sled. He started pulling five pounds, increased to 10 pounds, then to 16 pounds and 22 pounds. On Jason's fifth and final pull, he tugged 31 pounds for 23 feet. James won a second place silver trophy.

Jason and Amy's parents are Arthur and Teresa Ridinger.

Kerra, who calls herself a horse nut, spends many happy hours with her famous ponies, Misty II and Black Mist.

Kerra And Her Famous Pony

BY LOU ANN GOOD

"I know I'm lucky," Kerra Allen said.

Eight-year-old Kerra is lucky because her family owns a famous pony. Her pony, named Black Mist, is the great-granddaughter of Misty of Chincoteague.

Misty became famous in 1947 when Marguerite Henry wrote a book about the pony. Later a movie and more books were written about the ponies of Assateague and Chincoteague islands in Virginia.

For many years, Kerra enjoyed listening while her parents, Keith and Kendy Allen, read the books to her. Several times they visited the Paul Merrit Chincoteague Miniature Pony Farm on the islands.

Kerra said, "One time, my parents told my brother and I to wait in the car while they went into the farm to see the ponies. When they came back out, they said, 'We put a deposit on Misty II.'"

Kerra's dark eyes sparkled, "I couldn't believe it. My brother and I couldn't sleep all night. We kept wondering what she was going to be like."

In 1987, the Allens brought Misty II to their Manheim Route 4 farm. This year on June 17, Misty II gave birth to a filly named Black Mist.

Black Mist could not be called Misty III because she doesn't carry the distinctive marking, a spot shaped like a map of the United States on one flank. Usually the islands ponies are bay and chestnut pinto colors. Black Mist is black and white like Misty's father the Pied Piper.

Kerra said, "I'm a horse nut. I'm not with horses every single moment because I help keep my sister, but I'm almost always with horses."

She helps give hay to the horses and cleans out their stalls.

Kerra said, "Black Mist is nice except she's nippy."

According to Kerra, all ponies when they are small like to nip people. "She will grow out of nipping in two years," Kerra explained.

Kerra is a member of a 4-H pony production club. Black Mist is her project. "In production club, we learn how to teach ponies," Kerra said.

"The first time I tried to halter break Black Mist, he went crazy," Kerra said. "I tried to hang on but he tore off and I looked like I was water skiing until I fell and hit my head on a fence post."

Now Black Mist is halter broken. "We just have to let him grow for two years before we do much else," Kerra said.

In the meantime, Kerra spends a lot of time hugging Black Mist and racing across the meadow with him.

Kerra enjoys reading letters from children who write letters to Black Mist at R.D.4, Manheim, PA 17545.

Wild African Elephant Headed For Extinction

BY ROBERT CAPUTO
National Geographic News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya — The big-tusked, solitary males, once the symbol of stateliness and longevity among African elephants, have disappeared from the continent.

The herds of females and young are being decimated. The losses are staggering.

Ten years ago about 1.5 million wild elephants roamed the African plains and forests. Today, scientists estimate, as few as 400,000 survive. Throughout the 1980s, an average of 200 to 300 elephants have been slaughtered every day, 80 to 90 percent of them illegally.

If the poaching continues at the present rate, the African elephant will be extinct by the end of the century.

"The situation is desperate," says paleontologist Richard E. Leakey, the new director of Kenya's Wildlife Department. This body is soon to become a semi-independent organization, which will run Kenya's national parks and anti-poaching operations.

"The staff of the new department will have counter guerrilla training," Leakey tells National Geographic. "For the first time in years, the poachers are going to find somebody opposing them. They are now going to have a real fight."

Kenya, along with Tanzania and other African countries, recently called for a total, worldwide ban on ivory trade -- the lucrative incentive for elephant slaughter. The proposal, which has gained international support, will be considered at a meeting of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) this October in Switzerland.

The United States, which accounts for one-third of the world's market for worked ivory, banned all imports of elephant ivory in early June.

"Look what we won." Jason and Amy Ridinger said as they show off the ribbon and trophy for entering the tractor pulling contest.

Slaughter of wild African elephants threatens the majestic creatures with extinction by century's end. A decade ago an estimated 1.5 million elephants roamed the continent. Today, scientists believe, as few as 400,000 survive. In the 1980s, elephants have been killed at the rate of 200 to 300 a day, most of them illegally.

In mid-June, the 12-nation European Economic Community effectively banned all ivory imports. At the same time, Japan and Hong Kong, two of the biggest consumers of ivory, severely limited imports, Hong Kong banning them temporarily. These restrictions leave China, India, Taiwan, and Singapore as the only major markets still open to ivory trade.

Bans are considered necessary because earlier efforts to regulate the trade have been ineffective. Ivory is big business, worth about $600 million a year.

In 1986 CITES listed the African elephant as a threatened species.

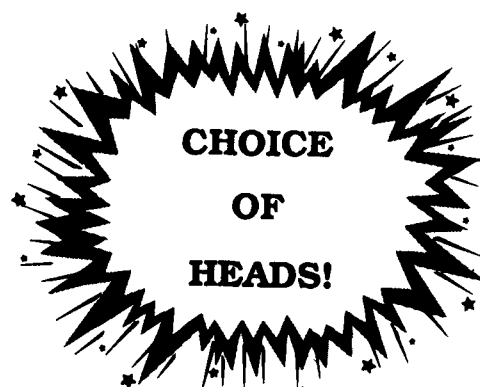

It established ivory-export quotas for countries with elephant populations. But CITES had no enforcement mechanism; the quotas were easily circumvented. The proposal before CITES in October would make the African elephant an endangered species, prohibiting ivory trade.

"I don't think we should be starry-eyed about it," Leakey says. "I don't think banning ivory through CITES is going to eliminate the problem. It will not necessarily reduce the value of ivory, but it will reduce the volume. That is significant in terms of the policing operation."

FREDERICK, Md. — Marcia Summers is Maryland's newest state dairy princess, crowned during coronation ceremonies July 27 at the Frederick Sheraton Inn.

The 18-year-old 1989 Maryland Dairy Princess is the daughter of R. Clarke and Linda Summers, Butterfly Lane, Frederick, and represented Frederick County in the state competition.

The Summers family operates a 550-acre dairy and crop operation, milking 70 registered and grade Holsteins. Marcia is owner of her own herd of 15 head of registered cows. Her responsibilities on the farm include daily milkings and equipment care, feeding, health work, and field planting and harvest. She plans to attend Frederick Community College and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, majoring in dairy science.

Marcia is a 1989 graduate of Frederick High School, where she continues to be actively involved in the FFA in a variety of dairy-related and public speaking projects and activities. She is a regional Star Farmer and will receive her American Farmer Degree. Also a veteran 4-H'er, Marcia is president of the dairy promotion club and participant in a wide range of dairy, speaking and fashion projects.

Marcia was also named the first winner of the $200 Francis Kepler Scholarship, awarded by the Maryland Dairy Princess Association. Francis Kepler, who died in November, 1988, was a longtime supporter of the promotion programs. She chaired the state coronation pageant for many years, and served as president of the promotion program from 1983-87.

Runnerup is Jo-Ann Chason, 18, the daughter of Earl and Hanne Chason, Church Lane, Hydes. She represented Baltimore-Harford counties in the state coronation judging, and was the 1988 Baltimore County Farm Queen.

The Chason family's RoHa Farm maintains a herd of registered Guernseys. Jo-Ann is owner of 11 head which she has shown for 11 years in 4-H and open class competition. She is president of two 4-H clubs, and a dairy judging participant. Jo-Ann also shows horses and swine in addition to her dairy cattle.

A graduate of Hereford High School, Jo-Ann will pursue an associate degree in horticulture at the University of Maryland. She is currently employed by Manor View Nursery and Albright Produce.

Recipient of the award for best promotional skit was Carroll

County princess Cynthia Starner, daughter of Calvin and Ruth Starner, Westminster. She portrayed a ballplayer, stopping by the dairy bar to chat with a talking cow about the merits of milk as a beverage.

Cindy was also named Miss Congeniality by the participating county princesses.

Three 1988 county princesses were honored with cash incentive awards, for making 42 or more promotional appearances at a variety of activities. Incentive winners were the retiring Maryland and Lower Shore princess Lana Holland, Kathy Johnson, Southcentral, and Rebecca Cummings, Garrett-Allegheny counties.

Also honored during the evening coronation program were two recently retired members from the Maryland Dairy Princess Association state committee. Thank-you gifts went to past committee members Ellen Armacost, 21 years of service, and to Blair Penn, 17 years.

Judges for the coronation were Joyce Bupp, Seven Valleys, Pennsylvania, director for Dairymen, Inc., Art Hershey, Cochranville, Pennsylvania dairy farmers and member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly, and William "Buddy" Hill, Crewe, Virginia, regional consultant for the National Holstein Association.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

This question comes up every year: What's the best way to microwave corn-on-the-cob?

The answer: There are several ways. All work well — if the corn is cooked covered and if it's given standing time for a few minutes after cooking.

Another question I'm asked this time of year: How can I microwave green beans so they aren't crunchy?

The answer: Green beans cooked in the microwave will never be completely tender like when they're cooked on the range. However, there are techniques you can use to tenderize them beyond the crunchy stage.

Corn microwaves to perfection —

Corn-on-the-cob needs a tight cover to steam evenly. Plastic wrap or a tight lid is the choice when corn is cooked in a dish. Normally waxed paper is not a tight cover, but when it's wrapped around the corn several times and tightly twisted on the ends — as in the Wrapped Method (below) — it holds in heat and steam. The corn husk also holds in moisture in the Husk Method.

Rearranging the ears and turning them over during cooking aids in even cooking and actually means less total cooking time. After cooking, standing time of 5 to 10 minutes is essential to even out cooking. Without standing time, corn will have some undone, starchy-tasting spots and some overcooked, shriveled, tough spots.

Allow space between ears for even cooking. Do not salt during cooking or corn will toughen. When done, corn will turn bright yellow throughout. After that, it still needs the few minutes of standing time to become evenly and fully cooked.

Choose the method you prefer. (When cooking just one ear, I like the Wrapped Method because there's no cooking dish to wash and no hot husk to struggle with.) Follow these directions as to covering, rearranging and standing time for perfectly cooked corn with a fresh just-picked taste.

Corn-on-the-Cob

4 medium ears fresh sweet corn (about 1½ inches in diameter)

Allow 2 to 3 minutes on High for each medium-size ear (1½ to 1¾ inches in diameter) or 3 to 5 minutes for each large ear. Just-picked sunshine-warm corn will cook slightly faster.

Dish Method: Husk corn and remove silks; place corn in a microwave-safe 12x8-inch dish. Add ¼ cup water. Cover tightly with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 6 minutes. Turn corn over, re-cover and rotate dish. Continue microwaving (High) 3 to 6 minutes or until corn is bright yellow throughout. Let stand, tightly covered, 5 to 7 minutes before serving.

Dish Method for Larger Amounts: Use more water and a 3-quart casserole. Break ears in half. Cover with lid. Rearrange several times during cooking. Let stand, tightly covered, 5 to 7 minutes.

Wrapped Method: Husk corn and remove silks. Wrap each ear individually in a 12-inch sheet of waxed paper, rolling waxed paper around corn several times and twisting ends tightly. Follow microwave times and standing time as above.

Husk Method: Place corn in husk in microwave. Follow microwave times as above, allowing 30 to 60 seconds more per ear. When done, wrap in foil or leave in microwave for 5 to 7 minutes of standing time. Be careful when removing husks. Hold corn with paper towel and pull back leaves carefully to avoid steam.

Microwaved beans need not be crunchy —

If you like green beans tender-crisp with fresh-from-the-garden flavor, you'll like them microwaved. If you like them very soft and tender, conventional cooking on the range-top should be your choice.

There's a difference between tender-crisp and crunchy or tough and rubbery. Tender-crisp means beans are cooked tender with a slight crispness. Crunchy means beans aren't cooked enough, while rubbery means they've been cooked too long.

Green beans should be cooked with more water than other fresh vegetables. This lets them cook slower and promotes increased tenderness. They may be cooked on High, but it is better to cook them on Medium or Medium High — again to slow cooking and promote tenderness.

A tight cover is necessary to hold in steam. Choose plastic wrap or a tight lid. Do not sprinkle with salt before cooking or beans will toughen. Stir once during cooking, especially if using High power. Standing time is necessary to allow beans to continue to tenderize without overcooking.

Another way to promote tenderness is to cut beans French-style. You can buy a special cutter or use your food processor. (To French-cut with your food processor, hand-cut beans into 1½ - to 2-inch lengths. Insert medium slicing disc into food processor. Place beans lengthwise in feed tube opening and slice.)

Green Beans

3 cups cut-up fresh green beans (about ¾ pound)
¼ cup water

Place beans and water in microwave-safe 1½ -quart casserole. Cover with plastic wrap or a tight-fitting lid. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 10 to 12 minutes, stirring once, or until beans are tender-crisp. Let stand, tightly covered, 5 minutes. Makes about 4 servings.

Hint: If desired for less-tender results, microwave on High for 5 to 7 minutes, stirring once or twice. Let stand as above.

Recipes in this column are tested in 600- and 650-watt microwave ovens. With an oven of different wattage output, timings may need slight adjustment.

4-H County Fair

activities Lancaster County 4-H'ers have planned for their annual fair days. The fun-filled events on August 9 through 11 will be held at the Solanco Fairgrounds.

Zoann Parker, Lancaster 4-H cooperative extension agent, promises that the daily activities offer something for every member in the family. "We want the community to come out and learn about 4-H," she said.

For all who participate in the scavenger hunt, Burger King provides coupons for their fast food. There's water volleyball, a horse show, square dancing, and other fun events interspersed with traditional 4-H events such as a steer show, and project judging.

Culminating the three day event, the annual auction will be held at 6 p.m. on Friday, August 11. The 250 items to be auctioned include a Russel Allen oil painting of the Burnside Bridge, Antietam; seven quilts, a special one was made by members of the Manheim Saddle Cinches Club who embroidered, stenciled and quilted it; John Deere 150th limited edition collector's set, Winross trucks, football signed by Joe Paterno, gift certificates, and toys.

Parker said, "We don't put on the auction for kicks. With its 4,000 members, Lancaster is the largest traditional 4-H club in the state. We want to keep it affordable for every child."

She is proud that in her five years as county agent, she hasn't needed to raise the cost of any event despite escalating insurance costs. The fair's proceeds supplement the state money.

The auction will be held inside the Solanco Fairgrounds building, which according to Parker, has a great public address system, bleachers, and lighting.

For more information, call (717) 394-6851.

For the third year, Russel Allen has donated one of his paintings to the 4-H auction. He said, "I have grandchildren in 4-H and I see that 4-H does a grand job of providing interest and activity for young people."

Beans For Heart Health

There is an inexpensive alternative to oat bran on another supermarket shelf. Beans, peas and lentils all contain fiber that can lower blood cholesterol and help prevent constipation. These alternatives are also a good source of complex carbohydrates, and a diet rich in beans can help some diabetics lower their insulin dosage or eliminate it altogether.

Researchers at the University of Kentucky fed volunteers with high blood cholesterol levels either 100 grams of oat bran or 115 grams of dry beans served as cooked beans or bean soup for 21 days. Both diets lowered blood cholesterol levels by approximately 19 percent and LDL-cholesterol by about 24 percent. The diet did not significantly affect HDL-cholesterol levels, so the HDL to LDL ratio increased, which is good news.

Although beans are a cheap alternative for oat bran, they carry a social stigma - gas. Food processors are working to reduce the gas-making potential of beans. Treating beans with hot water extraction can eliminate some of these troublesome carbohydrates. Pre-cooking beans to produce quick-cooking dry beans also removes the carbohydrates.

Despite their low cost and health benefits, bean consumption fell from 7.5 pounds per person in the 1960's to 6 pounds per person in 1984, but in the last couple of years per capita consumption has risen to 7.9 pounds per person. Beans are grown in a number of regions in the United States, but dried peas and lentils are primarily produced in a 25,000 square mile area in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

If you want to prepare beans and peas, remember that dry beans need to be soaked before cooking. Cover them with water and heat to the boiling point. Turn off the heat and allow them to soak for 3 to 4 hours. Discard the water. By discarding the soaking water you remove many of the carbohydrates that cause gas. Then mix the beans into your soup or casserole and cook for 30 to 40 minutes longer. Canned beans eliminate this presoaking step. Dry peas and lentils do not need presoaking before cooking and require less time to cook than beans.

Beans are very versatile. They are good in salads, dips, as a side dish with meats, in soups, as baked beans, and with pasta. Black-eyed beans and rice is a Southern dish called Hopin John. The Italians combine cannellini beans and pasta in pasta e fagioli. Chick peas are the main ingredient of hummus from the Middle East. Kidney beans are used in Southwestern chili. Lentils are used in soup, and many Indian dishes. Pinto beans form the basis of refried beans to accompany tacos and burritos. Try beans for variety.

Lentils and dry peas also contain the same fiber as dry beans. Lentils do not enjoy the popularity of beans. If you have never tried lentils, try the following recipe for Lentil Spaghetti Sauce. It is inexpensive, nutritious and you will find it surprisingly delicious.

Lentil Spaghetti Sauce
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 small onions, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
3 cups tomato sauce
6 cups water
1 1/2 cups lentils

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoons oregano
1 1/2 teaspoons thyme
3 teaspoons basil
1/4 teaspoon tabasco

Saute onions and garlic in oil until they are transparent. Add all the other ingredients. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Serve over spaghetti. Top with grated cheese, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Isenbergs Find Novel Ways To Promote Dairy Products

BY LOU ANN GOOD
ALEXANDRIA (Huntingdon Co.) — If you search the hills and valleys in Huntingdon County, you won't find anyone more enthusiastic about dairy promotion than Max and Eleanor Isenberg.

Whether you dial the Isenbergs' phone number or drive to their Juniata river-side farm, you'll soon discover this couple passionately proclaim the goodness of milk products.

Eleanor even answers the phone with the message: "Milk is a natural. Try four or five glasses a day."

Signs declaring the wonders of milk, greet visitors driving in the Isenbergs lane.

In her zeal, Eleanor has been known to don a cow suit, crash wedding receptions and hand out dairy recipes and literature to the guests.

She maintains, "Guests love it. Even the restaurant managers are impressed."

Words tumble over each other as the Isenbergs recount their many novel ways to promote milk.

Max said, "Our Holstein Club has got the best fundraiser to make money and use dairy products at the same time. At first, we wanted to keep it a secret, but then we thought, 'heck, every dairy farmer should know about this. It's the best way there is to encourage using our product.'"

According to Max, each year, for the past four, the Huntingdon Holstein Club sells cheese. This year the county club sold four tons and ended up with a profit of $3,500.

"It takes 10 pounds of milk to make one pound of cheese," Isenberg said. "Now, that's what I call helping farmers out."

Max and Eleanor sold 75 out of the 200 cases sold. "If a person walks up our walk, I don't let them leave until they buy some cheese," Eleanor admitted.

"Hey, we got a good product," Max said. "We pay service men and feed men for their services, why shouldn't they buy something for us?"

Eleanor said, "Some dairy farmers think promotion isn't their job, but it is. We are the best qualified to do it."

The husband and wife team encourage customers to buy cheese for gifts and for their own use. They recount numerous stories of people who were skeptical of buying a five-pound block of cheese. They'd protest, "I can't use that much cheese."

With her friendly smile and contagious enthusiasm, Eleanor convinces even the most skeptical she is doing them a favor. She stuffs a handful of recipes in their hand and encourages, "Try it."

After trying the cheese, skeptical customers often return for more cheese. Many even purchase cases of cheese.

"The fundraiser helps get people in the habit of using cheese," Eleanor remarked. "When they taste how good our product is, they're sold on using our product."

With the profits, the Holstein Club provides $1,000 to the state scholarship fund, sends kids to state and national Holstein conventions, upkeeps the county fair barns and funds promotions.

Max said the county Holstein clubs need matching funds to receive money from the state. Often clubs have a hard time raising money. He suggests that clubs across the state try the cheese fundraiser.

Recently both the Holstein club and the dairy promotion club purchased six reflective highway signs.

"The signs are really neat," Max said. When a car's headlights hits them, the signs illuminate with one of these two messages: 'Pennsylvania's Finest...Huntingdon County Holsteins' or 'Buy Dairy Products. Real Quality.'"

The Isenbergs also advertise their product in the clothes they wear. Max has a sweater with Holsteins on it that his mother knitted. They have shorts, jogging shirts and sweat shirts with cow designs. Many of these items also are used as fund raisers by the Holstein Club and by the county Dairy Promotion Club that Eleanor coordinates.

As a community service, the clubs participated in buying T-shirts with the "Real Seal" logo and "Make it with milk" slogan for a county arts festival.

Max Isenberg said, "I've got no education to speak of. When I was in school I wasn't the best student," he shrugged and rubbed his brow. "Heck, I always knew I wanted to be a farmer."

And as a farmer, he's one of the best. He delights in telling of his school reunion where his former English teacher said, "Max, with those two farms, your Belgium horses and cow herd, you must be a millionaire by now."

Max just smiles. He admits, "We've done quite well with our 500 acres, 80 milking cows, and in selling Patz barn equipment. I could have paid everything off a few years back, but my accountant said that would be foolish. We gotta keep buying stuff to get a tax write-off."

Since his farm borders the Juniata riverbank, Max said, "I got the best field of corn in Pennsylvania, no two things about it."

His wife said, "I spend more time cleaning in the barn than in the house. You never know when someone might stop in. And we want the barn to look good because that is where our product is made."

Pleased as they are with the farm, the couple finds much more pleasure in helping others.

"After all, Max said, 'Life is all about helping each other, isn't it?'"

There's more than one way to advertise the dairy industry. Ask the Isenbergs who often wear clothing designed with their favorite animal.

Max adapted that philosophy when he was on the receiving end. In 1969 he had fallen off the scaffolding while building a free stall barn. Lying on the hospital bed while recuperating with a broken hip, he was fuming about all the work that needed to be done at home.

A nurse waved a newspaper in front of him. She said, "Take a look at this."

Max recalls, "There was a big picture on the front page that showed people crawling all over my barn roof. Friends, neighbors and even folks I didn't know finished building my barn. They laid 80 feet of roofing within 45 minutes."

Isenbergs never forgot the favor. They're determined to repay it by helping others when they are in trouble. Some days it's filling silo for the sick. Some days Max takes his Belgium horses and wagon to places such as the Penn State Special Olympics to give rides to the children.

Max jokes that his Belgium horses and carriage are the only ones in the U.S. that are CIA and Secret Service certified. That was necessary when former president Carter and his wife Rosalind visited the area. The Carters return to the area every year to fish and to ride in Isenberg's wagon.

The horses and wagon also are used to give rides to wedding parties, to haul Santa Claus, and to delight children at local fairs.

The Isenbergs have accumulated many news clippings featuring them doing community service. But Max said, "Hey, recognition is nice, but what I like best is doing something and walking away from it with no fuss."

In their rambling farmhouse, the Isenbergs welcome people of all levels of society. Max explained they find the time to farm and participate in so many community events because, "We don't put on the dog for anybody. What gets done, gets done."

Max said, "The best part of our life is that we raised four of the best children in the world. They were so busy they had no time to get on drugs."

He adds, "What we have, we owe our kids." Today the kids are all married and no longer live at home, but one son and daughter are involved in the daily operation.

Before her marriage one daughter built up the farm's DHIA records and a son grew the state grand champion hay.

In 1987, the Isenbergs received the distinguished Service Award for Farm City.

Max leads one of his popular Belgium horses. The team and wagon are in great demand for bridal parties and for rides at fairs and fundraisers.

Funds from dairy promotions by Huntingdon County's Holstein and Dairy Promotion clubs were used to purchase these reflective signs.

Former President Jimmy Carter and his granddaughter enjoyed a ride on Max Isenberg's wagon. The Carters return to area yearly to fish.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 6

The Berks Society of Farm Women Group #6 held its July meeting at the home of Ruth Hartman, Limekiln.

Thank you notes were received from Frank Temme, the German exchange student, who won the vocational agriculture award, and Jennifer Millisock for the home economics award from the Oley Valley High School recent commencement. A thank you note was also received from "Concern" of Fleetwood for sending two children to camp this summer.

Members from Group #6 will participate in the Berks County Society of Farm Women Convention on Saturday, October 7, at the Berks Agricultural Center. Mrs. Naomi Mest will be on the silent auction committee. Mrs. Ruth Hartman, Mrs. Mary Jane Hetrick, and Mrs. Linda Snyder are on the registration committee.

Plans are being made to entertain Group #11 at the home of Nora Schweitzer on August 3. A doggie roast and the alternate Dairy Princess, Becky Snyder, will do her skit presentation. Becky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snyder of Oley.

The August 15 meeting will be at the home of Sally Hauseman.

Berks Society 11

July 24 was a sizzling hot day. A day that caused drops of sweat to drip while doing routine farm chores. A light, warm breeze welcomed to the stale, "no-air" syndrome. Members of Berks Farm Women Society 11 looked forward to the enjoyment of lemonade and pretzels served by Rose Hibshman. While cooling off with a refreshing drink and a fan, members discussed the plans of the Scenic River Festival held July 26 through July 30.

To end the evening members displayed "dressed" vegetables. A pepper pig, tomato ghost, onion head, to a potato duck were a few of the funny characters to tickle one's imagination. Imagination is what we had to answer this roll call. A vegetable word scramble made by Wendy Lingle and daughters delighted Fran Dubble, the winner. She enjoyed her tossed vegetables because she received a homemade gift from the president Judy Swope.

Somehow through the heat members accomplished so much and "kept their cool!"

Our thought for all of you from us,

Summer's here to stay awhile, So please put on a great, big smile!

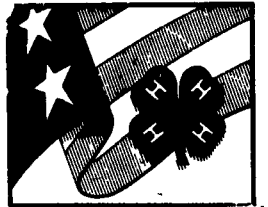

The Summer's heat can be beat, Take the time to make a treat!

You will notice across the face, A very happy trace, Of one who loves and cares To give of ourself is to share!

Lebanon Society 20

Farm Women Lebanon Society #20 held its July meeting at the Dale and Paul Maulfair farm. Members and their families enjoyed a picnic and conversation concerning the joys and woes of farming. The children had a wonderful time playing games planned by the game committee.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Beatrice Mull.

Lancaster Society 34

Lancaster Farm Women Society 34 met at the home of Joyce Holloway on July 17. This was the legislative meeting with Noah Wenger, guest speaker. All members told Mr. Wenger about the law they would most like to be changed. Debbie Zug served as co-hostess and Joyce Holloway won the chanceoff. Our next meeting will be a safety meeting on the use of fire extinguishers.

Adams County Fair

On Saturday, August 5, Adams County 4-H members and leaders will participate in the Annual Adams County 4-H Fair. 4-H Fair will be held at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, near Arendtsville. Over 600 Adams County 4-H members will have 4-H projects on exhibit. Items range from rockets, to photography, to ceramics, to microwave, to clothing, plus many other areas. The exhibit area will be open from 2:00 to 6:30 p.m. and there is no admission. Every display area will present original and exciting ideas created by 4-H members.

There are several activities scheduled throughout the day. These include: ice cream eating contest at 1:30 p.m.; calf dressing contest at 2 p.m.; bale toss contest at 2:30 p.m.; bicycle rodeo at 3 p.m.; and rocket shoot-off at 4 p.m.

If you are interested in large animal shows, they will be continuous throughout the day. The shows for the day include: horse 9:30 a.m.; dairy 11 a.m.; and beef and showmanship classes in all three shows.

Treat your whole family to a delicious and very popular Chicken Bar-B-Cue Dinner. 4-H Sponsors the dinner with the cooperative of the Adams County Poultry Association. The menu includes: apple-sauce, potato salad, ice cream, cake and choice of beverage. Tickets will be available at the door while the chicken lasts. Half chicken dinner is $5.50 and a quarter is $4.75.

The 4-H Fair concludes with the Awards Program in the auditorium. Those who have done outstanding work in 4-H this year will be recognized and presented special rosette awards. We will also honor Adams County 4-H members who entered the Jr. Awards Program plus County Fashion Revue winners.

Granddaddy Of A Craft Show Held At Lancaster

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)
— The granddaddy of Pennsylvania craft fairs thrilled visitors who toured Fanklin and Marshall College during the show's four day event last week. Approximately 250 exhibitors' crafts were juried to ensure the fair's reputation of high craftsmanship and design. Visitors were not disappointed.

"Geese Going Into Water" earned an excellence in crafts for Karen Gallogly.

Burlap sculpture by Dorothy Rutkiewicz.

Crafts such as pottery, weaving, jewelry, fraktur, scrimshaw, woodcarving, basketry and patchwork showed the skill and detail that many craftspersons devote.

Dorothy Rutkiewicz, president of the Chester County Guild of Craftsmen, displayed her burlap sculptures. She said she learned to make the European craft by reading a library book.

"As soon as I saw it, I fell in love with it," she said.

The crowd also was captivated by the burlap figures that are made by covering a frame of galvanized wire with burlap. The figures are dressed with shawls, sweaters and other outfits and placed in a room type setting.

Rutkiewicz said she prefers to set the burlap figures in family settings that show the family interacting. In some children are drawing, sprawled on the floor, reading and playing.

She can be contacted at 726 Westcroft Place, West Chester, PA 19380.

Glazed pottery dinner set by Allen Welch coordinated with the pottery lamps by Helen Welch.

Corinne Swarr displayed her hand woven room sized rugs. A former English teacher, Swarr went into rug weaving fulltime after studying two years with a Sweddisch rug weaver. Her subtle use of color variation and wool woven into linen warp show Scandinavian influence.

Swarr said she attends four craft shows annually and receives enough orders to keep her busy at the loom for 10 to 12 hours daily. She currently has a nine to 10 month lead time for her rugs that vary in size from 4'x6' to 9'x17'.

Swarr, formerly a Lancaster countian, can be contacted at Phelps Drive, Box 105, Homer, NY 13077.

Karen Gallogly of Villanova was awarded an excellence in crafts with her quilt of geese going to the water. The quilt carried a price tag of $3,800.

Granddaddy Of A Craft Show

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 5, 1988-B19

Corinne Swarr weaves room size rugs as large as 9x17-feet.

19085, features stock and custom designs of quilts and pillows.

A pottery dinner set made by Allen Weichan of Reeders, also received an excellence award along with pottery lamps by Helen Weichman.

Designer and woodworker Richard Broadbent of 15309A Sixes Bridge Road, Emmitsburg, MD 21727, fashions functional wood pieces from strips of laminated wood that are planed and cut into shapes that give a sculptured affect. For 12 years Broadbent has been working fulltime making cutting boards, tables and other wood items.

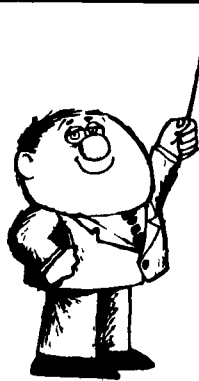

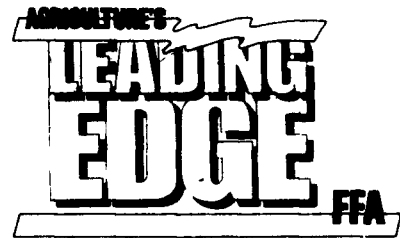

The wide range of contemporary and traditional crafts were displayed in the gymnasium and under several large tents. Some exhibitors demonstrated their craftmaking while musical groups and a magician entertained the crowd.

The nationally acclaimed fair, sponsored annually by Pennsylvania Designer-Craftsmen, celebrated its 42nd year, with 30,000 visitors.

The primary goal of the PA Guild of Craftsmen is to help designer/craftsmen produce better work and build the public's appreciation for crafts. The statewide organization has 2,000 members. The guild promotes quality crafts by maintaining strict standards of craftsmanship and originality for jurying members for shows. Those interested in joining should contact Ruth Stonesifer, executive director, P.O. Box 820, Richboro, PA 18954 (717) 860-0731.

Introducing the New and Deadly Sweet Corn Trap Rodents Can't Resist

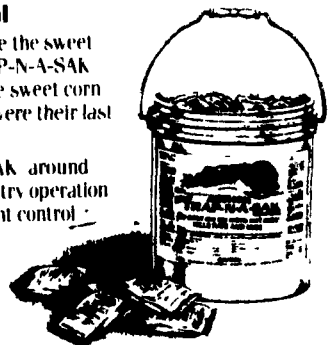

Taste Trial Proves Rats Prefer It 4 to 1.

Field tests conducted at poultry swine and dairy operations proved rats preferred TRAP-N-A-SAK by more than 4 to 1 over the competition. Rats are normally cautious with new food sources, but on the first day they virtually ignored the leading brands and ate only TRAP-N-A-SAK!

Their Last Meal

Rats and mice love the sweet corn taste of TRAP-N-A-SAK. Rats will smell the sweet corn and eat it as if it were their last meal - and it is.

Use TRAP-N-A-SAK around your farm or poultry operation for effective rodent control.

Maryland Cooperative Extension Celebrates 75 Years At State Fair

TIMONIUM, MD — Each year, the Farm and Garden Building at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium offers something new along with the old for the education and enjoyment of fair visitors. This year's big event will be a 75th birthday party for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

The 75th birthday celebration, will be complete with a special 75th Anniversary Cake and sparkling cider for the Governor and a limited number of onlookers on Governor's Day, Wednesday, August 30.

The event will commemorate the 75 years of this information resource that is available to all citizens of Maryland and surrounding states.

Throughout the entire August 26 through September 4, 1989 run of the fair, commemorative stickers, buttons, paper wrapped buttermint candies, and a special pictorial supplement about the history and mission of the Extension Service will be given out free. A timeline highlighting Cooperative Extension Service's special events and programs, throughout their history, will be on display. Extension agents will be on hand to answer questions and talk about programs planned in the Cooperative Extension Service's future.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture will have exhibits that illustrate its many services to Maryland residents, including gypsy moth control, and soil conservation.

Again, this year, there will be a display of the state's newest alternative enterprise for farmers -- commercial aquaculture -- which will include shellfish and fin-fish.

The Farm and Garden Building will have representatives from at least ten agricultural commodity groups who will answer questions and demonstrate the use of their various products (such as beef, pork, honey, eggs, soybeans, dairy products, wine, maple sugar, and turf grass).

ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS

20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a live-stock trailer.

Jenkins Tops Jersey Show

Voss Dominates Delaware State Fair Holstein Show

BY SUE CROW

Maryland Correspondent

HARRINGTON, De. — The weather at the State Fair is always hot and humid on show day and this year was no exception. Despite this, the avid dairy showmen came with the type and quality of animals the state show is known to have each year.

Judge Jimmy Eutace from Wil-lowlyn Farms of Catlett, Virginia, had his work cut out for him as 50 exhibitors paraded over 90 Holsteins in the ring for his inspection.

Norman Voss, Jr. from Clayton had an outstanding day as his show string brought him first place blue ribbons in 13 out of the 17 classes. The junior, senior and grand champion female rosettes were also his. His first place 3-year-old cow Vossmon Tempo Gloria-Twin took the top honors winning the Grand Champion Female.

"She is a well balanced cow, displaying upstandingness, strength and a fine udder," said Judge Eutace. Her herd mate C Kenya Mattador Cindy, Norman's first place 4-year-old, was the reserve grand Champion.

Colored Breed Show

Judge Johnny Morris from Maryland had the honors to judge the colored breeds. Over 75 animals from 27 exhibitors came into the ring for him to place. In the Ayrshire show Wallace and Grace Caulk from Woodside received the grand champion rosette. Their first place 2-year-old and senior champion, Exchange Julius Juliette, placed on top. The aged cow owned by Becky and Cindy Bell was the reserved grand champion of the show. Andrew Webb took the junior champion honors. His first place intermediate heifer calf, Del Acres Vag Kit, placed over the reserve junior champion owned by Leslie Jane Moore.

The Jersey show was dominated by Patricia and Elizabeth Jenkins from Toughkenamon, Pennsylvania. Their show string nearly placed first in all the classes as well as placing on top of the show. Their first and second place 3-year-olds were grand and reserved grand respectively.

CLV Faithful Golden Farina and CLV Faithful Golden Gigi are both paternal sisters out of the Golden Faithful sire. The Jenkins' also won the reserve junior champion ribbon. The first-place senior yearling heifer owned by Danny Severson from Mid-Del Jerseys, Dover, Delaware took the junior champion spot.

The University of Delaware brought their best Guernsey cows to the fair and it showed as they took home blue ribbons in all of the group classes as well as 6 of the 11 individual classes.

Their first place dry cow and 2-year-old cow won the grand and reserve grand champion honors respectively. U of D Nobleman Rozanna and U of D Fayette Bonnie also won the senior and reserve senior ribbons as well.

The University also won the reserve junior champion rosette.

Annville 4-H'er Shows Champion Sheep Trio

BY LISA RISSER
LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Three is a good number for 11-year-old Benj Bow. On Tuesday, the third-year 4-H'er received three championship titles for his sheep at the Lebanon Fair.

The son of Mary and Ben Bow of Annville, Benj nabbed his first purple rosette with a Corriedale ewe that was champion not only of its breed, but also over all other breeding ewes in the Breeding Sheep Show.

His next wins came with two heavyweight wethers he showed in the market lamb competition. His Suffolk was named grand champion, while a Hampshire was selected as reserve grand champion.

The supreme champion breeding ram was exhibited by Amy Smith. In the lamb carcass competition, Ben Bow took home the champion. Reserve champion honors went to the lamb owned by Darren Grumbine, and placing third was Krista Hetrick.

Pennsylvania County Agents Receive National Recognition

SOMERSET, NJ — Four county agents of the Penn State Cooperative Extension received awards from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents at the association's annual meeting held this week. Those being honored were Judith S. Stoudt, Berks County, achievement award winner; and Joseph S. Beard, Crawford County; Donald P. Fowler, Felton County; and Laurence L. Yager, Area Marketing Agent, Adams County, received Distinguished Service Awards.

Judith S. Stoudt of Leesport is Pennsylvania's Achievement

Award winner for her professional extension achievement with the Oley Valley water testing program. This project helped homeowners to learn how to improve and maintain their water quality. In addition, Stoudt has initiated the "Master Gardener" program in Berks County and has developed other extension programs.

The Achievement Award is given by NACAA to encourage and recognize excellence in the field of professional extension for members with fewer than 10 years of service in the Cooperative Extension.

Joseph S. Beard of Cambridge

Springs received the NACAA Distinguished Service Award for his effective extension programs. Beard's emphasis is on good agronomic practices developed through his monthly newsletter to farmers and to feed, seed, and fertilizer dealers. He initiated area corn and forage days and variety plots for small grains, corn and soybeans. In addition, Beard has encouraged farmers to participate in the alfalfa growers' program and five-acre corn plots. Other responsibilities include working with the DHIA, 4-H dairy program, Northwest Maple Producers and community development programs.

Beard has been a member of the Crawford County Cooperative Extension since 1966, achieving the rank of Senior Extension Agent.

Donald P. Fowler of McConnellsburg received the NACAA Distinguished Service Award for initiating programs in a variety of areas dealing with both 4-H/youth and adults. Fowler was instrumental in starting a county-wide environmental education program. He has assisted in the development of two 4-H parks and a strong youth component of one county fair. In addition, he started the first 4-H BMX club in the nation, assisted in organizing a crop management association and developed pesticide education and safety programs.

Fowler is a senior Extension agent and Fulton County Extension director, starting his extension career in 1961.

Laurence L. Yager of Gettysburg received the NACAA Distinguished Service Award for his work in marketing. Though Yager has been conducting traditional agricultural marketing situation and outlook work, he has felt the need to move on and present marketing alternatives and develop market strategies for his farmers, consumer and agri-business clientele. He conducts programs for most agricultural commodities, but has been especially recognized on a regional and national level for his efforts in direct marketing and alternative agriculture.

Yager is the Area Marketing Agent with extension, working out of the Adams County office in Chambersburg. He has been employed by The Pennsylvania State University since 1961 in the field of farm management.

The Distinguished Service Award honorees are chosen by their fellow agents and the director of extension of the various states. The nominees must have 10 or more years of service in extension work and put into practice an effective extension program which includes carrying to completion some constructive and outstanding work. They must also be actively interested in the improvement of the Cooperative Extension profession.

Commissioner Jonas Receives Conservation Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Pike County Commissioner Margaret Mary Jonas has received the County Commissioner District Director of the Year Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD). Jonas will receive this award during the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Association of County Commissioners, August 9, in Erie, Pennsylvania.

For the past three years Jonas has served as director of the Pike County Conservation District. She has been credited for developing the District's budget, obtaining funds for an Erosion and Sedimentation district technician, purchasing of a district vehicle for staff use, and assisting in raising funds for the remapping of the county's soil along with the updating of the county's Soil Survey.

In addition to her contribution to the Pike County Conservation District, Commissioner Jonas is also active in the Pike County Solid Waste Management Program, the Northeastern Pennsylvania Recycling Coordination and Information Program and the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania. She not only has testified before the Citizens Advisory Council with recommendations regarding natural resource use but also has instituted action to start a feasibility study for a regional sewage treatment plant to meet Pike County's growing waste water disposal needs.

If we sold our research farms, we could cut the price of our feed

If we were less concerned about how our products perform for you, we could cut our research — or do a lot less.

Our investment in 2,700 acres—and in livestock, buildings, equipment and people—isn't to be sneezed at.

Neither is the investment in our research laboratories and the people who work in them. Nor what it takes to run a field-research program on cooperating farms and ranches in many states.

But cutting corners in research and in other ways wouldn't make much sense. It isn't the price per ton you pay for MoorMan's Mintrate® or Premix-trate® that counts—it's how efficiently these highly concentrated MoorMan Products can help you turn grain and roughage into growth, gains or milk.

How many
"part-cows"
are you milking?

Lots of dairy cows are part-timers—they're not producing as much as they could.

For a very simple reason: They don't get enough milk-making feeds. Or they get the wrong combination of fuel.

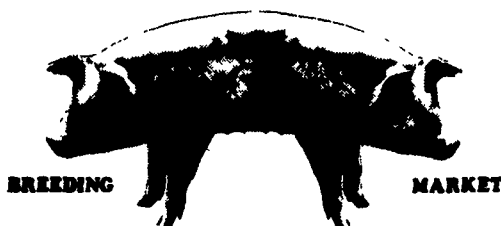

So their milk-making motors idle. Cow-power output—and profits—are lower than the machinery is built to turn out.

There's a practical, organized way to rev 'em up—with a MoorMan's® Cow Power Dairy Feeding Program.

It's based on the proven fact that when good cows are fed better, they produce more milk—and more profit.

From Mintrate® or Premix-trate®, a cow and her billions of nutritional helpers—microorganisms in her rumen—get the high-quality, carefully balanced proteins, urea, minerals and vitamins A and D needed to help break down roughage and grain into milk-making cow-power.

She can't go
both ways profitably
on the same ration

BREEDING MARKET

A replacement gilt needs a far sturdier frame and a much stronger constitution than a littermate you send to market.

Demands on her are great: first, to build a big litter of husky pigs. Next, to produce ample milk for them to grow fast.

So start developing the gilt into a profitable brood sow before you breed her—on a ration tailored to her needs.

You can do this with a proven product and program for gilt development pioneered by MoorMan Research 30 years ago.

It's an economical program—with an extra bonus that can come in extended productive life of sows.

Let's figure soon on programs for your gilts, sows and market-hogs. We have different programs to help you get top performance and profits from them all.

from 400 lbs to market

You capitalize on the different feeding values of roughage and grain on MoorMan's 2-stage beef feedlot program.

You feed high roughage and low grain for frame building or growing. Then for finishing, feed high grain and low roughage.

As shown in MoorMan Research and at several universities, this 2-stage program can save you 7% to 10% of total feed compared with conventional growing and finishing programs.

In each stage, you feed only ½ to 1 lb. per head daily of a powerful MoorMan fortifier that supplies working ingredients only — none that merely duplicate the nutrition in your roughage or grain.

New Maryland 4-H Center Opened

COLLEGE PARK, MD — A pavilion of memories, a launching pad for future leaders, and a symbol of service to the families of Maryland. These descriptions apply to the new Maryland 4-H Center at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Built at no expense to the university, the $1 million, single-story structure with modified hip roof is the culmination of a 42-year dream by one man and a six-year fund-raising effort by more than 5,000 other adult volunteers.

Its 6,000 square feet of floor space provide a permanent headquarters for the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation, plus offices and meeting rooms used by state 4-H faculty members and staff of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. A conference room accommodates public meetings for groups of up to 100 persons.

James R. Moxley, Jr., of West Friendship, a Howard County developer, was the man with a dream. A former president of the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation, Moxley headed the building committee which made his dream a reality.

During dedication ceremonies for the new building on May 10, Moxley told those in attendance that his dream for a Maryland 4-H center began in 1947 when, as a Howard County 4-H member, he won a trip to the West Virginia 4-H Center at Jackson's Mill.

The May 10 dedication ceremony was a highlight of a week of events marking the 75th anniversary of the Cooperative Extension Service, both nationwide and in Maryland.

A plaque at the front entrance of the Maryland 4-H Center honors the memory of Florence Arabella Crook Blaisdell, a former Howard County resident who loved young people.

In addition to the memorial to Mrs. Blaisdell, the Maryland 4-H Center has plaques throughout the building that honor other adults, living and dead, who have played key leadership roles in Maryland's 4-H youth programs. All of the plaques were presented during the May 10 dedication program.

The honorees are:

James R. Moxley of West Friendship, chairperson of the building committee. As a 4-H member, Moxley was a member of one of Maryland's international champion youth dairy cattle judging teams. He has been inducted into the Maryland 4-H Hall of Fame.

Edward G. "Daddy" Jenkins, deceased. Jenkins was state 4-H boys club agent, 1919-1943. His son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eben C. Jenkins, still live in the Hillandale section of Silver Spring.

Mylq S. Downey, deceased. Downey was state 4-H boys club agent, 1943-54. He served in national 4-H leadership positions with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1954-67. Downey was a Washington County native and University of Maryland graduate.

Dorothy Emerson of Chevy Chase. Now more than 90 years old, Miss Emerson provided state and national 4-H program leadership for nearly 40 years. She served for many years as Maryland 4-H girls club agent. "Miss Dot's" training sessions in public speaking left a championship legacy for Maryland's 4-H dairy cattle judging teams.

W. Sherard Wilson of Ellicott City. Wilson served as state 4-H leader, 1954-67. He is a Howard County native and University of Maryland alumnus.

F. Grove Miller of North East. Miller is a longtime farm organization leader and president of the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation. He also heads the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society.

An entrance display is planned

Poultry Industry, Ag Department Work To Protect Public

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Partnerships and teamwork between government and food producers have provided an abundant supply of quality food for the people of Pennsylvania since Colonial times. That spirit of cooperation has been the foundation for new efforts to reduce the risk of egg-associated salmonellosis.

The state Agriculture Department and Pennsylvania's poultry industry have been working together to prevent contamination of chicken eggs by Salmonella enteritidis. Under agreements signed by producers, egg-laying flocks are checked to certify that only eggs from salmonella-negative birds are packed for the shell-egg market.

The Division of Avian Health has responsibility for these new programs that fall into two categories: reactive and preventive.

Tracing Salmonella

The Director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Max Van Buskirk, VMD, explained that the Department conducts tracebacks in cooperation with the Health Department in Pennsylvania or in other states in order to identify table-egg producing flocks that could be infected with Salmonella enteritidis (SE). If an egg supply is linked to an outbreak of SE, the Department works with the egg producer so he can divert his eggs to proper channels until laboratory testing can identify the problem, if one exists.

In one recent case, a traceback from another state led the Avian Health Division to a Pennsylvania flock. To protect consumers, the egg producer immediately diverted all suspect eggs to a processing plant for pasteurization while the flock was tested. Diagnostic work determined the suspect flock was okay and had not been the source of the Salmonella outbreak, but both the producer and the Department wanted to err on the side of consumer safety.

Assuring SE-free flocks

Van Buskirk also detailed how cooperation and teamwork can help egg producers avoid problems by building a laying flock free of SE. Through this prevention program, the Avian Health Division works with a farmer to help him acquire healthy pullets and then certify his laying flock SE-free.

"We have developed a program whereby our producers can assure consumers that their eggs are safe," said Van Buskirk, "and there's no doubt we've been a leader in terms of offering a program with which the industry can deal with the problem."

He added that the diagnostic work and laboratory testing needed for the prevention program is provided to producers free of charge. An egg producer's only testing costs are those required to collect samples from birds.

NEWNEW*CUSTOMER PROTECTION PLAN

Increase the value of your tractor while controlling your budget

Now you can have the protection you need to cover repairs that may occur after your tractor's warranty has expired. John Deere's new Customer Protection Plan helps reduce the cost of unexpected repairs that can stress any bank account. Best of all, you can design the plan to fit your own farming operation and budget.

Here's how the Customer Protection Plan works:

You purchase the plan within six months of purchasing a new John Deere tractor. 40 hp or larger

You pay only for the hours of protection you calculate you'll need during the five years following the purchase of the new tractor

All tractor repairs, except for normal wear and maintenance, are covered under the terms of the protection, less a small deductible

Should you decide to trade with any John Deere dealer during the term of the plan, the remaining coverage will transfer with your tractor

Ask us about the John Deere Customer Protection Plan.
Protect your tractor and your wallet against unexpected expenses.

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

2 Cyl. F2L-912

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul. It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

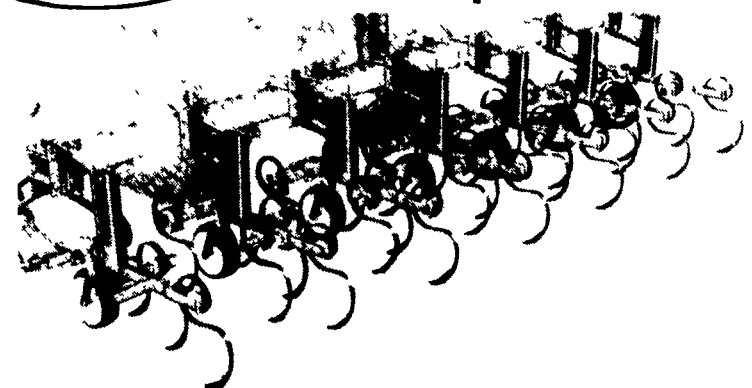

PLUS-FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

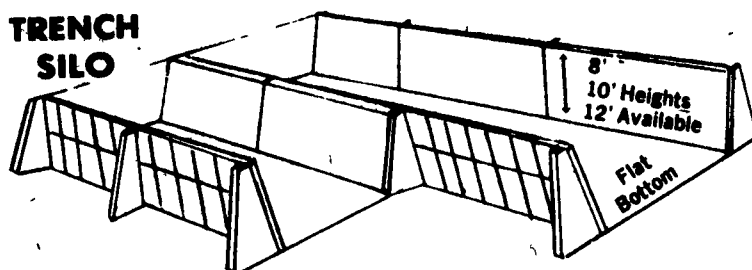

Check Your Silo Now For Rotten Staves. If You Have Been Using Your Silo For 10 To 15 Years For Either Corn Silage Or Haylage, It Is Time To SHOTCRETE.

WARNING!
CORN JUICE!

If you have a 15 year old silo, get it fixed or insure it better! But don't wait until the last minute to have it repaired because we may not be able to fix it if you wait too long. REMEMBER your silo will not fall over when it's empty - it will fall over when it's full. It cannot stand on deteriorated concrete.

Remember, we don't have used silos, rebuilt silos or pre-owned silos. The SOLLENBERGER SILO is all new, poured in place on your farm and built for generations of use.

Cousins Take Top Honors At Lebanon Fair Hog Show

BY LISA RISSE

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — It was ladies' day on Monday at the Lebanon County Fair market hog show. Two cousins, Laura and Kara Arnold, showed a pair of gilts that caught judge Henry Holloway's eye.

Laura, the daughter of Larry and Donna Arnold of Womelsdorf, exhibited a super lean and really correct 241-pound Hampshire-Duroc cross that was named the show's grand champion. This is the first champion for the 9-year-old who also is a second-year 4-H'er.

The reserve champion is a littermate to this year's champion performance pig and is sired by Buckshot, also the champion's sire. In addition, Buckshot sired last year's fair champion and roundup champion. Kara, 11, is the daughter of Frank and Penny Arnold of Lebanon. The 242-pound pig was her first reserve champion although last year she showed the lightweight champion and had the grand champion carcass. Kara's 6-year-old sister, Lindsay, helped raise the gilt.

Effects Of Shelter Type On Feedlot Steers

A recent article in the "Journal of Animal Science" about the use of different shelters for feedlot cattle contained some interesting results to be applied to Pennsylvania conditions. The paper was written by B.R. Hartman and others at Iowa State University and involved more than 3,500 steers during five years. The comparison between Iowa and Pennsylvania conditions would not be very bad. Iowa would tend to have a slightly lower winter temperature, while our state would be slightly cooler in the summer.

The researchers compared feedlots with no shelter, overhead shades, and complete confinement. They measured average daily gains, intransit shrink, and the incidence of liver abscesses. The steers were all treated alike during the five years of the study, which included a consistent program of an overnight wait after a 40-mile haul with just water available before slaughter. Steers were added to the lots every other month and were fed an average of 160 days.

The results on shrink showed that the most important factor was the year, although the average shrink was relatively low (2.27 percent during the five years.) Losses tended to be greater for cattle slaughtered during the summer and fall as compared to the winter and spring. The steers also gained the fastest during the summer and fall, leading to the observation that faster-gaining cattle will tend to shrink more. It also will be influenced by cattle consuming a higher proportion of water daily during this period of time.

The type of shelter had no influence on shrink, but the confined cattle tended to shrink the least, probably because they also tend to eat less dry feed per day and would have "less to lose."

The incidence of liver abscesses was influenced by the season of the year and the type of shelter. Those steers started on feed in the fall and winter had more abscesses, as did those coming from confinement or no shelter at all. However, average daily gains in the lot were not affected by liver abscesses.

Average daily gains tended to be lower for cattle started in the fall and winter. The difference was about .1 to .2 pounds per day of weight gain. In addition, the type of shelter also influenced the gains. One would usually surmise that the confined cattle would have the best gains, but in this case, they had the lowest average daily gains. The steers outside with the overhead shelter had the best gains (about 2.8 pound per day), followed by no shelter and then confined steers (2.6 and 2.4 pounds per day, respectively.)

This report makes some important points. First, the season of the year will have an effect on shrink of market steers and this should be accounted for when planning placements and marketing. Secondly, this is further evidence that steers will perform very well outside of a confined environment. Profits are hard enough to come by in the cattle feeding business, and operators should take a very close look at the profitability of certain facilities.

Ag Progress Days

Many of you have probably visited the Penn State Ag Progress Days program before, so you might want to start making plans to do so again. The show this year will be August 15-17. If you have not been here before, Ag Progress Days is a showcase of the Pennsylvania agricultural industry. It includes commercial and educational exhibits, tours and special programs for anyone involved in Pennsylvania agriculture. Keep an eye out for the entire program of events, and I will be happy to visit with you in the dairy and livestock tent while you are there.

Chairman Named To Seed Association

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Hugh MacWilliam, vice president and general manager of Beachley-Hardy Seed Company headquartered here, was elected chairman of the Farm Seed Division of the American Seed Trade Association. The appointment was announced at the organization's 106th annual meeting, attended by 1,200 seedsmen from around the world, in Washington, D.C., during the last week of June. MacWilliam and his wife, Phyllis, co-chaired the six-day program.

MacWilliam said that the organization serves as a task force for problem solving within the seed industry. In chairing the Farm Seed Division, he will deal with occurrences that affect farm seeds nationally and internationally, such as the current concerns with the conservation reserve program, and the seeding of those acres.

Prior to his election as chairman, MacWilliam served a three-year term as a director of the asso-

Messick Farm Equipment Wins Award

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Messick Farm Equipment Inc. recently earned the Ford New Holland 1989 Service Excellence Award. The award is a result of high ratings from Messick's service department review.

Designed especially for the Accu-Arm scale, this digital electronic weigh meter features a display that locks on and holds the weight of the animals, thereby eliminating the reading error associated with dial or beam weighing systems.

Osborne Scale Features Electronic Weigh Meter

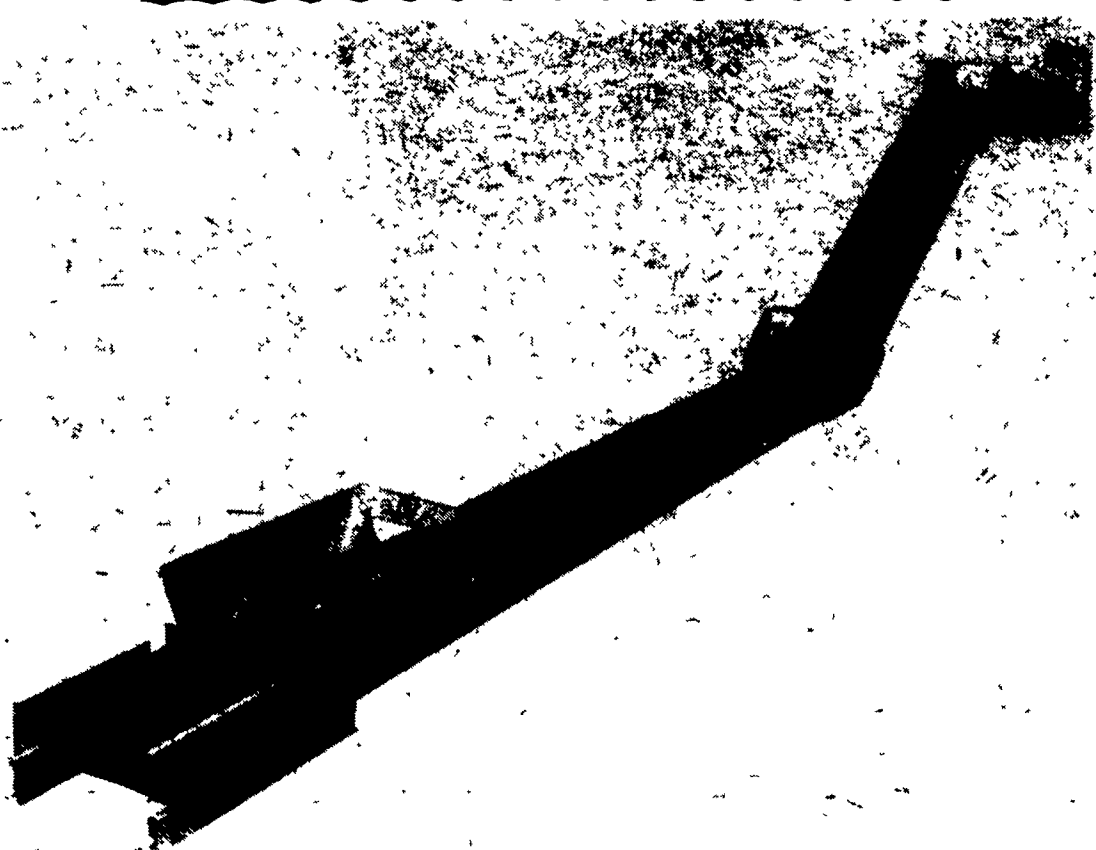

OSBORNE, KS — The Accu-Arm™ scale system, introduced by Osborne Industries, Inc. in 1988, now includes a newly designed optional digital-electronic weigh meter. The digital meter features a digital display that "locks on and holds" the weight of the animal and therefore eliminates the reading error associated with dial or beam methods of weighing. This "quick freeze" read-out automatically resets to zero once the animal leaves the scale, or the operator can reset with a reset button. The meter also permits the operator to easily reset and recalibrate the zero by pushing a re-zero button to eliminate error created by waste or dirt accumulation on the scale during a series of weighings.

The E500 meter is designed to be used with all Accu-Arm™ 500-lb capacity scales. Measuring error has been found to be less than 1/4 % for the E500 in combination with an Accu-Arm™ scale.

Output is optionally in pounds or kilograms. The meter comes with a battery-saving AC-adaptor and instructions in a special carrying case. Power is either one 9-volt alkaline battery with about 40 hours of service or the AC-adaptor. To preserve battery life in the battery mode, the E500 shuts itself off if no activity occurs for longer than about 15 minutes. The meter is warranted against defect in materials and workmanship for one year.

The E500 meter was designed so that it could be priced as a reasonable alternative to mechanical dial or beam weighing systems without sacrificing durability, accuracy or reliability. For more information about the E500 and Accu-Arm™ scale systems, contact your nearest Authorized Osborne Dealer or call 1-800-255-0316 or write Customer Service, Osborne Industries, Inc., P.O. The model 220 belt conveyor from A.O. Smith Harvestore Products Inc. is a rugged feed mover. The 20-inch-wide belt can carry up to 1,400 pounds of forage or 750 pounds of grain per minute over distances of up to 180 feet. Optional incline and decline joints are available for the conveyor, which can be reversed to deliver feed to two locations.

Versatile Belt Conveyor Offered By Harvestore

DEKALB, IL. — The new model 220 belt conveyor from A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. is a rugged feed-mover that comes in lengths up to 180 feet. With its 20-inch wide Dura-Glide™ belt, the conveyor can transport up to 1,400 pounds of forage or 750 pounds of grain per minute.

This heavy-duty conveyor is versatile, making it ideal for busy feedrooms. For instance, the conveyor can be reversed to carry feed ingredients or mixed rations in either direction. Incline and decline joint accessories are available to change direction from horizontal or angled, allowing a single 220 conveyor to do the work of up to three conventional conveyors. When fitted with two joints, the conveyor can run near the floor to collect feed from unloaders, angle upward to clear headspace, then level off to complete the delivery run.

Three styles of belting are available, including a smooth belt for horizontal and modest inclines; a rough textured version for steeper angles; and a mini-cleat belt that can move forage on an incline of up to 40 degrees, and processed grain up to 35 degrees.

The 220 conveyor is equipped with a 1 to 5 horsepower motor, depending on length. Drive rolls are a full 8-inch diameter for positive action. An available belt cleaning brush helps prevent feed build-up, a required option for rough textured or mini-cleated belting.

When fitted with an optional diverter plow, feed can be removed from the 220 conveyor at any point along its length. The plow features a urethane blade for positive action and minimal belt wear.

The model 220 belt conveyor is an ideal choice for a new feeding facility, or to replace chain-and-flight or auger conveyors in older feeding setups. Its low profile makes it easy to position beneath unloaders, and it's well-suited as a transport conveyor to carry rations from feedroom to bunk.

More information about the model 220 belt conveyor is available from authorized, independent Harvestore system dealers.

Particle Size Testing Can Maximize Feed Efficiency

PENDER, NE — Hog feeders who want to make sure they're getting the maximum gain from each pound of grain can learn more about their feeding efficiency by using the feedgrains particle size testing service offered by Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co.

For years feeders have known that the seed coat must be cracked for better digestibility. Grain is more quickly and easily digested when more surface area is in contact with the enzymes in the digestive process. However, it's also known that grinding grain too fine can cause a number of problems, ranging from low palatability to ulcers and respiratory problems.

Recent Kansas State University tests have identified what is believed to be an optimum particle size when using corn or milo. They show 10 percent better gains when using feed rations milled to 700 micron size when compared to 1000 micron size particles. Particles smaller than 700 microns also decreased the efficiency of the feed.

In performing particle size testing, individual feed samples from farmers are run through a 16-stage screening process to determine the average particle size, and more importantly, the percentage of feed that is larger or smaller than the average. Using a computer programs developed at Kansas

State, they'll also calculate the surface area that will be exposed to the digestive enzymes.

Feeders who are interested in particle size testing should send one pound samples to Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co., Research and Development Department, One Mill Road, Pender, Nebraska 68047. The testing and report fee is $10 per sample run.

"It is with a great deal of pride that we announce these 1989 Award winners," said ASA Executive Vice-President Earl B.

Gold Award Winners: Brian Bertelsen, Little York, IL; Donnell Brown, Throckmorton, TX;

Larkin Dunkle, Franklin, WV; Melissa Hubbard, Arlington, TX.

Silver Award Winners: Brett Bayha, Acampo, CA; Greg Chovanec, Fayetteville, TX; Randall Eisenhower, Bellevue, OH; Lisa Forst, Chappell Hill, TX; Rob Long, Emerson, IA; Ryan Ludvigson, Cushing, IA; Robert Tonn, Elton, LA; Shawn Vaverka, Wann, OK; Regina Williams, Orient, IA; Wende Wolfe, Schuyler, NE.

The Award winners were named at ASA's Summer Classic IX, held recently at Des Moines, IA.

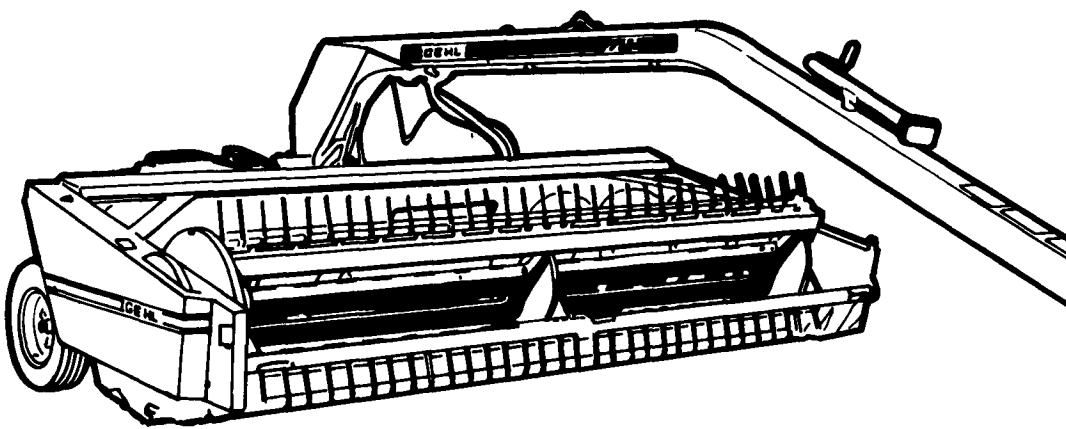

ASA is a national association dedicated to the enhancement of the Simmental and Simbrah cattle breeds. Association members include purebred cattle producers, seedstock suppliers, cow/calf operations and commercial feedlot operators. The Association works closely with individual state Simmental/Simbrah associations and is a member of the World Simmental Federation.

Founded in 1968, the Bozeman, Montana, based association provides breed registration services, publishes an annual Sire Summary of Expected Progeny Differences, conducts a summer conference and annual winter meeting, and distributes educational and technical information to members and academic institutions. The Association encourages youth involvement through the American Junior Simmental Association which conducts an annual youth conference. ASA disseminates information through various publications including the association's flagship publication, The Register.

ASA represents over 8,900 active adult members and over 4,000 junior members with average annual registrations of 70,000 Simmental and 8,500 Simbrah cattle.

Three-Year-Old Maryland Cow Wins Somerset Holstein Show

BY GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent
MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — At the Somerset County Holstein Show held at the county fairgrounds, the grand champion of the evening, as well as senior champion, was Up-Rite Hannibal Dianne, a three-year-old cow owned by Wayne Schrock of Grantsville, Md.

Sired by Brookview Hannibal-ET, Dianne is out of Locker-Lane Deliteful Dawn. Her current 365-day record is 22,560 pounds of milk, 4.8 percent butterfat, and 3.8 percent protein.

Schrock, his wife, Felicia, and their two pre-school children have a farm of some 75 acres and milk between 40 and 45 cows. The cows have a rolling herd average of 21,000 pounds and a BAA of 106.8.

Willard Maust of Meyersdale is the owner of Elk Lick Abigail Chaplain Cindy, the reserve grand champion and reserve senior champion, born May, 1986. Cindy's sire was C Hanoverhill Chaplain-ET, and she is out of Elk Lick Sun Viking Abigail-Twin.

Maust and his wife, Ella, live on a dairy farm between Meyersdale and Salisbury, near the highest point in Pennsylvania, the scenic Mount Davis. Their dairy herd consists of about 55 milking cows.

The junior grand champion was an intermediate yearling heifer owned by Jill Stutzman, 10, of Friedens. Ebe-Tide Val Star Bonnie is a December, 1987, daughter of Poverty-Hollow Valiant Star out of Ebe-Tide Royal Star Beaver.

Young Jill is lean and spunky. She attends Shanksville elementary school and belongs to the Milkdrops 4-H Club. A lover of active sports, Jill is also a veteran at showing her animals. She says she has exhibited once at the state level, twice at districts, three times at county fairs, and four times at the Black & White Show. Her parents are Mike and Barb Stutzman.

Rockwood Junior High School. He is in the Milkshakers 4-H Club and really enjoys selling 4-H cookies. In addition to his farm interests, Billy says hunting and basketball are some of his favorite sports.

At the 4-H convention held in Harrisburg last year, Billy won the state junior champion award.

Farm, Home Field Day Planned

NEWARK, DE — The University of Delaware is sponsoring a farm and home field day on August 9 beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the university's Research and Education Center. The Center is located five miles west of Georgetown on U.S. Route 9.

Professionals from the university's Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension will be working to bring the public the latest in agricultural and consumer information.

"We're excited about this year's agronomic tour," says George Chaloupka, director of the Research and Education Center.

"Our researchers will be presenting up-to-the-minute research of interest to the agricultural community."

The three-stop agronomic tour is scheduled for 8:45 a.m. and will be repeated at 10:30 a.m. The first stop features Dr. Tom Sims from the department of plant science and graduate student Karen Schilke. Their topic is "Monitoring Potential Nitrate Leachability Under Certain Management Practices Utilizing Poultry Manure and Commercial Fertilizer in Corn." Sims and Schilke have developed resin monitors to measure nitrate-nitrogen leachability from commercial fertilizers and poultry manure.

Dr. Bruce Vasilas, also from the department of plant science, will present his research on "Developing Corn and Soybean Replant Models." Vasilas is developing models that can be used to evaluate whether it is economically feasible to replant a certain soybean or corn field after a stand reduction from insect or environmental damage. He will stress economics in his presentation.

The final stop on the agronomic tour will feature Extension weed specialist Frank Webb on "Evaluating Ridge Tillage Corn Production and Weed Control." Webb will discuss the water-quality aspects associated with ridge tillage in corn in addition to discussing new and future herbicides that show promise for agronomic crop production.

Two vegetable tours headed by Ed Kee, Extension vegetable specialist, will run concurrently with the agronomic tours. The vegetable tours will include honeydew and melon variety demonstrations and taste tests, insect research demonstrations, supersweet and processing varieties of sweet corn, and lima bean research.

Chaloupka says an environmental-quality program will be held in the grove at the Research and Education Center with presentations scheduled from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. Topics to be covered include dead chicken disposal and composting, nutrient management with poultry manure and commercial fertilizers, groundwater contamination and treatment, food safety, and biological insect control. A safety presentation focusing on hazardous spills also will take place near the grove.

Also on display will be exhibits on environmental quality from state and civic organizations.

The program, which will conclude in the early afternoon, is free and open to the public without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, age or national origin. Lunch will be available for purchase on the grounds.

Growers Fertilizer Solutions To Be At Ag Progress

MILAN, OH. — Growers Fertilizer Solutions has announced that Melvin Martin, of Lititz, Pa., will be the company's representative at Pennsylvania Ag Progress at State College on August 15 through 17. Martin will be at the Growers exhibit discussing with farmers the methods of using less chemicals and fertilizers while increasing crop yields and quality.

Growers Fertilizer Solutions were developed by Dr. V.A. Tiedjens, former director of the Virginia Truck Experimental Station at Norfolk. Tiedjens performed 30 years of fundamental research, much of which was in hydroponics, before perfecting his formula currently in use. Hydroponics is a method of growing plants without soil, enabling Tiedjens to determine the nutrients necessary for crop growth. He also used farm fields with known histories for plot work rather than research station farms which tend to have plots on top of plots.

Growers Fertilizer Solutions, now with 34 years of commercial on-the-farm use, is credited with the development of foliage fertilization and direct to the seed application in field crops. Growers customers have shown outstanding results and top-quality crops, such as 58-to 60-pound test weight corn along with high protein levels of 9 to 13 percent. Growers alfalfa hay has been reported reaching 23 to 26 percent protein. When the high-quality crops are fed to animals, the animals are healthier and are produced at less cost.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

The Heat Is On

In my last two columns, I focused on ideas for reducing heat stress in dairy cows. Since we are getting many questions related to this topic I decided to focus on it again.

If we expect cows to milk, test and conceive well, they have to eat well. That can be a major challenge in hot weather. To accomplish this, we have to keep cows cool — and out of the slop. We need to offer cows fresh feed that is of good quality and properly balanced, and we need to have it available to them throughout most of the day.

Shade

Cows need shade. This can be in the form of trees, barns or artificial shades. If trees are used, there should be enough of them to keep cows well dispersed so they don't turn the area into a sloppy hole. A well-ventilated barn could be more desirable for several reasons. It provides cows with a clean stall bed. Cows can have access to feed and water at all times. Cows expend less energy and produce less body heat when they don't have to walk to distant pastures, shades, waterers and feeders.

Artificial shades can also be constructed by stretching meshed material over feed alleys, or by supporting it with frames and poles. About 50 square feet of shade is needed per cow. Unless the shade structure can be moved frequently, it should be built over a concrete pad and provisions need to be made for removing and storing manure that accumulates around the shaded area. Feeders and waterers should be placed close to or at the edge of the shaded area.

Air Exchange And Air Movement

If barns are used to protect cows in the heat of the day, be sure hot, stale air is replaced with fresh air. Open the barn on all sides, if possible, from roof to floor. If necessary remove side wall covering. Wall curtains or several rows of hinged panels that can be opened fully, work well. And, don't forget the holding pen.

Also be sure the roof ridge or the ceiling of the barn is open so hot air can escape. In bank barns, it is helpful to open hay bales, lift up barn floor boards or install several large "chimneys." The total amount of opening should be at least 1-2% of the total floor area.

Air movement is greater in narrower buildings that have good exposure to prevailing winds. High ceilings or eaves and steep pitched roofs also encourage greater air movement. Fans can also be used to provide additional air movement and to help force fresh air into the barn or to exhaust hot, stale air from the barn.

One 24-inch fan suspended from the ceiling and aimed horizontally at the cow's head and shoulder region will provide comforting breezes to about eight stalls. Be sure these fans have fresh air to circulate. An alternative to this is to force about 400 cfm of air per cow through holes that are cut into ducts or tubes that are located over the cows' head and shoulder area. For this to be effective, the duct and fans have to be large enough to deliver the large quantity of air needed. If there is insufficient ceiling room for a duct or if pipelines, girders, etc., hinder the construction of ducts in the stable, the ducts can be placed above the stable and holes cut through the ceiling or barn floor.

If the barn is kept closed, exhaust fans can be used to pull air in through side-wall inlets that are designed to direct air towards the cows' heads. These fans need to exhaust about 500-700 cfm of air per cow, or provide about one air change per minute.

Sprinkling Cows

There is increased interest in sprinkling cows and letting the wet cow stand in a breeze to become comforted by evaporative cooling. Before I proceed any further, let me make an important distinction between sprinkling and misting. Our goal is to wet the cow to the hide, while not wetting her udder. This can be done by sprinkling the cow with enough water to penetrate her hair coat and with droplets that are large enough not to be blown away by the breezes. A fine mist, on the other hand - if it is not blown away before it reaches the cow - may only moisten the tips of her hair, only to "blanket her in a steam bath," raising the humidity level of the barn and actually making her more uncomfortable.

Sprinklers work best if placed outside the barn, along a feed bunk where they do not get stall beds wet, where they do not raise the humidity level in the barn and where there is a hard surface with good drainage.

Some farmers have effectively used fan jet type nozzles that deliver about 2-5 gal. of water per minute. These can be placed at 4 to 5 foot intervals on a rigid 3/4-1 inch pipe and placed about 8 feet above the floor and 32 inches back from the feed line. The sprinklers can be set to come on at about 78°F and run 3-5 minutes out of every 10-15 minutes. Fans, located along the bunk, provide a continuous breeze. It is important for the sprinklers to shut down periodically to allow time for cows to dry off and cool down; it's the drying process, not the wetting process, that cools the cows.

Needless to say, sprinklers work best where cows have access to bunk feeders. They don't work well in tie stall barns due to wetting the stalls and increasing the humidity. However, I have an untested idea which interested tie stall barn operators might want to try - at their own risk. Put a sprinkler system in the barn yard or along the feed bunk. Let the tie stalls become free stalls; simply untie the cows and let them go in and out at will. How cows will respond to this freedom will vary, depending on their training and disposition. Buzzers or other devices could alert cows that the sprinklers will be coming on soon. Fans blowing air down along the mangers and fronts of stalls might encourage cows to enter the stall rather than stand or lie in the walkway. Needless to say, the walkways will need more scraping. Who knows, this idea just might work; if so, it'll give stall barn operators benefit from sprinklers too.

Feeding

Keep feeds and water fresh, and rations properly balanced. Feed frequently; better yet, use total mixed ration concepts. Use high quality forages and energy dense rations. Feed less forage, but be sure to meet cows' needs for minimum effective fiber. Observe cows closely and know what they are eating. Keep feed and water convenient and keep mangers and waterers clean. Be sure to have plenty of feed available during the cooler hours of the day.

There may be a need for extra buffers, potassium, magnesium, and sodium. The use of additives such as niacin, live cell yeast and aspergillus arylae may also help.

Cow Handling, Heat Detection, Etc.

Reduce the size of milking groups and the time they have to stand in the holding area. Avoid getting cows excited and overheated; it could help improve production and conception. Separating cows in heat from the rest of the herd will help to accomplish this.

To improve heat detection, observe cows during evening and early morning hours when they are most active and when they are not preoccupied with other interests such as feeding. Keep records of all heats and prepare heat expectancy lists. Place cows to be observed in a group with other sexually active animals; it'll entice their activity. Be sure they have good footing. Consider using heat detection aids such as rump patches and markers, testosterone treated heifers, etc. Synchronizing heats can help concentrate animal activity to smaller blocks of time, increase herd activity during these times and make detection easier and "worth doing."

If cows fail to show heats, or fail to conceive, be careful about relying too heavily on the farm bull; the heat could have made him infertile, and it may take him as long as 3-4 weeks to regain his fertility after the heat spell ends. On the other hand, the semen in the tank is protected from the heat.

Minimize stress by not having cows freshen in the heat of the summer. Provide the cows that do freshen with a clean maternity

Youths Participate In Dauphin Conservation School

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — During the last two weeks in June, a few lucky residents had the rare opportunity to sight a black bear in Dauphin County. For those who enjoyed a peaceful sighting of an uncommon species to this county it was a fortunate experience.

area, and be sure they are coming off a good dry cow program. Our goal is to prevent udder and uterine infections, and to have her calve in good flesh and with a strong appetite.

The Feed Situation

Hay and haylage quality is affected by the wet growing and harvesting conditions. Barley and wheat have very light test weights. Therefore, it would be wise to test all feeds - forages and grains - and balance rations accordingly.

The scab infested wheat is not worth much on the market; it'll probably be worth more as feed. Scab-infested wheat generally is not a problem to cattle if limited to about 10-20% of the grain mix. However, there is a possibility of the grain developing toxins if improperly stored. Therefore, the grain should be clean and dry before going into storage and properly aerated while in storage. If your alfalfa stands are going out because of the wet weather and you're going to be short on hay or haylage, you may want to be stockpiling hay and haylage now, if you can find decent quality material for a decent price. Otherwise, you may want to start culling your herd or adjusting feeding programs accordingly.

With the good corn crop we appear to be having, you may need to harvest most of it as silage and use it more heavily in your feeding program. Another consideration is to plant small grains, such as rye and oats early for fall grazing or harvesting; rye could also give some additional feed next spring before being platted to silage corn.

peared in the rural areas of Dauphin County, but beavers and bobcats also have provided memorable sightings. Following their instinctive needs to establish their own range, these species have strayed into the county and found a niche in which to reside. During the second week of June, 42 teen-aged boys and girls participated in a wildlife research project that dealt with these species in conjunction with the Dauphin County Junior Conservation School.

Sponsored by the Dauphin County Federation of Sportsmen Clubs, the school is held at Camp Hebron in Halifax Township. Throughout the week-long school, state, federal, and county agencies conducted programs on natural resource conservation with the intention of instilling these young women and men with an appreciation for the environment.

As part of the school, Duayne Forsberg, resource specialist, with the Dauphin County Conservation District, conducted the wildlife research project he created called "Bring Them Back." This project is a "fictitious role-playing" learning experience that places junior or senior high school students in a semi-realistic research program to reintroduce a wildlife species into a habitat that at one time supported them. Students were divided into four research teams. Each team was assigned one of these mammals: Beaver, Black Bear, Bobcat or Elk to prepare a reintroduction feasibility study. The unique twist to their objective was to use Dauphin County as the geographic region for the reintroduction. Ranked 14th in population among Pennsylvania's 67 counties, Dauphin County can boast that 48 percent of its land mass is forested. With 160,000 acres in forestland Dauphin County has limited potential for uncommon species of wildlife.

The format of this activity enhances the participants' knowledge of physical geography, wildlife, habitat diversity and the complexity of wildlife management. To complete the experience students play the roles of wildlife professionals at a mock hearing before a review board that can approve and fund only one species for reintroduction. Each team follows eight reintroduction requirements that were addressed in their studies. Major requirements were: habitat diversity of Dauphin County, selection of specific habitats, financial limitations and potential conflicts.

Based upon the reports of each team an ad hoc review Board of the Conservation School approved the bobcat research team's proposal. The abbreviated findings of their study are presented here in their own words to show how those teen-agers proposed to bring back the bobcat into Dauphin County. If any educator or youth group leader would like information on "Bring Them Back" call Duayne Forsberg at the Conservation District office, (717) 921-8100.

8 HP Kawasaki Gasoline Engine With Clutch & 6 to 1 Reduction

Specially designed shaft to power hydraulic pumps, etc.

This unit is basically designed to transmit power from engine to power take off shaft equipment. The reason for this design, an extra shaft is built into this unit so power can be transmitted to the hydraulic system by using belts and pulleys. This shaft is placed above the splined shaft, and runs hydraulic pump with or without power take off shaft in gear. No need to take the rope rewind starter off to mount pulley on front of the engine. This simple design eliminates special machined pulley adaptors. Reduction housing and cover is a rugged cast iron construction. All shafts are of special selected steels and are heat treated and hardened at wear points. All ball and needle bearing construction for long life. A heavy-duty ball-loc type clutch is used. This unit has few moving parts, thus it should give many years of service. Clutch adjustments are made from the outside, (very simple).

A specially selected engine, the Kawasaki KF-82 8 1/2 HP, is used for your convenience. The engine is also made with rugged construction, and has smooth operation. This engine has high torque at low RPMs, thus is well adapted to the clutch and reduction unit.

Marcus and Chester reviewing their DHIA records

Mercersburg, PA

Marcus and Chester Martin operate a 85 cow Holstein operation in Franklin County. These brothers have been partners since 1980 when they began renting the farm from their father, Glenn Martin. Glenn started the operation in 1956. This summer Marcus and Chester purchased the farm from their father.

The Martins current feed program consists of 6 lbs. of hay along with 25 lbs. of high quality haylage and 30 lbs. of corn silage. Up until July of 1988 the grain was fed as a straight 18% mix made up of shelled corn, barley, molasses and Purina North Atlantic 38% concentrates. Having felt that their herd had reached a plateau in milk they decided to try a recommendation that their Purina Dairy Specialist suggested.

In July of that year "Marc" and "Chet" backed their protein mix down to a 12% grain ration and started top dressing with Purina North Atlantic 40% concentrate. Their current milk to grain ratio is a 3 to 1 from 65 lbs. of milk and higher. From 50 lbs. to 65 lbs. of milk a 3.5 to 1. And from 50 lbs. of milk on down a 4 to 1. The top dress starts at 60 lbs. of milk.

Here Are The Results The Martins Have Seen In The Last Year:

DATE	#HEAD	% DAYS	MILK LBS.	% TEST	FAT LBS.	% PROTEIN	PROTEIN LBS.
7-88	82.1	86.7	17,851	3.5	626	3.1	549
7-89	85.6	86.7	19,473	3.7	712	3.1	608

Listed below are some comments that Chet had to share about their current program:

- "The first thing that we noticed with the new program was a reduction in our protein purchases by 1 ton/month."
- "We also are seeing higher peaking cows along with better persistency."
- "Herd health and breeding are both doing well and our current calving interval is 12.6"
- "Because of good forage quality and our split feeding method we can feed our cows more cost effectively as well as focusing in on peak milk persistency and body condition."

Purina Mills would like to thank the Martins for sharing their records with us and wish them continued success in the future.

1989 Pennsylvania Dairy Of Distinction Winners

This farm family is typical of the many outstanding Dairy of Distinction winners across the state of Pennsylvania. Attractive homesteads, personable people and fine dairy cattle seem to go together. And they are an encouragement to everyone to do everything possible to make milk and milk products appealing to the consumers who come from urban or city locations and know very little about farming.

Each year, the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program undertakes the ambitious task of selecting the most attractive of the state's 13,700 dairy farms. Teams of judges working in 10 districts across the state survey several hundred farms entered in the competition. These judges rate each farm for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance. In the Pennsylvania program, the sanitarian for the farm's milk handler or cooperative is included on the team of judges.

Eighty new farms were added to the winner's list this year, bringing the total to 267 farms selected since the program was introduced three years ago. The program is run on a very low budget and involves persons who act as volunteers.

Funding for the program has come from both The American Dairy Association/Dairy Council and the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion Program at the state level and numerous business organizations at the district level. In addition, Lancaster Farming provides a color portrait enlargement of each farm from negatives supplied by each district.

As in previous years, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has obtained a proclamation from the governor that designates the week of Ag Progress Days as Dairy of Distinction Week. In his proclamation this year, Gov. Robert P. Casey said that historically dairy farmers have taken pride in the operation and appearance of their dairy farms. And Casey credited farmer's long hours and hard work had contributed to the Commonwealth's continued ranking among the nation's five leading dairy states.

"The evidence is shown by the many beautiful dairy farms that grace our scenic, rural landscape," Casey said. "In recognition of the dedication that inspires our dairy farmers to support our economy and maintain these attractive farms, I, Robert P. Casey, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim the week of August 13-19 as Dairy of Distinction Week in Pennsylvania.

Adams County

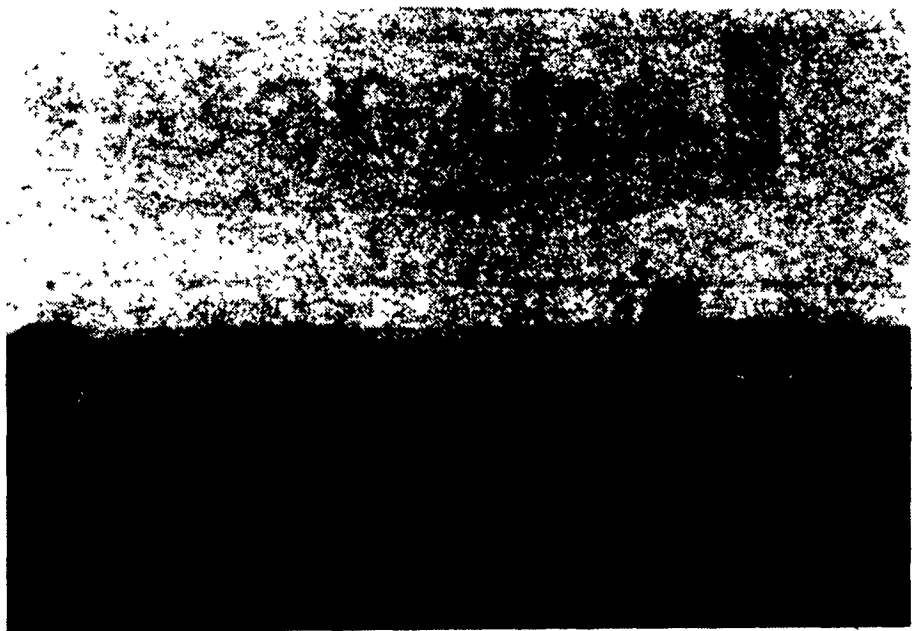

Lee Horst, New Oxford

The farm of Lee and Elsie Horst and Robert and Ruth Broucher is located southeast of New Oxford. They own 275 acres but farm about 450 acres of corn and alfalfa. The Holstein milking herd of 125 cows has an average of 20,000 pounds of milk. Elsie and Ruth are sisters, and their father bought the farm in 1936. The Horsts have three children: Lynn 20, Ronda, 16 and Arvin 11. The Brouchers have five children: Regina, 17; Randy 14; Michael 11; Ruthie 9 and Ruby 7.

Armstrong County

Murray Rearick, Dayton

Murray and Dorothy Rearick and son Robert farm 300 acres in Armstrong County. They raise corn and alfalfa to feed their 120 head of Holstein dairy animals. In addition, they raise oats to put in the silo. The farm has been in the family 53 years, but the dairy operation was started thirteen years ago.

Dairy Distinction Winners Named

"I urge our citizens to support the state's dairy industry by enjoying delicious, nutritious Pennsylvania dairy products throughout the year."

Each Dairy of Distinction receives a farm sign and a certificate from the Pennsylvania state program in addition to the color portrait from Lancaster Farming. These awards are presented as an incentive to keep farms beautiful and to help consumers to have a favorable impression of the source of their dairy products. In addition, the awards provide incentive for dairymen to tidy up their homesteads to meet the Dairy of Distinction standards.

On August 16, at 2:30 p.m. in the special events building at Ag Progress Days at Rock Springs, all present and past Dairy of Distinction farm family winners have been invited to meet for a special time of fellowship to get to know each other and to exchange ideas with other winners from across the state. At that time some of the portraits of this year's winning farms will be shown.

As in the past, ten district committees comprised of volunteer members ran the program in the local areas. They made arrangements for the judging and set up the presentation of awards. This year, the district chairpersons are as follows: District 11, George Wilcox; District 12, Wally Jackson; District 13, Susan DuFour; District 14, David Myers; District 15, Sam Maclay; District 16, Bernice Gabel; District 17, Kevin Barrett; District 18, Allen Roszel; District 19, Naomi Spehr and District 20, Russell Rooks.

State officers are: Dan Baker, vice president; Paul Nichols, secretary; Donna Gearhart, treasurer, Steve Spencer, advisor.

Dairymen who applied for the award but didn't win and all others who would like to receive the award are encouraged to apply next year. Information is available from Secretary Nichols, ADADC, 1853 East Third St., Williamsport, PA 17701. Phone: (717) 323-2552.

William Patton, Kittanning

The barn on the Slate Lick Farm was built in 1906 and has been in the Patton family since that time. Bill and Martha Patton along with son Dan and wife Sheri own 150 acres and farm another 50 acres to grow feed for their 80 head of Holsteins. The milking herd averages 17,500 pounds of milk. Six-year-old Katie is the fifth generation Patton to live on the farm located south of Kittanning.

Rick Phillips, Lenhartsville

Rick Phillips worked most of his life on this 220-acre farm near Lenhartsville before he took it over four years ago from his uncle. Rick and his wife Peggy now milk 65 Holsteins and produce approximately 19,000 pounds of milk. Their children, Joseph, 9, and Adrienne, 4, are eager to help with the chores just as much as mom and dad will allow. Everyone has a part in keeping the farm attractive.

"It's real important to have a nice looking farm and if a person takes pride in their work it shows in their farm. It's important for selling milk," said Rick. "It doesn't take much more effort to have a nice looking farm than a sloppy one."

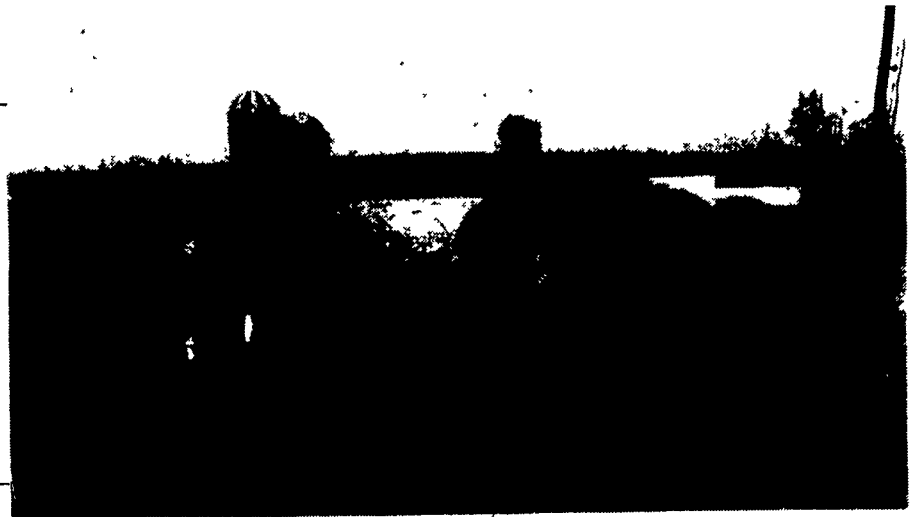

Berks County

Franklin Troutman, Womelsdorf

"When I started here in 1950 I never thought I'd see something like this PA Dairy of Distinction program," said Ralph Troutman, father of Franklin Troutman, owner of Retland Farm in Womelsdorf.

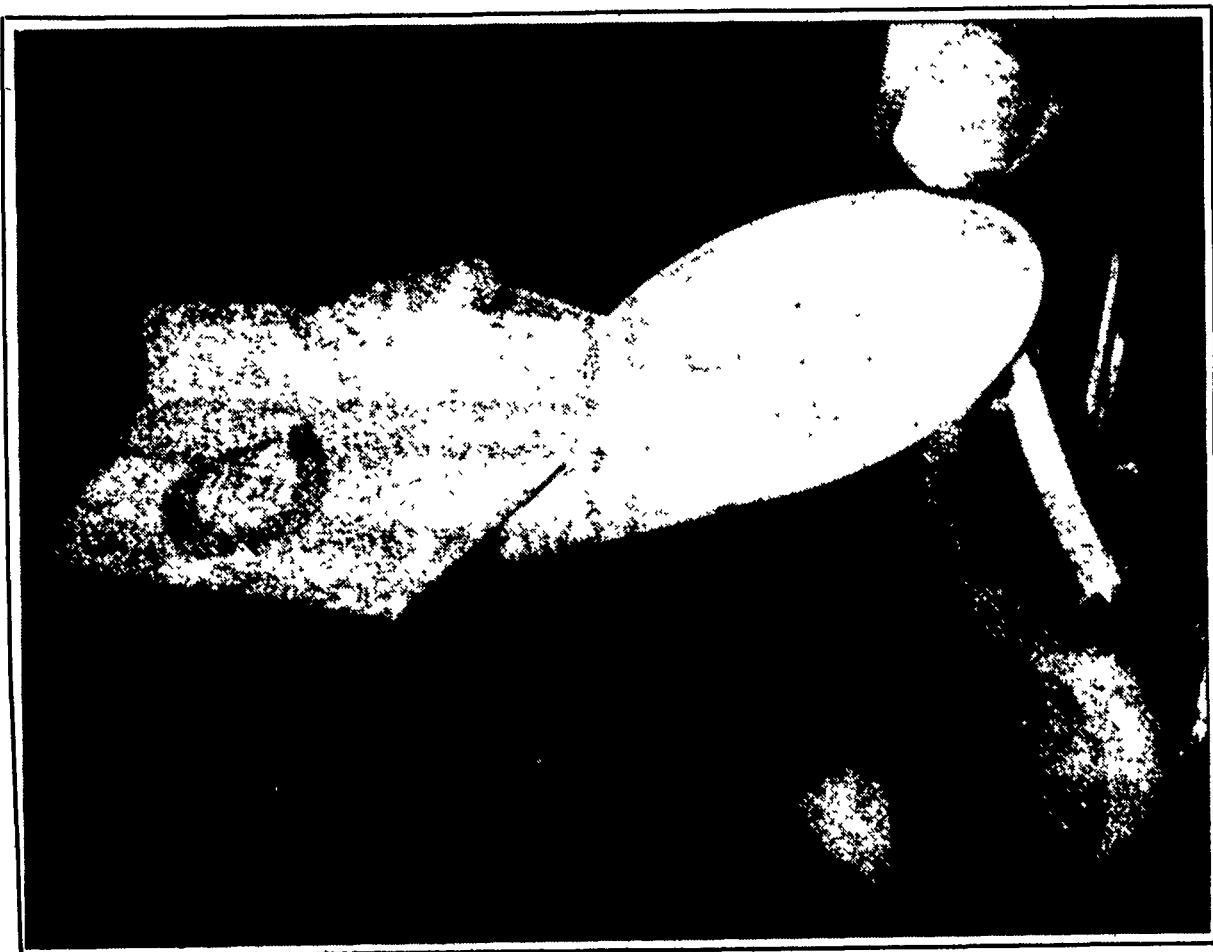

"If you are going to have a farm, why not keep it in shape. Besides it promotes the sale of milk," adds Ralph.

In 1950 Ralph began farming at this location on shares. In 1969 he purchased the 92-acre parcel and now the farm is the responsibility of Franklin, his son. Fifty-five head of registered Holsteins produce 20,300 pounds with butterfat at 751 pounds.

Berks County

Boonecroft Farms, Douglasville

The 1600 acres and 550 total head of Boonecroft Farms of Douglasville keeps owners Scott & Susan Taulker putting in a lot of hours when the sun is shining. But on rainy days when they should be in the house stealing a well-deserved nap, they won't do it. Every spare moment is spent pressure washing or sweeping.

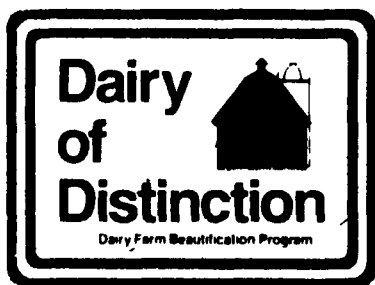

When visitors came to the farm on the Berks County Chamber of Commerce tour, Scott said their guests were amazed at how clean the farm was and said it didn't look like it was a farm.

"I've worked on farms, since I was 8. Coming here 10 years ago it seemed to me that the cleanliness was a little bit over done, but these last ten years I've come to appreciate it. You don't have to get greasy from head to toe when you work on a tractor and you don't have to be knee deep in manure when you are working with calves. I really appreciate the cleanliness now," said Scott. "You can eat off the floors in any of our barns."

The Taulkers came to Boonecroft Farm ten years ago and grew only crops until four years ago when they began dairying. Situated in the nice, flat ground of Oley Valley, one of the Boonecroft farms was the homestead of George Boone, Daniel Boone's grandfather. The log cabin still stands where this trapper lived.

The milking herd of 130-head of mostly registered Holsteins produces a rolling herd average of nearly 18,000 pounds of milk.

Wilbur Hershey, Bethel

For thirty-one years, Wilbur K. and Arlene Hershey have called this 400 acres home in northern Berks County. Sons Richard and Ray have continued to work on the farm milking 135 head of Holsteins which produce 17,000 pounds of milk for their rolling herd average.

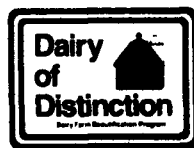

The Hersheys raise all their own replacements and have close to 100 helpers on the farm.

Wilhelmena Schmidt, Lenhartsville

When Wilhelmena Schmidt of Lenhartsville first saw this 101 acres near Lenhartsville she thought her husband had lost his mind. That was 1949 and nothing but run down buildings met her on her first visit to the farm. Today, many friends and employees describe it as the most beautiful spot in the world.

Wayne Adam has been managing the dairy operation here for 30 years. They now milk 52 cows and grow mostly corn and alfalfa and rent an additional 120 acres.

Wayne Hall was born on the fourth-generation Hopewell farm where he now operates a dairy herd. Working with his son, Wayne II, he milks 60 registered Holsteins and is raising another 40 head. Hall has about 200 acres of which all are tillable except for a small amount of woodland.

Following soil conservation practices such as sod waterways and strip cropping, he raises corn, alfalfa, and grass mixtures. The herd is housed in a free-stall barn and manure is kept in a lagoon that holds a year's supply.

Breezewood Farms has been home to the Robert E. Barkman family for 23 years now. The Barkmans have 200 Holsteins of which 125 are milked. Robert is in partnership with his sons Nathan and Lance, while his other sons are dairy farmers on their own. Bill and Eric farm in Franklin County and the eldest son, Barry, is in Snake Spring Valley. Margaret, the only daughter, works at a doctor's office.

The adjoining farm was purchased in 1953, and the Barkman men raise corn, barley, oats, and alfalfa, which is started in the oats, on 370 acres, of which 150 are rented. The remaining 270 acres of Breezewood Farms is timber and pasture land.

The milking herd is kept at the home farm in a stanchion barn with lever stalls. Cows are milked via a glass pipeline. The farm also has a free-stall barn, which was one of the first erected in the Breezewood area. Young stock are kept at the adjoining farm.

Dennis & Margie Smith, Martinsburg

Dennis and Margie Smith farm 200 acres of land in Martinsburg. All the corn and alfalfa they raise is fed to their herd of 81 milking cows and 75 young stock. The cows' rolling herd average is 20,050 pounds of milk with 3.0 percent protein and 3.7 percent butterfat. The Smiths have a free-stall barn and milk by stanchion.

Doug Smith works with his parents, while another son, Dan, helps in the summer. Their daughter, Laurie, currently enrolled in the nursing program at Indiana University, was a dairy princess in 1986.

Charles F. Hershberger, Martinsburg

One of Charles F. Hershberger's secrets to a successful dairy herd is feeding the cows before he goes to bed, no matter how late it is. He began this practice several years ago, feeding a total of six times a day, and his Holsteins' average has been steadily increasing since then.

Hershberger and his wife, Delores, run their Martinsburg farm with the help of daughter Christine's husband Randy Ebersole. The 154 cows have a rolling herd average of 17,300 pounds of milk, 689 pounds of butterfat, and 551 pounds of protein.

The farm includes 500 acres of tillable land on which alfalfa, corn, barley, and oats are raised. It also has 75 to 100 acres of pasture and woodland.

The Hershberger family includes David, a dairy farmer in Shippensburg with six children; Ross, a Penn State senior who was named a distinguished junior member of the Holstein Association; Christine, a registered nurse with two daughters who like to help their father and grandparents; and Ellen, a music teacher who also was the 1973 Bedford County Dairy Princess and state alternate dairy princess.

K. Wayne Burket, Martinsburg

K. Wayne Burket and his son, Mike, raise corn, alfalfa, and barley on Wayne and Bonnie's 160-acre Martinsburg farm. All their crops are fed to the farm's 75 Holstein cows and 55 head of young stock. The herd is housed in a free-stall barn and has a rolling herd average of almost 18,000 pounds of milk, 650 pounds of butterfat, and 3.1 percent protein. The Burkets also have a daughter, Michele.

At Browncroft Farm in Rome a rolling herd average of 24,644 pounds of milk with a 4.1 butterfat test, 1,019 pounds of butterfat, 3.2 percent protein and 799 pounds of protein on 30 head of Holsteins comes from all Sire Power bulls, according to William Brown of Browncroft Farm in Rome.

William and his wife Janet feed a 50-50 mixed grass and alfalfa hay. William prefers this mix to pure alfalfa because his cows prefer it, too.

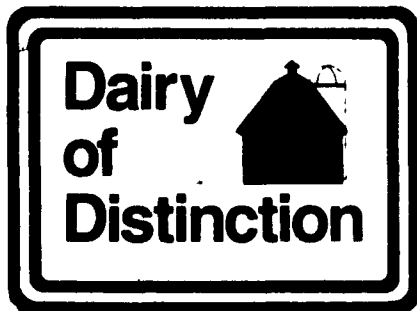

"We're old-fashioned farmers. We do it like our grandfathers used to do it. We pasture all summer and in winter we feed hay and corn silage," said William.

The Browncroft herd added 1,000 pounds to their average when the automatic grain feeder was installed which feeds grain every three hours. William says it allows the cows to eat more grain without causing them indigestion.

William and his wife took over the farm in 1958 from William's father, Irving, who bought the 172-acre farm in 1945. They purchased another 90 acres in 1984. Their son Curtis and his wife Nancy along with their son, 1 1/2-year-old William, work on the Browncroft Farm also.

Gary Lee Vroman, Granville Summit

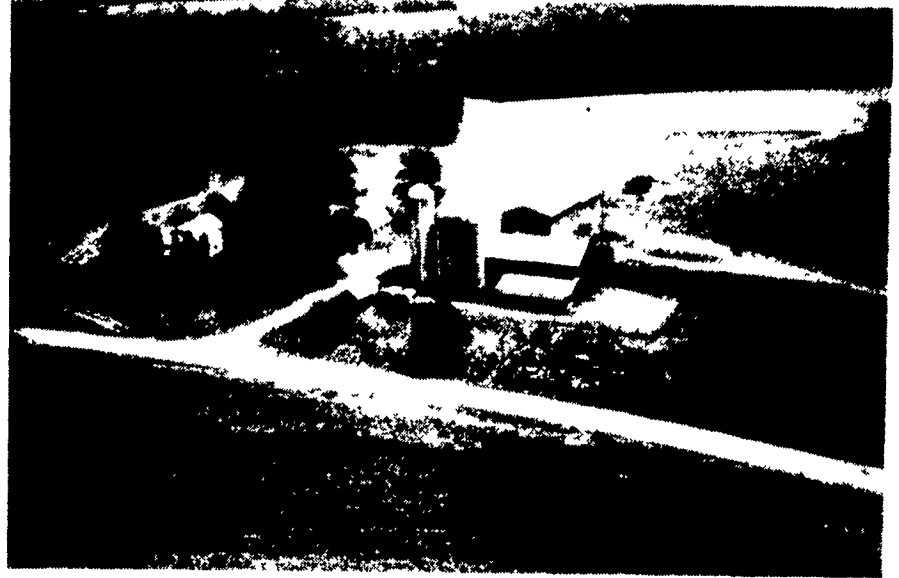

For five years Gary Lee Vroman has been farming in Granville Summit in Bradford County. Originally from Berks County, Gary made the move when he learned the farm was available. His crops are corn, hay and some oats. The rolling herd average is nearly 20,000 pounds of milk on 75 head of Holsteins. You won't find any young stock on this farm.

"Raising heifers takes a lot of time and you have to feed them for two years. Then she drops a calf might produce 12,000 or 18,000 pounds. But when I buy a cow, if she made 18,000 last year you can be pretty sure she's going to do pretty close to that the next year. I buy cows from Mel Kolb in Lancaster County and Robert Shaylor up here. I know if anything goes wrong with that cow I can take it back. No questions asked. That's helps out," said Gary.

Jacob Feusner, Athens

It's been a good year for Jacob and Clara Feusner of Athens. Their farm received a Dairy of Distinction award and a Bradford County Conservation award. With their son Donald, his wife Donna and their three children, Christie, Meagan, and Katie, the Feusners do all the work on the farm. Milk production is nearly 18,000 pounds on 50 head of Holsteins with a butterfat test holding at 4.0 percent. The Feusners moved to Athens from Montgomery County in 1971. Before that Jacob farmed part time, but when Donald graduated from school they decided to farm full-time. Have they ever regretted that decision?

"No, sirree. Never regretted that decision. My son is real cooperative and that's what you really need to make a go of it farming. He's real good to work with," said Jacob.

Richard & Marilyn Packard, Troy

Since 1837 the 285-acre farm near Troy has been in the Ballard family. Today Richard and Marilyn (Ballard) Packard and their three children, Terri, 18; Amy, 14; and David 10, do most of the work after taking over the farm in 1970. Milk production on this lovely, well-kept farm located in the foothills of Mt. Pisgah is 21,000 pounds of milk and 760 pounds of butterfat on 50 head of Holsteins.

"We have been using Fertrell's feeding program with our milking herd for the past 2 years and we can say it's the best program we have ever used. Our production has increased, along with a 2 point jump in butterfat test. Herd health has been much better. Udder edema in our fresh cows has been reduced and we have been able to breed our cows back with increased efficiency."

Kore J. Peachey
Milroy, PA

"Fertrell's Rum-Cult 40 has really helped our herd maintain a desirable butterfat test throughout the year, even when feed changes were made! Our cows do well under the stress conditions of high production. Herd health improved when we started following Fertrell program Digestive problems decreased and our breeding efficiency improved."

Linus Sharp
Belleville, PA

"We started using Fertrell's Rumi-Cult 40 in June of 1987 and have been very happy with the results ... Their knowledge about nutrition has helped us immensely. I appreciate the honest straight forward approach to helping us increase and maintain our butterfat. We place a great deal of trust in the knowledge of their nutritionist, Dave Mattocks.

Ron Wood
Gor-Wood-D Holsteins
Mansfield, PA

"The main reason we use Rumi-Cult 40 is because it's a natural product. Our cows are much healthier, they make better use of their feed, and don't have the digestive problems we had with other feeding programs. We are very pleased with the increase in milk production and our lower vet expenses."

WO-BO Farms, Ottsville

David Wolfinger is the fourth generation on the 100-acre home farm near Ottsville. WO-BO Farms is a total of 360 acres where David and his wife Elaine grow corn, small grains and hay and milk 50 registered Holsteins with a herd average of 19,800 pounds and butterfat at 670 pounds.

David admits he is sometimes hard to work with because he demands neatness in everything on the farm.

"In our area it is extremely important to keep our farm neat. We have a lot of development in this area. We have gone away from the rural area and there are just too many people who just don't understand agriculture. It's up to the farmers to create a real good image about what's going on with the consumer's food supply."

Butler County

William Reichert, Portersville

Joseph and Velma Reichert and sons James, William and Roger farm 400 acres near Portersville. The century farm came into the family in 1850. The Holstein herd of 60 milk cows averages 16,500 pounds. Chester County

AR-JOY Farms, Cochranville

"My father is pretty particular," said Duane Hershey with a chuckle, "if you know what I mean." Duane is a partner of AR-JOY Farm in Chester County with his father Art Hershey, State Representative in the 13th district.

"He always told me you'll feel better on clean a farm, if the buildings are well kept and swept. He was forever sweeping. At one time I couldn't see the point of it, but now I'm glad he impressed that on me. He was right, you do feel better."

Art and Duane farm 300 acres with 180 acres in corn, 60 acres in barley and wheat which they double-crop into beans, and 60 acres into alfalfa. The Hersheys feed corn silage, haylage, high-moisture shelled corn, and a top dressing of beans to their milking herd of 60 registered Holsteins with a rolling herd average of 20,000 pounds and butterfat at 715.

"I guess this comes out of pride, but I like our farm because it sits down in the valley. I live on a hill on an adjacent small farm. I like the way our farm sits in the valley," said Duane.

Duane and his wife Marilyn have two boys Steven, 3 1/2, Kelby, 1 1/2, and the boys love the farm, according to Dad. AR-JOY is derived from Duane's parents' name, Art and his mother Joyce.

The registered Holstein herd of Charles and David Beddorf uses the Way-Win Valley Farm prefix for identification. Thompstontown

Luther and Janet Maben run a 120-acre dairy farm with the help of their sons Mike, Kent, and Craig. The farm has been in the family for more than 100 years and comes to the Mabens through Luther's family. The farm was deeded to his grandfather, Robert C. Patton, by Patton's wife Amanda's parents.

The Mabens milk about 30 registered Holsteins and have about 28 head of young stock. The cows have a rolling herd average of between 19,000 and 20,000 pounds of milk.

Luther says of his cows that he doesn't have many so he has to have good ones.

Lancaster County

Ray W. Beyer & Son, Lititz

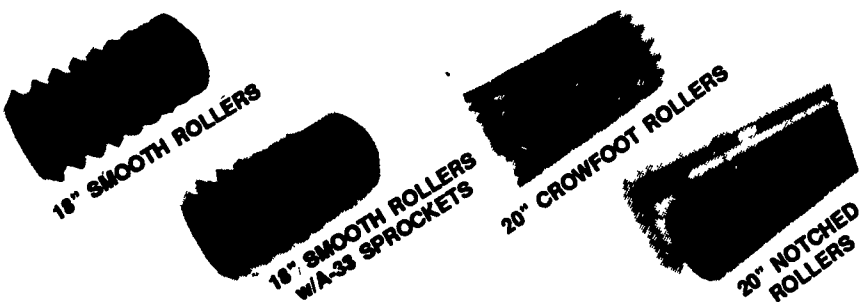

People often compliment the Beyers for their 80-acre farm with its 1800s German-built house. The house is unique because you can enter three floors from ground level. Ray's dad purchased the property in 1945 and sold it to Ray in 1968.

The Beyers with son, Clair, 21; milk 72 Holsteins, which produce 18,500 pounds of milk. They rent an additional 50 acres on which they grow corn and alfalfa. Their 60 head staunchion barn was built in 1979, and has a pipeline and a liquid manure Slurry Store. The Beyers have a Harvestore program, for high moisture corn, corn silage, and haylage.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Governor's Office

PROCLAMATION

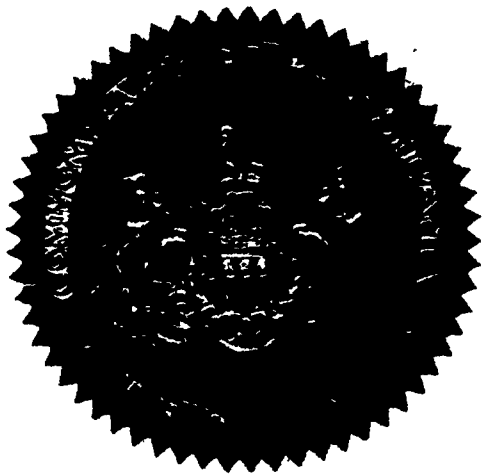

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK

Pennsylvania's dairy farmers take pride in the operation and appearance of their dairy farms. Their long hours and hard work play a vital role in the Commonwealth's continued ranking among the nation's five leading dairy states.

Each year, the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program selects the most attractive of the state's 13,700 dairy farms. Teams of judges working in 10 districts survey several hundred farms entered in the competition, rating each for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance. Ninety-one dairy farms were honored last year. Since the program was introduced three years ago, 280 farms have received this recognition.

Dairy farming has been a major component in agriculture's emergence as Pennsylvania's number one industry. Despite such adversities as last year's drought and this year's excessive rainfall, the state's dairy farms annually produce more than 10 billion pounds of milk and contribute some $1.3 billion to our economy.

In recognition of the dedication and commitment of our dairy farmers, I, Robert P. Casey, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim August 13 - 19, 1989, as DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK in Pennsylvania. I urge our citizens to support the state's dairy industry by enjoying delicious, nutritious Pennsylvania dairy products throughout the year and to witness the scenic beauty of many of Pennsylvania's dairy farms.

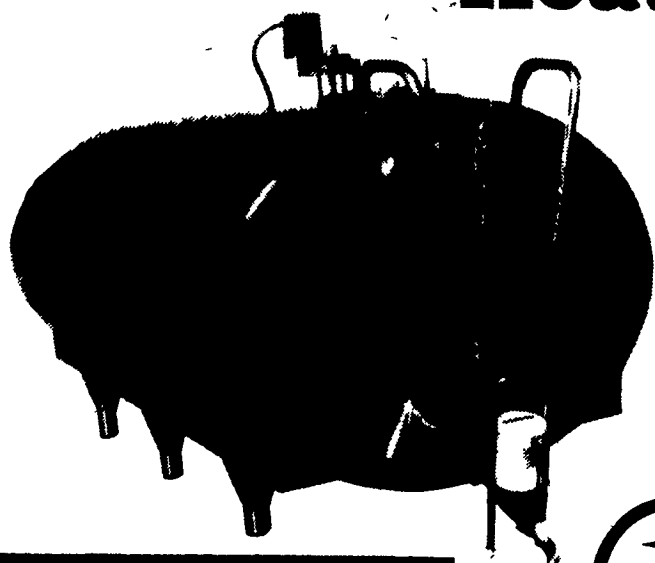

GIVEN under my hand and the Seal of the Governor, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-fourth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighty-nine, and of the Commonwealth the two hundred and fourteenth.

Cletus & Dale Balmer, Manheim

In 1979 brothers Cletus and Dale formed a partnership to take over the 101-acre family farm, which had been in the family since 1957. "You wouldn't know the place since we bought it," the brothers said. They put in new stanchions, added a California style barn, and stave silos.

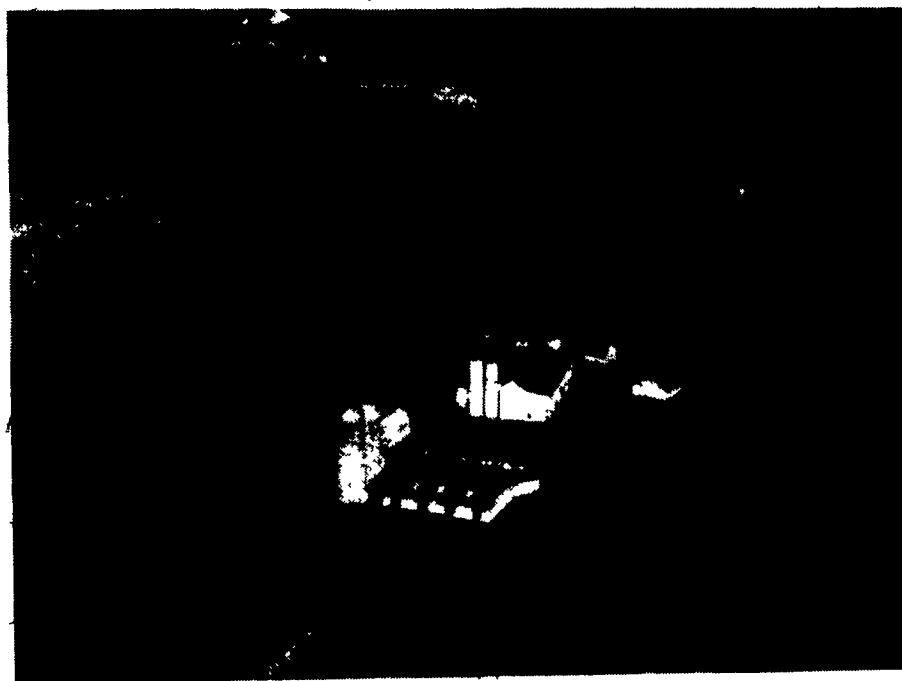

The Balmers diversified operation includes 138 Holsteins, 75 young stock, nine Linebacks, 3,700 hogs, and approximately 100 steers. They farm 40 acres of potatoes, which they wholesale, and they raise soybeans and cash crops of corn and alfalfa on an additional rented 475 acres.

Cletus is married to Jean and has three children. Dale plans to marry Sharon Helsey in September. Family members involved in the operation include dad, Cletus A., and sister Eileen Burkhart who helps with milking and the cows.

The Balmers raise and mix their own feed and are proud that they haven't needed to buy additional feed for several years.

Kreider Dairy Farms, Manheim

In 1930 Noah Kreider Sr. began the Kreider Dairy Farm operation with 12 cows. The farm now includes 2,500 acres with 900 Holsteins and 850 young stock. The herd averages 16,600 to 17,000 pounds.

Involved in the operation is daughter Sharon, sons Jim and Ron who are partners, a brother Richard and wife Pauline Kreider, a brother Rick and Deb and Dave Johnson.

The operation has two milking parlors where six fulltime employees milk around the clock.

Two barns house 440 free stalls. Each barn is 525 feet long. One barn has a slatted floor system to hold six to nine months of manure. The other has barn alley scrapers.

The feeding program includes using corn silage, high moisture corn, wet brewers grain and soybean meal. Silage is stored in trench silos and high moisture corn in the upright silos.

The Kreiders sell a large percentage of their milk and ice cream at their area retail stores and restaurants.

The Marlin Cassel Family, Manheim

The Cassels own 295 acres and rent an additional 110 acres. With 60 Holsteins and 30 young stock, they have a herd average of 16,200 and 610 fat content.

It's been a family farm for 46 years. The Cassels have a pipeline with four-unit milkers and they haul manure daily. They raise ear corn and alfafa. Family members involved in the operation include Mike, 21; and David, 19.

The attractive appearance of the farm is enhanced by wife Sue's green thumb ability, which is evident in the flower beds and landscaping surrounding their property.

Trout Spring Farm, Lancaster

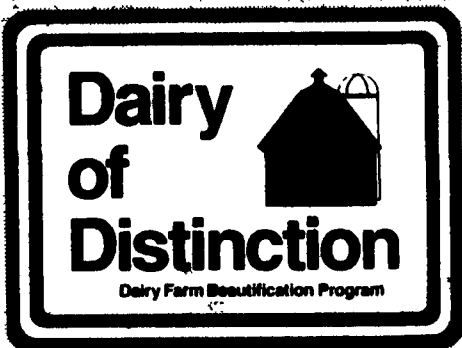

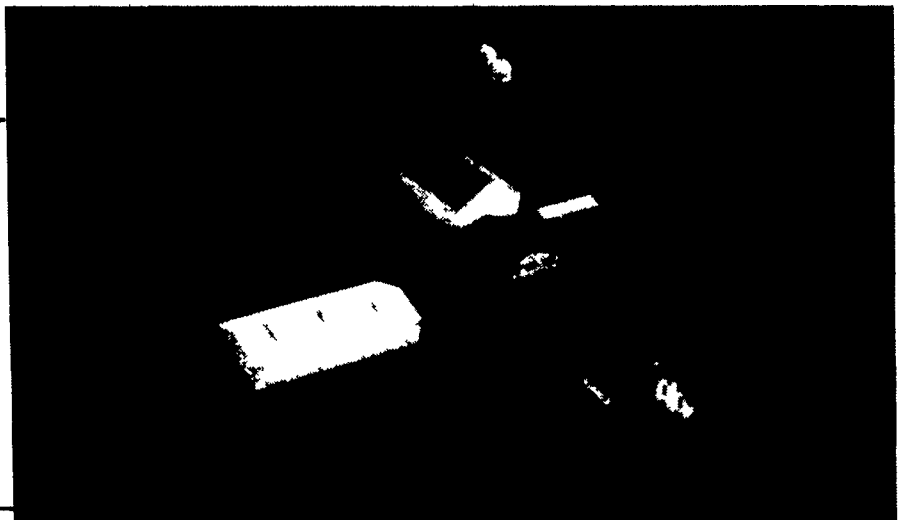

Deeded from the London Land Company, the 100-acre John and Betty Kreider farm now is enjoyed by the seventh generation of Kreiders. The large stone, brick and wood house and farm buildings are painted white and set in a pleasant valley with a pond in front. It is surrounded by a development.

Raleigh Rhodes, hired man, takes care of the 45 Holsteins, which average of 16,000 pounds. The farm has a glass pipeline and liquid manure storage underground.

Elvin Martin & Sons, Kinzer

A white frame barn and house that sets on a hill along the Old Philadelphia Pike, shows the beauty of the Pennsylvania Dutch countryside. The Martin's 56 milking Holsteins and 25 young stock averages 15,500 pounds.

The farm has been in the family since 1930. To increase the farm's attractiveness, the Martins removed old buildings. They put up a large silo for haylage this spring. They have another one for corn. The barn has tie stalls and a pipeline. They grow alfafa and corn on 80 acres.

David & Lois Landis, Lancaster

The Landis family owns 75 acres, rents 250, and custom farms 175 acres for Atlantic Breeders. The white house and the red and white barn has a ball diamond in front. The barn has 90 freestalls and a double four milking parlor. The family's 85 Holsteins are fed haylage, corn silage, high moisture corn, and alfafa.

The farm has been in the family for 50 years. Family members involved fulltime in the operation included mom, dad, Dan, 20; and Darvin, 18.

Harry W. & Elizabeth J. Zimmerman,
East Earl

The Zimmerman homestead has the distinction of being one of the two oldest bicentennial farms in the county. The house built in 1717 has a walk-in fireplace, and sets on 38 acres where corn and hay are grown for the Zimmermans 55 Holsteins. The herd averages 20,857 pounds of milk with 745 butterfat.

Two sons, Eric, 10; and Scott, 4; help their dad on the farm while their mom manages the Country Craft Shop located on the premises.

Glenn & Sharon Longnecker
Elizabethtown

Ever since the Longneckers married in 1969, they have been turning their Elizabethtown farm into a showcase. From laying a brick milkhouse to building a Nebraska style hog farm, and putting gravity gutters in barn, the Longneckers are do-it-yourselfers. Sharon said, "My husband sees something and knows how to do it."

Last year, a fire set by an arsonist destroyed their barn. Sharon said, "We rebuilt a 50x100 frame barn, but a heritage was destroyed. They don't built barns like that any more."

The Longneckers with children Jamie, 19; and Dolly, 16; milk 64 Holsteins, raise 1,500 hogs and 100 steers. They do not raise any of their young stock.

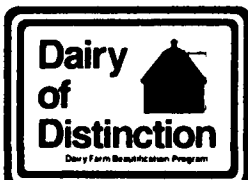

Glen's parents bought the farm in 1979 from his parents J. Howard and Pearl Longnecker, who had purchased it in 1941.

"We enjoy our place," Sharon said. "Everyone says it's beautiful place."

R. Earl & Mary Jane Sauder, Goodville

The Sauder's picturesque farm is located at the edge of town, some distance from the road. The house is surrounded by a grove of trees including magnolias, white maple, dogwood, birch, and evergreens. This prompted one visitor to refer to the farm as the Garden of Eden.

Sauders place their emphasis on quality, not quantity in the dairy operation. Their farm is not very large, but the Sauders take pride in giving individual attention to each cow. Their 40 Holsteins are fed roasted beans, flake grain, silage and alfalfa and are allowed to exercise and to graze outside every day of the year. Their cows even enjoy the luxury of fashionable tie-back curtains in the milkhous.

The farm has been in the family for 32 years. Family members involved in the operation include two sons, Earl Jr., 20; and Phillip, 16

"We love it," the Sauders said. "Our farm is in town. The neighbors are splendid. We strive for cleanliness because that's what makes our milk product desirable."

The Bio-Milker features a synchronized automatic air-inlet valve just under the teat tip. Air enters only during the release phase. A perfectly timed air burst quickly moves the milk away from the teat. This reduces the risk of infection by limiting teat impacts. Also, vacuum is utilized to provide a biologically desired pressure release of teat tissue. Westfalia's Bio-Milker is the ultimate in milking quality.

Michael & Nancy Jarrett, Montgomery

Located in the valley just south of Williamsport is the 460-acre farm of Michael & Nancy Jarrett in Montgomery. The herd of 130 head of Holsteins produces an average of 18,000 pounds of milk. Young stock number nearly 150 head. The Jarrett family including children Kathryn, 12; Melanie, 9; and Nathan, 6, do most of the work. Carl Jarrett, Michael's father bought the farm in 1947.

An old barn sits next to road along with their large old farmhouse. Behind those buildings is a new barn, just 4 1/2 years old. Old or new everything on the Jarrett farm is newly painted and kept neat. "We keep things as nice as we can. When you're selling a product you've got to make your place as attractive and as eye-appealing to the consumer as you can," said Nancy Jarrett.

Steppe Bros., Nisbet

Henry Steppe bought 300 acres nestled in West Branch valley, just west of Williamsport in 1958. Today that farm supports three sons and their families: Donald and Nancy; Carl and Barb and Thomas and Dorothy. The Steppes grow corn, hay and oats; milk 60 head of Holsteins and keep another 90 head in young stock. Herd average is 18,700 pounds of milk with 711 pounds of butterfat.

The Steppe Bros. Farm has always been a dairy farm and the owners plan to keep it that way. They like to keep it looking its best, too, and that means keeping the machinery in the buildings and keeping the lawn mowed.

Carl said they are experimenting with newspaper bedding. They arranged for their local fire company to hold a paper drive for them which resulted in 1.5 tons of paper. They use a single-bale bale chopper and bed with the shredded paper at night and sawdust in the morning.

Wayne Luckenbill, Montgomery

Wayne Luckenbill has an odd hobby — his wife and kids. Any free time he has away from farming are spent with his family. The problem is he just doesn't have much free time. Wayne, his wife, Linda and Brett, 6, and Jamie Lynn, 3, farm 100 acres near Montgomery. They milk 60 head and care for another 60 head of young stock. The rest of the story is their other farm of 300 acres where they milk another herd of 50 head and farm 85 acres of state gamelands.

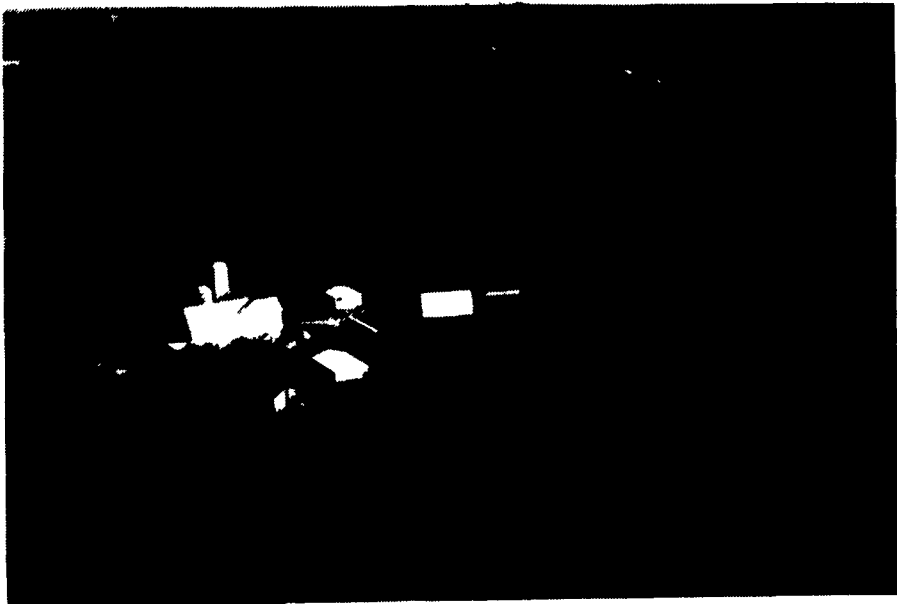

Linda, a full-time nurse and full-time mother, doesn't work on the farms. Wayne and a fulltime employee do the four milkings each day by rising at 5:30 a.m. and finishing at 8:30 p.m.

But all agree the long hours are worth it.

"The farm is beautiful. The buildings are immaculate," said Linda. "My husband is very fussy. But everybody always comments on the farm. It is as neat as a pin thanks to my husband."

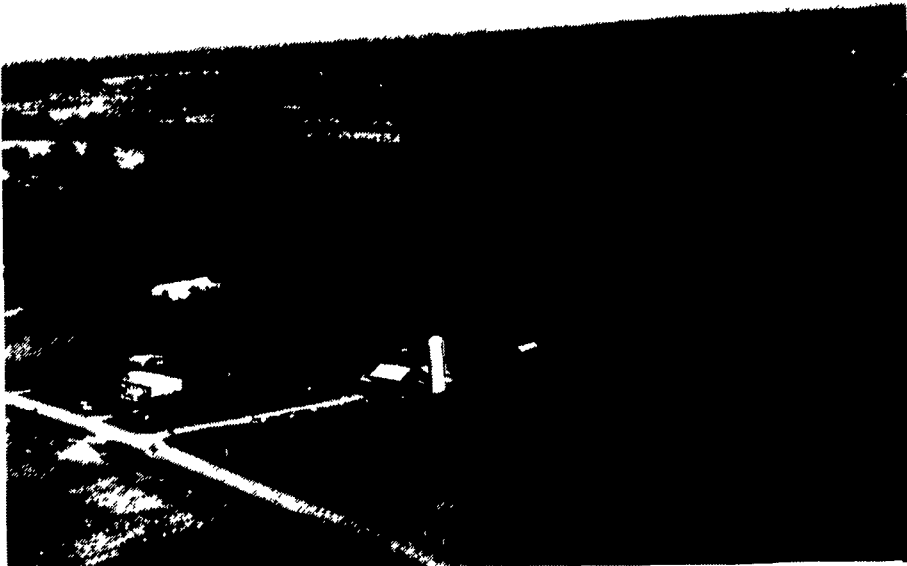

Mercer County

Dale Kepner, Sandy Lake

Dale and Sue Kepner, Sandy Lake, in Mercer County have 75 head of Holsteins in their dairy herd. They milk in a conventional tie-stall barn and the 38 milk cows average over 21,000 pounds of milk. The 120-acre farm was purchased by Dale's father in 1948. Dale and Sue have one child, Heidi, who is nine months old.

Bruce & Karen Philson, Mercer

The mixed herd of Holsteins and Jerseys was started five years ago when Bruce Philson, Mercer, bought 10 cows to milk while he worked off the farm. Now Philson and his wife Karen have built the herd up to 30 head and they are full-time farmers. They sold off all their young stock last year because the drought cut their feed supply. This year the corn looks well. The Philsons have two children: Brent 16 and Chad 12.

Mifflin County

Mr. & Mrs. David Spicher, Bellville

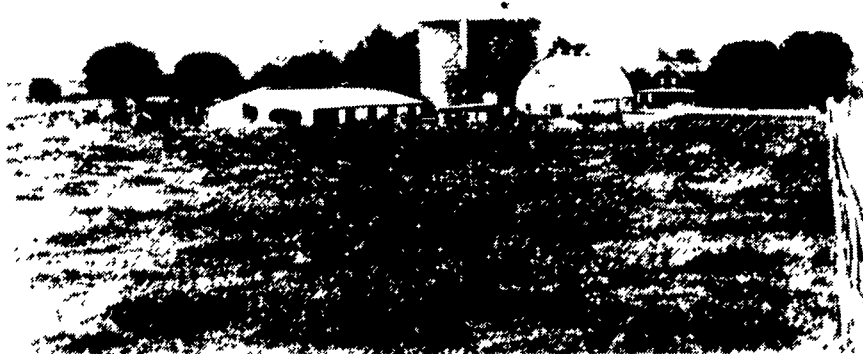

David and Effie Spicher, owners of Kish-View Farms in Belleville, are especially proud of a six-year-old cow in their herd. An Excellent Sexation daughter out of Glendale, her best record is 23,000 pounds of milk with 4.6 percent protein and 1,100 pounds of milk. Spicher flushed her for the first time this year and already has sold embryos to France and Germany. The remaining embryos are implanted within 12 of his own heifers.

Because the cows weren't in the parlor long enough to clean up their feed, Spicher installed a computer feeder two years ago that doles out high-moisture corn and 28-percent-protein pellets.

Spicher works with his sons Keith and Kent, while Suzanne is married to a dairy farmer, Jeannette is a nurse living in Illinois, and Jolene works for a travel agency.

Michael Smoker, Bellville

Michael and Marlene Smoker live in Big Valley on 109-year-old farm. Their dairy operation, Hollo Home Farm, consists of 100 acres of tillable land and 10 acres of pasture.

The Smokers have 65 registered Holstein cows and 40 head of young stock. The cows have a rolling herd average of 18,000 pounds of milk. Marlene helps milk and is charge of the calves. Shawn, 15, and Dana, 11, help their parents with barn chores.

The Smokers' next project is installing an earthenbank manure pit.

Kore Peachy, Milroy

Originally from the Belleville area, Kore J. and Sadie Peachey began Frog-Hollow Farm 24 years ago. It consists of 135 acres of tillable land and 75 acres of pasture and woodland and a herd of 62 registered Holstein cows.

The Peacheys work with their son Glen and his wife, Beverly. Corn and alfalfa are grown on the farm and fed as high-moisture corn or corn silage and haylage. Kore supplements with soybean, distillers grain, and minerals. He doesn't feed hay because he feels production and growth are just as good with the haylage, and feeding haylage is less work than baling hay.

Because their area is becoming more urbanized, Peachey has been cutting down on spraying pesticides and maintaining good neighbor relations.

"The people moving in are city people and don't know about farming. We try to work with them."—Kore J. Peachey

Northhampton County

Klein Farms, Easton

Red buildings, trimmed in white, against the backdrop of three silos, blue, blue-gray and white, with lots of trees and lots and lots of flowers earned the Klein Farms of Easton this distinction. Roy and Ruth Klein have been turning the soil here since 1935. Their son Layne and his wife Beth have joined the partnership. The 53-head herd of mostly registered Holsteins boasts a 21,400-pound average with 700 pounds of butterfat.

Schuylkill County

Dennis Rex, Adreas

Albert Miller and Dennis Rex farm 300 acres at Adreas in Schuylkill County and milk 35 registered Holsteins. They also have 35 head of young stock. The herd average is 22,500 pounds of milk and 815 pounds of butterfat. The prefix is Den-Al and they represent the fifth generation on the farm. The Millers have two children, Allen, 18 and Jennifer, 16. The Rexes have two children, Neil, 14 and Amy, 10.

Perry County

Keith & Edward Martin, Loysville

Keith and Edward Martin are a brother team who work in partnership on Merrimart Farms. The partnership began in 1973 with their father, William, and just last year the brothers began buying him out. Ed takes care of crop management, machinery maintenance and feeding, while Keith is the herdsman and finance man.

The operation consists of three farms, one of which is owned by William and houses the calves. The 170-head registered Holstein milking herd is on the main farm; older helpers and about 50 to 60 head of market steers are on the other.

The Martins farm 390 acres, rent another 200 acres, and have 110 acres in pasture and mostly woodland. Last summer, when they built onto a barn so they could expand the herd, they opened it for more ventilation. Curtains that unhook at the top and roll down were installed above hinged doors that open out for additional air flow.

Max Herman, Winfield

Near the New Berlin Mountain, in Winfield, lies the farm of Max and Frances Herman. Their operation consists of two farms with 25 registered Holstein cows and 15 heifers and calves on one and 50 beef cattle, mainly Herefords, on the other.

Son Randall works with Max, and the two farm 180 acres of land raising corn, alfalfa, clover, timothy, wheat, oats, and barley. The corn, oats, and wheat are ground for feed right on the farm. The Hermans own another 70 acres of land, which is used for pasture.

Somerset County

James & Barbara Brant, Berlin

Not only do James R. and Barbara Brant of Berlin have a beautiful farm, they also have an excellent dairy herd. Their 52 registered and grade Holsteins have a rolling herd average of 22,000 pounds of milk, 811 pounds butterfat, and 708 pounds of protein.

Stony Acres Farm is a century farm that was built by Barbara's great grandfather to replace log buildings. A barn was the first building erected, in 1894, and the house followed in 1896.

The Brants have three daughters, Cindy, Melissa, and Angle, all of whom are married and live somewhere on the 250-acre farm. Melissa's husband, Brad Fox, is the dairy's herdsman, and her four children like to help out.

The farm comprises 200 tillable acres, on which corn, oats, and alfalfa are raised, and 50 acres of pasture and woodland. Cows are fed four times a day with a balanced feeding program that is a total mixed ration. Manure is stored in an earthen dam pit with gravity flow.

Tom Barron & Sons, Somerset

The setting for Ruth and Thomas Barron's dairy operation is a 1857 Somerset farm with 70 acres of woods. Sons Bob and Mike work with Thomas caring for 45 milking Holsteins and about 45 head of young stock. They raise alfalfa, corn, and oats on their 200 acres of tillable land and feed everything they grow. The Barron family also includes Mark, Barry, and Tammy.

Lewis & Barbara Berkley, Berlin

Crystal Springs Farm is a fifth-generation farm that is home to the Berkley family: Lewis and Barbara and their three daughters, Michele, Nancy, and Gina. The Berkleys are very interested in breeding lines and currently have a BAA of 105.7 percent. In their April classification, the herd had seven Excellent cows, 24 Very Good cows, 23 Good Plus cows, and 10 Good cows. The herd's rolling herd average is 21,400 with 3.8 percent butterfat and 3.2 percent protein on 70 head.

The Berkleys, who have seven bulls in artificial insemination programs, are planning an October dispersal sale of their milking herd, which they will replace from among their 105 head of young stock.

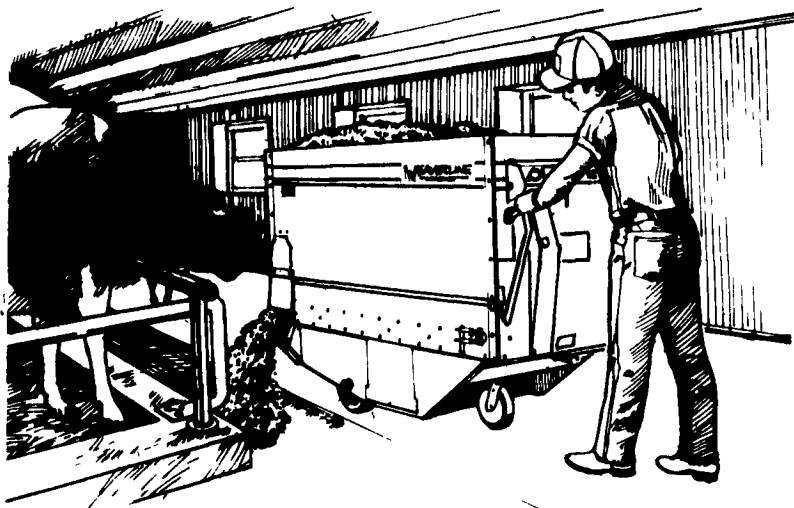

The farm was deeded in 1779 to a Gilsner, one of the original settlers in Brothers Valley Township, Berlin, as the Garden Spot Farm. One third of the farm's 600 acres is used to raise corn, some alfalfa, clover, barley, and oats. Another third is used as pasture, while the remainder is mountainland.

Dean Balty & Family, Covington

Dean and Emiline Balty own 270 acres and rent an additional 200 acres near Covington. It is the farm Elias Balty purchased over a century ago in 1856. Their son Gary, and daughter Ann Leigh still work on the farm and Eileen another daughter still pitches in when she's needed though she doesn't live on the farm anymore. Total milking cows and young stock on the farm numbers close to 115. The beautifully-kept farm situated near the Armenia mountains is the work of every family member wanting to make their farm the best it can be.

Bernard Courtney, Mansfield

The farm of Bernard Courtney and family lies along route 660 between routes 6 and 15 near Mansfield in Tioga County.

Union County

Alan Kaler, Millmont

Alan Kaler always wanted to be a farmer, even though he never lived on a working farm. A year out of high school, he is running a 64-head Holstein operation. He bought helper calves at auction and has been raising them to maturity.

Kaler's mother, Faye, was born on a dairy farm and helps him with the milking. He raises corn, soybeans, oats, wheat, and alfalfa on 156 acres, of which 70 acre rented.

Melvin Musser, Millmont

Melvin and Elsie Musser farm nearly 70 acres in southwest Union County, one mile southwest of Laurieton. Together with their six children, Jonathan, Timothy, Thomas, Sarah, Daniel, and Rebecca for more than six years they have grown corn and alfalfa with some wheat and soybeans. On their 40 head of Holsteins the Mussers produce more than 20,000 pounds of milk and 779 pounds of butterfat.

Nissley's Dairy Farm, Mifflinburg

Nissley's Dairy Farm is in the rolling hills of Mifflinburg. It is there that Mervin B. and Esther Nissley milk cows and raise crops. They moved here from Lancaster County about 17 years ago because they wanted a bigger operation. They got it with 180 acres on the home farm and an additional about 120 acres rented.

Their son Milford and his wife, Marian, are in partnership with the Nissleys while son-in-law Dan Miller, who is married to Luella, helps too. Of the Nissleys' 10 other children, most still are involved in agriculture in some manner. Thelma and Joyce are married to farmers.

The farm's 104 milking Holsteins have a rolling herd average of 17,364 with 3.7 percent butterfat and 3.2 percent protein. The free-stall barn features a computer feeder, which dispenses all protein sources for the cows. Milford, the herd manager, also does the artificial inseminating himself.

The brother and sister team of Paul and Carol Sheroshek farm 245 acres of corn and alfalfa to feed their 115 head of Holsteins. They have 60 cows in the milking herd that average 18,000 pounds of milk. The farm located at Forest City in Wayne County has been in the family since 1922.

Westmoreland County

Harold & Veronica Miskovish, Donegal

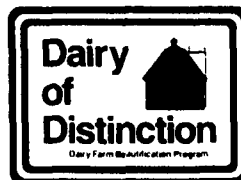

Harold and Veronica Miskovish at Donegal built their farm into a very productive operation. While the farm was in the family since 1908, it was not farmed for a number of years in the 1960s and Harold started on a rented farm and then started the dairy at home in 1975. The herd of 60 Holsteins consume the feed from the 80 acres on the farm. They raise corn and alfalfa and put spring oats in the silo. Son Paul also works on the farm.
